ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Tonbofa Eva Ashimi is the Managing Partner of the Nigerian law firm of Edward Ekiyor & Co., based in Bayelsa and Lagos States. She holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Lagos, Nigeria, and a Masters in Law from Harvard Law School. She is licensed to practice in New York and in Nigeria. Ms. Ashimi’s practice spans Nigeria’s energy, oil, gas, environmental, and finance laws. She works closely with regulators in these sectors and has been part of teams drafting rules guiding operations in these sectors, such as the Nigerian Electricity Supply Industry Standards. She also advises corporations sponsoring projects in the energy and natural resources sectors on Nigerian law issues. Ms. Ashimi is involved in ensuring the enforcement of environmental laws through Nigerian Courts.

Başak Başoğlu is a member of the Law Faculty at Istanbul Bilgi University. She received her law degree and JD from Istanbul University and her LLM in business law from Istanbul Bilgi University. She specializes in the field of tort law, environmental law, contract law, international sales law, and family law. She has various publications, including two books in Turkish, Specific Performance under Turkish Law and Comparative Law and Civil Liability for Environmental Damages. She was admitted to the Istanbul Bar Association in 2005.

Daniel Basurto Gonzalez is Founding Partner of the Environmentally Sustainable Development Initiative (Iniciativa para el Dessarrollo Ambiental y Sustentable, S.C., or IDEAS) law firm in Mexico City and graduated from the Universidad Anahuac Mexico Norte, 1983. He has been awarded specialized diplomas and recognitions in environmental law and has practiced in this field since 1987. He developed and coordinated the Environmental Law Diploma Program of the Universidad Panamericana from 2000 to 2006 and was a member of the Teaching Staff for Postgraduate Studies of the Escuela Libre de Derecho and the Universidad Panamericana. He has mainly advised the private sector, basically in industrial activities and tourist and real estate developments. In his participation with the industrial and service sectors, he has acted as Chairman of COPARMEX’s and CONCAMIN’s Ecology Commissions. Mr. Gonzalez was the Coordinator of the Environmental Law Commission of the Mexican Bar Association for five years, currently chairs the Environment and Energy International Environmental Matters Commission. of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC-MEXICO), and is a member of its Executive Board. He is also an active member of the ANADE. As to NAFTA, he has been a dynamic participant, representing private sector entities, and has been a member of the Joint Public Advisory Committee (JPAC) and NAFTA’s Decade Revision Committee (TRAC). At the international level, he is an active member of the American Bar Association and of the International Bar Association.

Shephali Mehra Birdi is a Principal Associate at the Gurgaon office of Kochhar & Co. Her areas of expertise include environment and natural resource law, life sciences, and drugs and pharmaceutical law. Ms. Birdi regularly advises clients on complex environmental issues and compliance matters, including environmental pollution, environment impact assessment, commercial utilization of biological resources, forests clearance, law and policy on gene technology, and genetically modified products, including food articles and seeds. She works on areas concerning regulation of hazardous wastes, hazardous chemicals, dangerous goods, electronic wastes, medical wastes, and various industry-specific licensing, approval, reporting, mitigation, product recall, and related aspects. She has also been involved in several environmental due diligence exercises. Ms. Birdi is co-author of the Environmental Law Reporter (ELR) India Update, a quarterly brief of Indian environmental law and policy updates, published by Environment Law Institute, USA. She has co-authored the EIA TRACK India pages for the website http://www.eiatrack.org.

Carl Boeuf is an Associate in the Environment & Operational Regulatory Group at Travers Smith LLP, London. Mr. Boeuf specializes in environmental, health and safety, and product stewardship matters. He advises at EU and UK level, providing support on transactions, crisis management response (including in relation to environmental, product safety and workplace incidents), commercial litigation, regulatory compliance, and defense. Mr. Boeuf also advises on environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues, including in relation to corporate reporting. He has written a number of articles on environmental law for UK legal publications, is co-author of the UK Environment chapter of Getting the Deal Through, and is an active member of the UK Environmental Law Association.

