CHAPTER TWO
Petition to Institute Proceedings

I. Introduction 16
   A. Context 16
   B. Scope of Chapter 17

II. Mechanics of Filing 17
   A. How to File 17
   B. Form Requirements 18
   C. Service and Payment of Fees/Filing Date 19

III. Contents of the Petition 21
   A. Mandatory Notices 21
      1. Time for Filing 23
      2. Contents of Motion 23
   B. Grounds for Standing 25
      1. Claims Challenged 26
      2. Statutory Grounds 26
      3. Claim Construction 27
      4. How Claims Are Unpatentable 28
      5. Exhibits 29
   C. Identification of Challenge 26
      1. Claims Challenged 26
      2. Statutory Grounds 26
      3. Claim Construction 27
      4. How Claims Are Unpatentable 28
      5. Exhibits 29
   D. Motion to Correct Clerical or Typographical Mistake 36

IV. Who May File and When 36
   A. Inter Partes Review 36
      1. Timing 36
      2. Declaratory Judgment Bar 37
      3. One-Year Bar 43
      4. Joinder under 35 U.S.C. § 315(c) 54
      5. Final Written Decision Estoppel 64
   B. Post-Grant Review 65
      1. Timing 65
      2. Declaratory Judgment Bar 66
      3. Final Written Decision Estoppel 66
   C. Covered Business Method Review 67
      1. Timing 67
      2. CBM Requirements 67
      3. Two-Part Test for CBM Eligibility 69
      4. Declaratory Judgment Bar 76
      5. Final Written Decision Estoppel 76

V. Real Party in Interest 77
   A. Real Party in Interest: Overview, Implications, and Analysis of Statutory Foundation and Purpose of Real Party in Interest Requirement 77
      1. RPI Is Different from Privity 77
2. Threshold Issue 77
3. Consequences of Failure to List All Real Parties in Interest 77
4. Estoppel Implications of Real Party in Interest Requirement 78
5. Declaratory Judgment Bar and One-Year Bar 78
6. Remedy for Failure to List Real Parties in Interest 78
7. Burden of Proof 79
8. Who or What Is a Real Party in Interest? General Considerations in the Words of the Board 79
9. Taylor Factors and ZOLL Subfactors 80
10. Control Is the Most Important Factor 81
11. Miscellaneous Notes on RPI 81

B. Real Party in Interest Applied: Corporate Parent-Subsidiary Relationships 82
1. ZOLL Lifecor: Four Subfactors for Determining Control 82
2. Atlanta Gas Light: Terminating IPR after Institution Due to Failure to List Real Parties in Interest 84
3. Daifuku and Galderma: Distinguishing Theoretical Control from Practical Control 86
4. Daifuku: Real Party in Interest Parent Corporation with Only Theoretical Control Was Not a Real Party in Interest; Control in Practice Was Necessary 87
5. Galderma: “Power to Call the Shots” by a Parent Company/Executive Indicates Real Party in Interest 89
6. Possible Inconsistency between Daifuku and Galderma 90
7. Zerto: Parent Company Found to Be a Real Party in Interest Due to Significant Overlap in Management, Operations, and Marketing 91
9. LG Display: Parent Corporation That Owns 37 Percent of Petitioner Was Not an RPI 93
10. TRW: A General Parent-Subsidiary Relationship Was Insufficient to Show That a Parent Corporation Is an RPI 93
11. Amazon: Board Denies Institution Due to Intervening Subsidiaries That Own 100 Percent of One Petitioner 94
C. Real Party in Interest Applied: Mixtures of Corporate Parent-Subsidiary Relationships and Litigation

1. Zhejian Yankon: A Parent Company That Shared Key Personnel with Subsidiary and Acted in Unison with Subsidiary during Licensing Negotiations and Litigation Was an RPI

2. FedEx: Subsidiaries Were Not RPIs, Even When Petitioner and Subsidiaries Shared Executives and Were Co-Defendants in Litigation

D. Real Party in Interest Applied: Litigation Relationships, Joint Defense Groups, and Funding by Third Parties

1. Nichia: A Subsidiary Company That Was a Co-Defendant in Litigation Was Not Necessarily a Real Party in Interest

2. First Data Corporation and RPX v. Virnetx: Funding an IPR Indicates That the Funding Entity Was an RPI

3. Unified Patents v. Dragon Intellectual Property and Unified Patents v. Clouding IP: Membership in an NPE Deterrence Group Did Not Necessarily Indicate a Real Party in Interest Relationship If There Was No Evidence of Funding or Controlling the Specific Proceeding at Issue

