Ethics and Local Government Pay to Play: When Do Public Officials Cross the Line?

Friday, October 2, 2009 (12:15pm – 1:15pm Eastern Time)

"Pay to play" politics over the last several years has taken center stage highlighted by the alleged attempt to sell President Obama's former senate seat in Illinois. The issue and how states and local governments are dealing with it is timely and will appeal to all attorneys, both those in government and those that advise corporate and individual clients who come into contact with politicians or the political process. A panel of distinguished speakers will address when the normal political process crosses the line into pay to play, where the line becomes blurred, and what is being done to limit such practices. For more information, visit <http://www.abanet.org/cle/programs/t09elg1.html>.

ABA JOURNAL AND WEB SITE SPOTLIGHT LEGAL REBELS

Call them "rebels with a cause" – legal professionals who are also leading innovators. Over the next three months, the Journal will profile 50 of the profession's leading innovators on www.LegalRebels.com, with at least three profiles added every week. Each profile will include multimedia features such as video interviews, podcasts, photo slideshows and live chats. Also online is the Legal Rebels Manifesto (www.LegalRebels.com/Manifesto) – a statement about what it means to be a Legal Rebel. It was posted as a wiki, and over the course of a month, was edited 65 times by the Journal's community of readers. Visitors can now sign the Manifesto, to show they're committed to innovation in their corners of the legal profession.

Senior Lawyers Division

Opportunities in Elder Law

The ABA Senior Lawyer's Division (SLD) would like to invite law students interested in Elder Law to join the Senior Lawyer's Division for the low annual price of only $5.00. If you are interested in Elder Law as a career or as an area of pro bono work in the future, you should join the SLD. Given the fact that the elderly population is expected to double between 2000 and 2025, students interested in pursuing a general practice career should consider gaining experience in Elder Law through membership in the SLD. For more information, visit <http://www.abanet.org/sld/home.html>.

September is National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month Celebrates 20 Years of Observance

"Join the Voices for Recovery: Together We Learn, Together We Heal."

The goal for Recovery Month is to broaden support and increase access for those in recovery and to highlight the importance of the education and treatment of substance abuse, a national health crisis. The ABA Standing Committee on Substance Abuse encourages lawyers and law students to get involved in their communities and schools to promote awareness about the issues of substance abuse and addiction. Last year, an outstanding 853 total events were held during Recovery Month that reached one million Americans. Please download a toolkit on ABA's website at <http://www.recoverymonth.gov/Recovery-Month-Kit.aspx> and join the voices for recovery for this September.

Campbell Law School Opens its doors in Raleigh, North Carolina

Campbell Law School is opening its doors in Raleigh, NC, previously the largest state capital without a law school, on Monday, September 14. Almost three years in the making, the school is leaving Buies Creek – a relocation that will bring unprecedented opportunities to both students and the legal community. Benefits of this bold move are already apparent, even before the school opens its Raleigh doors. The Law School's entering 2009 class, the first group of students who will spend all three years in Raleigh, boasts the strongest academic credentials in the school's 33-year history.

Arizona State University

Volunteer Legal Assistance for Artist

A new organization has been formed at Arizona State University - the Volunteer Legal Assistance for Artist. This is a multifaceted organization dedicated to serving the local arts community. One initiative that the organization plans to implement is to do community outreach at local arts events, including art walks, exhibits, music clubs, film festivals, etc and hand out fliers, brochures, and offering legal education to artists. The organization also plans on organizing a biannual clinic for local artists (know your rights) event and will be working to advance legislation for public art parks, tax credits for filming, and funding to build sound stages in the Valley. For more information, visit www.artsadvocacy.org.