Edward (Ted) Boling is Deputy Solicitor for Parks & Wildlife at the U.S. Department of the Interior, where he supervises the work of the Solicitor’s Office in support of programs of the National Park Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Mr. Boling joined the Department in August of 2010 as Counselor to the Assistant Secretary for Land and Minerals Management, where he focused on land management planning and renewable energy development, and was Deputy Solicitor for Land Resources from April of 2011 to July of 2013. Before Interior, he served ten years at the President’s Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) as Deputy General Counsel beginning in August of 2000, General Counsel beginning in January of 2008, and Senior Counsel from September of 2009. He went to CEQ from the Environment and Natural Resources Division of the U.S. Department of Justice, where he was a senior trial attorney. Mr. Boling joined the Department of Justice in 1990 through the Attorney General’s Honor Program. At the Department of Justice he was a trial attorney in three Sections of the Division: Law and Policy, Wildlife and Marine Resources, and Natural Resources.

Jamon L. Bollock is a Senior Associate in the global Energy and Natural Resources Practice Group of Reed Smith LLP. Mr. Bollock represents energy companies, manufacturers, and transportation companies in all aspects of environmental law, including litigation and compliance matters involving hazardous waste, air pollution, water quality, and natural resource protection. Previously, he was an Attorney-Advisor with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Office of General Counsel. During his time at NOAA, Mr. Bollock served as a special assistant on the federal government’s response to the BP Deepwater Horizon oil spill disaster. He was also Trial Attorney in the Environmental Enforcement Section of the U.S. Department of Justice’s Environment and Natural Resources Section, where he represented the federal government in civil enforcement litigation and cost-recovery actions under the Clean Water Act, Oil Pollution Act, and CERCLA. He also clerked for Judge Procter Hug of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. He received his JD from Stanford Law School and a BA from Bowdoin College.

Douglas Bryden is Partner and Head of Environment & Operational Regulatory at Travers Smith LLP, London. Mr. Bryden specializes in UK, EU, and international environment, energy, and regulatory law and policy. In addition to dealing with such risks in major projects and transactions, Mr. Bryden has defended clients in the Crown Court and regularly advises more generally on complex compliance and risk management issues. Mr. Bryden has worked on a number of high-profile mandates, including for Trafigura on the UK’s largest environmental case to date and on one of the first onshore unconventional oil and gas developments in the UK. The legal directories list him as one of the UK’s leading environmental lawyers. Mr. Bryden is also the General Editor of Commercial Environmental Law & Liability (Sweet & Maxwell) and lectures widely on environmental and other operational regulatory matters.

Bradley M. Campbell is president of an independent national law practice (Bradley M. Campbell, LLC) focused on energy, environment, entrepreneurship, and science; and president of an energy development firm (Swan Creek Energy LLC) focused on innovative and alternative power generation projects. Mr. Campbell brings to these firms broad experience in public policy and law enforcement, and he has been the lead attorney in numerous matters involving transboundary pollution. He served as the Commissioner of New Jersey’s Department of Environmental Protection (2002–2006), where he was central to developing the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) and other climate change programs. Earlier, he served as a Regional Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency (1999–2001), implementing and enforcing federal environmental law in the Mid-Atlantic region; as an Associate Director of the White House Counsel on Environmental Quality (1995–1999); and as a trial attorney with the United States Department of Justice (2002–2005). An alumnus of Amherst College and the University of Chicago Law School, Mr. Campbell has offices in Trenton, New Jersey, and Washington, D.C.

Antonella Capria heads the Environmental Law team of the Italian law firm Gianni, Origoni, Grippo, Cappelli & Partners. She has more than 30 years of experience in advising domestic and international clients on the full range of administrative, environmental, and health and safety matters. She has particular experience in the energy sector, environmental liability, compliance with EU and Italian environmental regulatory requirements, negotiation with public authorities, settlements, and environmental disputes. She also developed significant experience in permitting issues connected to the development of offshore terminals and energy and oils infrastructures projects. She has coordinated research projects for the European Union, the Italian Ministry of Environment, and the Italian National Research Council. Ms. Capria has authored a number of books and journal articles on EU and Italian environmental law, and she regularly lectures in several postgraduate environmental law courses. She is listed in the International Who’s Who of Environment Lawyers. In 2013, Ms. Capria was recognized as “Professional of the Year in the field of Administrative law” by Top Legal Italy.