4. Participation in a Joint Defense Agreement Is Not Necessarily Indicative of a Real Party in Interest Relationship

VI. Privity

A. Privity in General

1. A Privy Is Not the Same as a Real Party in Interest

2. Purposes of Privity

3. Effects of Privity Relationship on Estoppel and Statutory Bars

4. General Definitions of Privity, in the Words of the Board

5. Privity as Defined with Respect to the Taylor v. Sturgell Factors

6. A Privity Relationship Exists If the Petitioner Has Had an Opportunity to Litigate

7. Privity Can Be Based on a Contractual Relationship, or with Respect to a Particular Property Interest

8. Time Frame During Which Privity Must Exist
9. Privities Acquired after Filing of a Petition
   Are Immaterial 105
10. The Board May Grant Additional Discovery
    Concerning Privity 105

B. Specific Applications of Privity 106
   1. Overlap between RPI and Privity, and Differences 106
   2. Aruze Gaming Privity Analysis: The Board Analyzed Privity in a Manner Similar to Its Analysis of Real Parties in Interest 106
   3. Nestle USA v. Steuben Foods Privity Analysis:
      Manufacturers/Sellers Were Not in Privity
      with Their Customers 107
      Analysis: Customers Were Generally Not in Privity with Sellers 107
   5. Johnson Health Privity Analysis: Parent/Subsidiary Companies That Act in Conjunction and Have a Close Relationship May Be Privies 108
   6. ZOLL Lifecor Corp. v. Philips Electronics Privity
      Analysis: A Subsidiary Company Was a Privy of the Parent Company Where the Parent Controlled the Subsidiary, and the Two Companies Acted in Conjunction 109
      Ongoing but Incomplete Merger between Companies
      Is Not Necessarily a Privity Relationship 109
   8. Semiconductor Components v. In-Depth Test LLC:
      When All Necessary Prerequisites for the Merger Was Satisfied, Such That the Merger Was Substantially
      Complete, the Merging Companies Were in Privity,
      Even If the Merger Was Not Yet Closed 110

VII. Decisions to Institute, Including RPI and Privity
     Determinations, Are Non-Appealable 111

CHAPTER THREE

Patent Owner Preliminary Response to Petition

Prior to Institution 113

I. Introduction 114

II. Considerations for Filing a Preliminary Response 114
   A. Risks Associated with Not Filing a Preliminary Response 115
   B. Challenging the Real Party in Interest 116
   C. Petitioner Reply to Patent Owner Preliminary Response 120
   D. Waiver of Patent Owner Preliminary Response 120
III. Procedural Aspects of Filing the Preliminary Response 122
   A. Mandatory Notices 122
   B. How and When to File 123
   C. Word Limit 127

IV. Content of the Preliminary Response 128
   A. The Preliminary Response Should Be a Persuasive Brief 128
   B. Common Issues Raised in Patent Owner Preliminary Responses 129
   C. New Testimonial Evidence 130
   D. Claim Construction 132
   E. Challenging Prior Art Grounds 134
   F. Challenging Non-Prior Art Grounds 135
   G. Procedural Challenges 136
      1. Incorporation by Reference 136
      2. Evidentiary Challenges 136
   H. Statutory Bar and Estoppel Challenges 137
      I. Statement of Material Facts 138

V. Disclaiming Patent Claims 138

VI. Material to Exclude in Preliminary Response 140

CHAPTER FOUR
Board Decision on Institution of Proceeding 141

I. Introduction 142

II. Mechanics 142

III. Board’s Authority to Consider AIA Proceedings 143
   A. Constitutionality 143
   B. Director May Delegate Authority to Board 145
   C. Sovereign Immunity 146

IV. Review of Institution Decision 148
   A. Supreme Court 148
   B. Federal Circuit 148
      1. Decisions to Institute or Not to Institute IPR and PGR Generally Not Appealable 148
      2. Variation for Decisions to Institute or Not to Institute CBM Review 155
      3. Relationship of Board Adjudicatory Authority to Related District Court Actions 157
   C. USPTO—Request for Rehearing 157
      1. General Examples Where Rehearing Was Granted 158
      2. Examples Where Rehearing Was Granted for the Petitioner 159
      3. Example Where Rehearing Was Granted for the Patent Owner 163
V. Multiple Proceedings—Effects of Institution on Other Proceedings

