Secure E-mail Archival and E-Discovery Services

Litigation Solution, Inc., has announced the DocuLogix e-mail intelligence platform powered by Clearwell. DocuLogix provides e-mail archival and e-discovery services on a hosted secure platform, complimenting LSI's Forensic Vault services. DocuLogix provides a Web-based, enterprise-class solution for hosting, processing and management of e-mail archives. It has the ability to process and search e-mails and their attachments in native format as well as review e-mails and attachments from other e-discovery vendors. Key features include tagging for privilege or responsiveness in native formats, exporting production sets in native PST format, which would import into most e-discovery platforms, and a scalable hosted environment. Pricing for the services begins at $250 per gigabyte of storage and includes unlimited reviewer licenses.

Upgraded Legal Collaboration Extranet

Catalyst Repository Systems has unveiled Catalyst XE 5.4, the latest version of its collaboration extranet system. This new version builds on Catalyst's existing secure, Web-based extranet, adding features designed to further improve lawyer productivity. For example, with the batch upload feature, users can drag and drop documents into repository folders, reducing administrative setup and the lag time between receipt and review of documents. Users can also e-mail documents and attachments into repository folders to preserve e-mail communications and rapidly add documents to the repository. A new automated calendar/task e-mail reminder feature helps prevent missed deadlines, and can be used for individuals or working groups. In addition, users can now clone standard template for case and matter folder structures for reuse, and the new version includes organization-based audit reports for deal rooms.

Single-Source Regulations Research

To help researchers spend less time searching and more time analyzing search results, Thomson West has created Regulations Suite, a single online source for all state and federal regulations and related materials. One search delivers all regulations governing a topic from all 50 states, select sections of the Code of Federal Regulations, state administrative agency decisions and opinions, and links to case law, statutes and related regulations in one location. For the first time, regulatory researchers can view state and federal regulations for a topic from the same table of contents. Plus, a new tab feature provides instant access to the three specialized databases containing securities, employment and insurance regulation information, including authoritative analysis and shortcut links to related materials.