David O. Chang is an Associate at Reed Smith LLP and previously advised AAA on legal and regulatory affairs. Mr. Chang has also served in senior positions at GlaxoSmithKline and Well Fargo. He received his JD from the University of California, Hastings College of Law, where he served as an editor of the Hastings Law Journal and a co-chair of the Hastings Moot Court Team. He also received an MBA from Thunderbird School of Global Management and a BS from Pepperdine University.

Eduardo Del Valle Mora is an associate with Brigard & Urrutia Abogados in Bogotá, Colombia. He received his JD from the Pontificia Universidad Javeriana and LLM (Environmental Law) from McGill University. He also has done postgraduate studies in administrative law and environmental law at Universidad del Rosario. He also obtained merit-based scholarships from McGill University Scholar and Colfuturo. Mr. Del Valle Mora is a Lecturer at the Law School of Universidad Javeriana and the Law School of Universidad del Rosario and a member of the Colegio de Abogados Javerianos and of the Graduate Law Students Association of McGill University. He advises local and foreign companies in environmental (regulatory, environmental liability, management of community affairs, and management of governmental affairs), mining (exploration, exploitation, and commercialization of minerals), and oil and gas matters (exploration, exploitation, transportation, and distribution of hydrocarbons). Recently, he published Aplicación de los Principales Principios Constitucionales y Legales en el régimen sancionatorio ambiental colombiano (Application of the principal constitutional and legal principles to the Colombian Environmental Sanction regime) (Brigard & Urrutia, 2014).

David Desforges is a partner at Genesis Avocats (France) where he heads the firm’s environmental law practice from the Paris office. He advises and defends essentially industrial companies on site and product-related issues. His experience with industrial and mining activities is acknowledged both in France and internationally. Formerly the partner in charge of the environmental practice at Gide Loyrette Nouel until 2010, he subsequently joined Jones Day in Paris and is listed as one of the leading environmental lawyers in France by Chambers Europe, the Legal 500-EMEA, PLC Which Lawyer?, the International Who’s Who of Environment Lawyers, and Best Lawyers. Mr. Desforges received a diploma of the Institut d’Études Politiques de Paris with Lauréat honors in 1991, his LLM from Northwestern University in 1994, a Public Services Certificate Degree from the Graduate School of Public Services of Paul University in 1994, and a postgraduate law degree from the Université Paris II–Assas Law School in 1997. He is a lecturer in law at the Université Paris Sud Law School.

Charles E. Di Leva (Part I Editor and author of chapter 3, “How to Approach an International Environmental Law Question”) is Chief Counsel and manager of the Environmental and International Law practice group of the World Bank Legal Department. His work covers all geographic regions, specializing on environmental and social risk management and compliance in project finance, as well as climate law and carbon finance. He represents the Bank in a range of international treaty negotiations. From 1999 until 2001, he was Director of the Environmental Law Program of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, while based in Bonn, Germany, and also served as Senior Program Officer with the Environmental Law Unit for the U.N. Environment Program in Nairobi, Kenya. Mr. Di Leva also served as Trial Attorney for four years with the U.S. Department of Justice Environment and Natural Resources Division and for five years with the State of Rhode Island as Legal Counsel with the Department of Environmental Management and the Attorney General’s office. Mr. Di Leva is an adjunct professor at the George Washington University School of Law, teaching trade and sustainable development, and at the American University Washington College of Law, teaching project finance and the environment.

Gil Dror received his LLB degree from the Haifa University Law School. He has academic background in the field of environmental sciences. His bachelor’s degree (B.Sc.Agr) is from the Faculty of Agriculture of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, and his master’s degree (M.Sc) is from the Department of Environmental Sciences and Energy Research at the Weizmann Institute for Sciences. Currently Mr. Dror is a PhD student at the Porter School of Environmental Studies in Tel Aviv University. He is a partner in The Levinson Environmental Law Firm. Before joining the firm, ten years ago, he acquired practical experience in various environmental fields, including as Hazardous Materials Inspector at the Western Galilee Township Association for Environmental Protection and as Environmental Engineer in the field of monitoring and rehabilitation of polluted rivers at the Kishon River Authority.