A. Factors the Board Considers for Subsequent IPRs
   1. Whether the Same or Substantially the Same Prior Art or Arguments Previously Were Presented to the Office
   2. The Nvidia Factors
   3. Whether the Subsequent Petition Merely Attempts to Correct Substantive Deficiencies of Art Raised in the Previous Petition
   4. Whether the Asserted Ground of Unpatentability in the Subsequent Petition Has Been Addressed Substantively by the Board in the Previous Petition
   5. The Facts of Each Case, the Burden on the Parties and the Board, and the Public Interest

B. Motions to Stay and Stays of Other USPTO Proceedings
   1. Reexaminations of the Patent at Issue
   2. Reissue of the Patent at Issue
   3. Proceedings Involving Other Patents
   4. Staying Concurrent IPRs and CBMs of the Patent at Issue

C. Motion for Adverse Judgment and Reissue Application

VI. Scope of Trial

A. Board May Adopt Its Own Claim Constructions
B. Grounds
   1. IPR
   2. PGR
   3. CBM
C. Redundancy

VII. Scheduling Order

PART 2  SUBSTANTIVE, PROCEDURAL, AND EVIDENTIARY MATTERS CONSIDERED DURING TRIAL PROCEEDINGS

CHAPTER ELEVEN
Claim Construction 333

I. Introduction 334
   A. Different Standard/Similar Constructions 337
   B. Different Standard/Different Constructions 339
   C. Same Standard/Different Constructions 341
II. More on the Application of BRI—Generally 342
   A. Claim Terminology Analysis 344
      1. Means-Plus-Function Claim Elements 347
   B. Specification Disclosure Analysis 349
      1. Design Patent 352
   C. Prosecution History Analysis 352
   D. Extrinsic Record 357
III. Related Proceedings 358
IV. Federal Circuit Review of Board Claim Construction—Administrative Law Error 358

CHAPTER TWELVE
Patentability of Challenged Claims 361

I. Introduction 362
   A. Ineligible Subject Matter 363
   B. Patent-Eligible Subject Matter 366
   C. Federal Circuit Review of CBM and Section 101 Determinations 368
III. Patentability Determinations Based on Anticipation 370
   A. Federal Circuit Review of Anticipation Decisions 373
   B. Anticipation by Inherent Disclosure 374
      1. Use of Experts in Anticipation to Prove Inherency 379
   C. Inherent Disclosure—How It Relates to Obviousness 380
IV. Patentability Based on Obviousness Determinations 382
   A. Determining the Scope and Content of the Prior Art—Analogous Art 383
THE ESSENTIAL CASE LAW GUIDE TO PTAB TRIALS

B. Ascertaining the Differences between the Claimed Invention and the Prior Art 387
C. Resolving the Level of Ordinary Skill in the Pertinent Art 389
   1. Substitution of a Known Element for Another 390
   2. Combination Based on Similar Structure and Function Allowed 392
   3. Combination Not Allowed Because of Different Structure and Function 393
D. Non-Obviousness: Secondary Considerations 395
   1. Commercial Success 398
   2. Long-Felt but Unsolved Needs 399
   3. Failure of Others 401
   4. Copying 402
   5. Praise by Others 403
   6. Unexpected Results 404
E. Design Patents 405
F. Federal Circuit Reversals of Board Decision 406
   1. No Shifting of the Burden of Proof on Obviousness from the Petitioner to the Patent Owner, and Sufficient Rationale for Combining Needs to Be Articulated 406
   2. Use of Common Sense Needs to Be Supported by a Reasoned Explanation That Avoids Conclusory Generalizations 408
   3. Reliance on Only a Conclusory Statement by an Expert That the Modification of the Prior Art References Would Provide “Additional Information” Is Insufficient; a Reasoned Basis for Finding Obviousness Is Needed 410
   4. Errors in Consideration of the Record Warranting Remand 410
   5. Board Must Create a Sufficiently Clear Record to Support Its Decision 411
V. Section 112 413
   A. Section 112 Compliance: Enablement 413
   B. Section 112 Compliance: Adequate Written Description 415
   C. Reversible Error in Section 112 Written-Description Analysis 416
   D. Section 112: Indefiniteness 417
   E. Indefiniteness as Related to Means-Plus-Function Elements 419
