ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Amy E. Davis is a partner and shareholder of Christiansen Davis Bullock, LLC, a full service law firm in Dallas, Texas. She tries cases for businesses and professionals—and she helps her clients stay out of court, too. She cut her litigation teeth defending and prosecuting trade secrets cases, primarily in the context of corporate raiding lawsuits. Her practice is now more broadly-based but she remains fond of trade secret disputes. Amy frequently comments on legal issues in the media and contributes to legal publications. She graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law.

Paula M. Bagger is a partner in Cooke Clancy & Gruenthal LLP, a Boston, Massachusetts, law firm specializing in business, commercial, and other complex civil litigation. Paula represents public companies, financial institutions, small business, and individuals in cases that frequently involve allegations of fraud, misappropriation, and unfair business practices. A member of the ABA Litigation Section, she is a co-editor of the Commercial and Business Litigation Subcommittee’s newsletter and a frequent contributor to its website. Paula received her J.D. degree cum laude from the University of Chicago Law School, where she was an editor of the Law Review and a member of Order of the Coif.

Joanna H. Kim is a partner at Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, LLP in its Los Angeles office. Joanna represents clients in a wide range of intellectual property and business litigation matters, including copyright, trademark and patent infringement; trade secrets misappropriation; unfair competition; and royalty, licensing, and other contractual and business disputes. Joanna is a former engineer in the environmental and aerospace industry, with a degree in chemical engineering from the University of California at Berkeley. Joanna graduated from Loyola Law School, where she was a member of the St. Thomas More Law Honor Society and was the chief note and comment editor of the Entertainment Law Journal.
Jeffrey K. Riffer is a partner in Elkins, Kalt, Weintraub, Reuben and Gartside, LLP, based in Los Angeles, California. Jeff is a business litigator and regularly handles trade secret lawsuits. He previously was the Chair, and later Co-Chair, of the ABA Litigation Section’s Trade Secrets and Unfair Practices Subcommittee. Jeff received a B.S. degree in Accounting from Indiana University, passed the Certified Public Accountant examination, and received a J.D. degree from Indiana University School of Law, where he was Managing Editor of the Indiana Law Journal and a member of Order of the Coif.