Alexandra Dapolito Dunn is Executive Director and General Counsel of the Environmental Council of the States (ECOS), the national nonprofit, nonpartisan association of U.S. state and territorial environmental commissioners. Ms. Dunn has two decades of experience in environmental law and policy, with extensive work on water quality, treatment, and implementation of the Clean Water Act. Ms. Dunn is a member of the bar in Washington, D.C., Maryland, and New York, the U.S. Supreme Court, and federal courts. She has represented parties, intervenors, or amicus curiae in over 25 environmental cases. Ms. Dunn is the immediate past Chair of the American Bar Association’s Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources, and serves on the Board of the Environmental Law Institute. She is a Lecturer in Law at Columbus School of Law, Catholic University of America, and an Adjunct Professor at American University’s Washington College of Law. She earned her JD, magna cum laude, at the Columbus School of Law, Catholic University of America, where she was Editor in Chief of the Law Review. She received a BA, cum laude, in political science, from James Madison University, VA.

Bettina Enderle, PhD, is Counsel in the Environmental Law Group at Allen & Overy LLP, Germany. She has 15 years’ experience in environmental matters, advisory, and litigation, and in M&A or financing transactions. Her focus areas are permit procedures and compliance issues of industrial plants, energy, and infrastructure projects. She advised in the planning of the Fixed Femernbelt Link, the biggest infrastructure project in Europe, connecting a Danish and a German island via a submarine 19km tunnel combining a motorway with high-speed rail tracks. Her industry clients are active in the refinery, paper and pulp, electronics, and waste recycling as well as (renewable) energy sectors (power plants, solar, wind, geothermal). Currently she represents several clients in challenges against the allocation of greenhouse gas emissions allowances under the EU Emissions Trading Scheme. She represents her clients in proceedings before German and EU authorities and courts, including the European Court of Justice. She publishes and presents in her areas of expertise in Europe and the Americas (e.g., ABA, Salt Lake City 2012) and is a member of the German-American Lawyers Association.

Francis Etivieya is an Associate in the Nigerian law firm of Edward Ekiyor & Co. based in Lagos and Bayelsa States. He holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from Niger Delta University, Nigeria. He is licensed to practice in Nigeria and is a member of the Nigerian Bar Association. Mr. Etivieya’s legal practice spans Nigeria’s energy, oil and gas, property, and finance industries. He has been working with the Nigerian Bar Association Yenagoa branch, Bayelsa State through the Energy and Environmental Law Committee to ensure environmental sanity in the Niger Delta, as well as making efforts to see that lawyers benefit from the oil and gas resources in the region.

Francesca Libera Falco is an associate in the Environmental team of the law firm Gianni, Origoni, Grippo, Cappelli & Partners. Ms. Falco has gained experience in working on environmental and administrative law issues with particular focus on the environmental regulatory matters on air, water and waste management, EU Emissions Trading System, clean-up procedures of contaminated sites as well as the liability for environmental damage. She regularly speaks on marine pollution at environmental law training courses organized by a leading energy company. Previously, she attended a training program at the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Embassy in Tehran, Iran, where she dealt in particular with oil and gas matters. She has been a Blue Book trainee at the EU Commission, Foreign Policy Instrument Service. Ms. Falco graduated cum laude at Bocconi University, Milan (2008), and completed a master’s program in International and European Law at the Geneva University, Switzerland (2010). She speaks Italian, French, and English and is conversant in Persian.

Dr. Michael G. Faure, LLM, became academic director of the Maastricht European institute for transnational legal research (METRO) and professor of Comparative and International Environmental Law at the law faculty of Maastricht University in September 1991. Professor Faure still holds both positions today. In addition, he is academic director of the Ius Commune Research School and member of the board of directors of Ectil. Since the first of February 2008, he is half-time professor of comparative private law and economics at the Rotterdam Institute of Law & Economics (RILE) of the Erasmus University in Rotterdam and academic director of the European Doctorate in Law and Economics (EDLE) programme. Since 1982 he has also been an attorney at the Antwerp Bar. He publishes in the areas of environmental (criminal) law, tort and insurance and economic analysis of (accident) law.

