CONTENTS

Kate and Lisa’s Acknowledgments ix
About the Authors xiii
Foreword xv
Introduction: Navigating the Collaborative River xix
Above and Below the Surface xix
Who We Are xix
Why We Wrote This Book xxi

Section I Understanding Our Clients and Ourselves 1

Chapter 1 Individual Dynamics 3
Portraits of Two Collaborative Clients 3
The Influence of Early Experience 5
The Showdown Between Good and Bad Experience 9
Emotional Defenses 11
   The Impact of Defenses on Our Capacity to Function 11
Mental Health and Ill-Health 13
Review 15

Chapter 2 Couple Dynamics 17
How Couples Come Together and How They Come Apart 17
Projection and the “Lock and Key” Concept 18
Isabel and Alan: Portrait of a Divorcing Couple 24
   Isabel and Alan’s Lock and Key 26
   The Lock and Key Manifested in the Collaborative Process 27
CHAPTER 3    THE COLLABORATIVE CONTAINER 31

Establishing the Macrocontainer 37
1. Working with Transference and Countertransference 37
2. Using the Collaborative Protocols 44
3. Considering Your Professional Setting 45
4. Holding Regular Meetings 47
5. Paying Attention to Fees and Fee Policies 48

Establishing the Microcontainer 51
1. Staying in Role 51
2. Maintaining a Client-Centered Approach 52
3. Keeping Small Talk to a Minimum 52
4. Being Enthusiastic about the Collaborative Process, but Not Celebratory 53
5. Listening Nonjudgmentally 53
6. Conveying Empathy (versus Sympathy) 54
7. Setting Limits 55
8. Respecting Silence 55
9. Using Reality Testing 56
10. Using Paraphrasing and Reframing 56
11. Making Links 57

CHAPTER 4    ASSESSMENT AND INTERVENTION: THE RIGIDITY/ FLEXIBILITY CONTINUUM 61

A Continuum Model of Transformative Capacity 61
The Rigidity/Flexibility Continuum: A New Concept 63
Using the Continuum to Adapt Our Techniques to Individual Clients 64
1. Staying in Role, Minimizing Small Talk, Not Treating the Process as Celebratory/Maintaining a Client Focus 64
2. Nonjudgmental Listening 65
3. Empathy 65
4. Limit Setting 65
5. Silence 65
6. Reality Testing 66
7. Paraphrasing and Reframing 66
8. Making Links 66
Working with Clients Along the Continuum: Three Vignettes 67
SECTION II  APPLYING OUR UNDERSTANDING TO THE COLLABORATIVE PROCESS  77

CHAPTER 5  THE COMPONENTS OF THE COLLABORATIVE PROCESS  79
First Individual Meeting with a Client 81
   Everything Has Meaning 82
   Your Client’s Story 82
   Explaining the Process More Fully 83
   Hot Spots and Coping Strategies 85
   Beginning to Develop a Collaborative Alliance with Your Client 87
The First Team Conversation Prior to a Team Meeting: Coming Together as a Team 88
The First Team Meeting and Signing of the Participation Agreement 92
Brainstorming, Option Development, and Option Evaluation 96
The Flip Chart 98
The Mission Statement 101
Ancillary Client Meetings and Contact Throughout the Process 103
   Emotional Containment and E-mail Communication 104
Developing Your Roadmap: Who Attends Each Meeting? 106

CHAPTER 6  COLLABORATIVE TEAMS: FUNCTION AND DYSFUNCTION  111
Healthy Team Functioning 111
Team Problems Are Normal 112
Team Dysfunction: The Interaction of Client Dynamics and Team Dynamics 115
Common Patterns of Team Dysfunction 118
   The Divided Team 118
   The Rogue Professional 122
   The Vilified Client 127
Team Dynamics: A Summary 130
CHAPTER 7  "LAND MINES" IN COLLABORATIVE PRACTICE  135
CLASP: An Approach to Managing Collaborative Land Mines  138
Helping Clients to Talk to Each Other about Explosive Issues  145
Factors That Might Determine if a Land Mine Will End a Case  149
Summary  150

CHAPTER 8  THE VOICE OF THE CHILD: THE CRUCIAL ROLE OF THE CHILD SPECIALIST  155
The Added Value of the Child Specialist  155
The Importance of the Child’s Voice: A Vignette  158

CHAPTER 9  DEVELOPING A DEEP AND DURABLE PARENTING PLAN  163
A “Custody Agreement” versus a “Parenting Plan”  163
Every Plan Has Its Own “Flavor”  164
   The Rigidity/Flexibility Continuum Applied to Co-Parenting  166
Parenting Planning Meetings: Navigating the Emotional Dynamics in the Room  171
Final Thoughts on Parenting Planning  185

CONCLUSION  187
References  189

INDEX  193