Luiz Fernando Henry Sant’Anna has been a partner in Demarest Advogados since 1993, and currently is responsible for its Environmental Law Department, acting in the administrative, judicial, and extrajudicial areas comprising civil and criminal aspects of environmental law. In addition to his activities in the environmental area, he is the partner responsible for the civil and business consultancy practice in Demarest Advogados. He graduated from Universidade Católica de São Paulo Law School in 1986, and earned a LLM from the University of Illinois College of Law in 1990. He was assistant professor at Civil Law at Universidade Católica de São Paulo Law School from 1987 to 2006.

Andrew Fitanides is an Associate in Baker & McKenzie’s Ho Chi Minh office. As a member of the Dispute Resolution Practice Group, Mr. Fitanides managed a major commercial litigation effort in Vietnamese courts and has assisted with several litigation efforts involving foreign and domestic Vietnamese parties. Mr. Fitanides also advises clients on Vietnamese information, technology, and communications (IT/C), advertising, and pharmaceutical and environmental regulations as well as the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and other anti-corruption law compliance. Prior to joining Baker & McKenzie in 2010, Mr. Fitanides clerked in the Massachusetts Superior Court’s Special Business Litigation Session and worked for one of Vietnam’s largest real estate developers. Mr. Fitanides is a graduate of Cornell University (BA, 1990), Columbia University’s School of International and Public Affairs (MIA, 1998), and Northeastern University School of Law (JD, 2008). He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar (2008). Mr. Fitanides speaks English and French and is conversant in Japanese.

Tad Ferris is Partner in the China and International Practice at Holland and Knight, LLP, General Counsel and Founder of the China EHS Roundtable, Vice Chairman of the Board of the International Fund for China’s Environment, and Chair of the China Committee and China-Environment Task Force of the U.S. Council for International Business. Mr. Ferris also served as Chair (2002–2004) and Vice Chair (2004–2006) of the International Environmental Law Committee of the ABA Section on Environment Energy and Resources. In his role as attorney, Mr. Ferris advises companies on compliance, risk management, and international trade and stakeholder engagement in China and elsewhere in Asia. Mr. Ferris has acted as a comparative law expert for United Nations organizations, development banks, and foreign government institutions and agencies. He is a graduate of the Duke University School of Law, with a JD and a masters of law in comparative and international legal studies.

Russell Fraker is an Associate in the Washington, D.C., office of Beveridge & Diamond, P.C., where he advises clients on environmental regulatory issues associated with facilities and products, both domestically and internationally. He has experience with the environmental laws of most Latin American countries, with a particular focus on Brazil. Before studying law, Mr. Fraker worked as a consultant to the petroleum, forestry, fisheries, and telecommunications industries. He received his law degree from Vanderbilt Law School, where he was Managing Editor of the Vanderbilt Law Review and Co-founder and Managing Editor of the Environmental Law & Policy Annual Review. He also holds degrees in philosophy and political science from Reed College, and in international relations from Yale University.
Glory Francke is an associate in the Environmental Practice Group at Sidley Austin LLP, where she provides compliance and product stewardship advice on EU chemical and climate change legislation. More generally, she helps multinational clients understand the practical functioning of EU environmental law and policy, from how decisions are made in Brussels to the implementation of EU law in the Member States. Prior to joining Sidley, Ms. Francke was in-house counsel for the Brussels office of GE’s Corporate Environmental Programs where she counseled the GE businesses on EU chemical legislation and climate change regulation and advocated for GE’s interests before the EU Institutions. Ms. Francke graduated with a Juristexamen from the University of Stockholm and holds an LLM in energy and environmental law from the Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium. She moved with her family to Seattle, Washington, in 2012 and will graduate with her JD from the University of Seattle School of Law in 2015.

Oleh Furmanchuk is an Associate at Asters, Kiev, Ukraine. Mr. Furmanchuk has a broad experience in advising Ukrainian and foreign clients on regulatory and environmental legal matters, including environmental legal due diligences, environmental permits and licensing, compliance with regulatory requirements, inspections of environmental authorities, sanctions for environmental pollution, and others. Mr. Furmanchuk advised on environmental legal aspects of liquidation of Ukrainian industrial enterprises and analyzed environmental legal compliance at numerous Ukrainian companies. His areas of practice also include banking and finance, employment, M&A, and general corporate advice. He received his LLM degree from University of Amsterdam (the Netherlands) and master’s degree (law) from the National University of Ostroh Academy (Ukraine). He also contributes to Ukrainian and international publications.

Robert Glicksman is the J.B & Maurice C. Shapiro Professor of Environmental Law at the George Washington University Law School, where he focuses on environmental, natural resources, and administrative law. A graduate of the Cornell Law School, Mr. Glicksman taught at the University of Kansas School of Law before joining the GW faculty. He has practiced and consulted on environmental issues, including for the Commission for Environmental Cooperation. He is co-author of Environmental Protection: Law and Policy (6th ed. Aspen); Administrative Law: Agency Action in Legal Context (Foundation Press); Public Natural Resources Law (2d ed. West); Risk Regulation at Risk: Restoring a Pragmatic Approach and Pollution Limits and Polluters’ Efforts to Comply: The Role of Government Monitoring and Enforcement, both published by Stanford University Press; and Modern Public Land Law in a Nutshell (4th ed. West). He has written extensively on environmental and natural resources law topics, concentrating recently on climate change, federalism issues, federal land management, and environmental enforcement. Mr. Glicksman is a member scholar and Board member for the Center for Progressive Reform.
Hana Heineken is a Policy Advisor at Global Witness, an international NGO that seeks to prevent natural resource-related conflict and corruption and associated environmental and human rights abuses. Her areas of expertise include the trade in illegal or unsustainable timber, the international financing of environmentally destructive activities, and associated violations of human rights. Her work focuses on Japanese government policy and the responsibilities of Japanese companies. Prior to joining Global Witness, Ms. Heineken worked as a consultant for the Center for International Environmental Law on climate change, hazardous waste, and international finance. She also worked for a number of years as a policy aide to members of the Japanese Parliament on matters relating to the environment and human rights. She graduated cum laude from Pace Law School with certificates in international law and environmental law, served as a research fellow at the Tokyo University Graduate School for Law and Politics, and holds an A.B. from Princeton University. She is a member of the ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources World Justice Project (WJP) Task Force.

Brian Israel is an Attorney-Adviser at the U.S. Department of State in the Office of the Legal Adviser for Oceans, International Environmental, and Scientific Affairs where he is presently responsible for the Arctic portfolio, among others. In this capacity he headed the United States delegations to the Arctic Council Task Force on Institutional Issues and Task Force on Arctic Marine Oil Pollution Prevention. Mr. Israel also teaches international law as an adjunct professor at George Mason University School of Law. Mr. Israel is a graduate of the University of California, San Diego, and the University of California, Berkeley, School of Law, where he was Editor in Chief of the Berkeley Journal of International Law and founded Publicist, an online international law publication.

Madeleine B. Kadas is a Shareholder in the Austin office of Beveridge & Diamond, P.C., and the founder and chair of the Firm’s Latin American Practice Group. She advises clients on environmental laws affecting industrial facilities and products throughout Latin America, with a focus on Mexico. She was the first Managing Director of the Austin office (2005–2009) and maintains a significant domestic environmental law practice focusing on air and waste compliance issues in Texas. She received her law degree from the University of Texas and holds a graduate law degree from La Escuela Libre de Derecho, Mexico’s premier law school. Before studying law, Ms. Kadas was a U.S. Peace Corps Volunteer in Guatemala. She speaks Spanish fluently.

Armen Khachaturyan is a Senior Partner at Asters, Kiev, Ukraine. He has extensive experience in the wide spectrum of practices, including environmental law, advising a large number of Ukrainian and foreign public and private clients in different industries on such matters as environmental permits and licensing, land-fills, emissions, and compliance with regulatory requirements. Mr. Khachaturyan’s expertise includes cross-border legal planning and legal regime of foreign investment, banking and finance, M&A, general corporate advice, energy, privatization, and restructuring. He is consistently recognized as a highly recommended lawyer in Chambers Global and Chambers Europe, IFLR1000, The Legal 500: EMEA, Who’s Who Legal, Best Lawyers, Expert Guide, and Ukrainian Law Firms. Mr. Khachaturyan received his LLM degree from Yale Law School, PhD (private international law) and master’s degree (international law) from the Kiev National University, and diploma from the International Law Institute, Washington, D.C. Mr. Khachaturyan is frequently involved in legislative and regulatory initiatives, speaks at professional conferences and seminars, and contributes to Ukrainian and international publications.

Kyoung Yeon Kim is a partner at Yulchon, LLC, Seoul, Korea. Ms. Kim’s area of practice covers antitrust, M&A, corporate general, environment and energy, data privacy, and other regulatory matters. Ms. Kim joined Yulchon as an associate in 2001 and became a partner in 2009. She served as a counsel for the Korean Ministry of Environment (MOE) from 2010 to 2013 and for the Ministry of Justice since 2011. As the counsel for the MOE, she has provided advice on interpretation of various laws and regulation of the environment as well as in the government’s policymaking process. She also served as the legal counsel for the 2012 IUCN World Conservation Congress in Jeju, Korea, and the counsel for National Institute for Ecology from 2012. She received her LLB from Seoul National University in 1998 and LLM from the University of Michigan Law School in 2007. She is a member of the bars of the Republic of Korea (2001) and New York (2008).

Irina Krasnova is the Head of the Department of Land Use and Environmental Law of the Russian Academy of Justice and a Professor of Environmental and Natural Resources Law of the Moscow State University of Law (MSAL). In 1997 she was awarded a doctorate degree from the Institute of Legislation and Comparative (Moscow, Russia) and in 1995 an LLM in environmental law by the Pace University School of Law (New York, USA). In addition to teaching environmental and land use law, Ms. Krasnova is an expert on the Scientific and Consultative Committee of the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation, a member of the Higher Ecological Council of the State Duma (parliament), and an expert of the Higher Attestation Commission of the Ministry of Education. She has gained a great deal of experience in international environmental law by working as environmental affairs officer at the United Nations Environment Programme Regional Office for Europe, as a legal consultant in various EU and UN projects dealing with transboundary rivers, biodiversity protection, Caspian Sea marine environment protection, and environmental standards.

K. Russell LaMotte is a Principal in the Washington, D.C., office of Beveridge & Diamond P.C., and co-chair of the Firm’s International Environmental Law practice group. His practice focuses on advocacy in the major multilateral environmental agreements and multijurisdictional product compliance matters relating to environmental and human rights issues, in sectors ranging from chemicals and GMOs to IT equipment. Prior to joining the firm, he served as Deputy Assistant Legal Adviser at the U.S. Department of State and as a law clerk to Hon. Judith Rogers on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit. He is an adjunct professor at the American University Washington College of Law, a member of the Executive Council of the American Society of International Law, a member of the Governing Board of the Washington Foreign Law Society, and a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School.

Seung Min Lee is an associate at Yulchon, LLC, Seoul, Korea. Mr. Lee practices primarily in the areas of antitrust, TMT, construction/real estate disputes, environment and energy, and administrative disputes. Mr. Lee received his LLB, MA (administrative law), and PhD (administrative law) from Seoul National University and lectured at Seoul National University School of Law (2011) and Konkuk University Law School (2012–2013). He is a member of the Korean Bar Association.

Tzvi Levinson is the founding partner of the Levinson Environmental Law Firm. Mr. Levinson received his LLB degree from the Hebrew University Law School in Jerusalem. He has built the leading practice in Israel specializing in legal counsel and representation in the fields of environmental, health, and safety (EHS) laws to industries and businesses. The largest firms in the market use his services. Mr. Levinson is uniquely experienced in providing day-to-day “preventive” counsel and representation in legal proceedings (civil, administrative, and criminal) in a variety of EHS issues. He lectures at the Haifa University on environmental law, at the Institute for Advanced Studies for Attorneys, and in many other Israeli and international fora, and has published numerous articles on various EHS law issues. Mr.
Levinson formerly chaired the Environmental Law Committee of the Central Board of the Israeli Bar.

Owen Lomas is Consultant with the Environment & Operational Regulatory Group at Travers Smith LLP, London. He was previously a partner and Head of Global Environmental Law Services at Allen & Overy LLP for over 20 years. Mr. Lomas has wide experience in advising on environmental and climate change law issues both on a standalone basis and in the context of business transactions. A leading writer and commentator on environmental law, his publications include Commercial Environmental Law and Liability (Sweet & Maxwell) (joint editor), Frontiers of Environmental Law (Chancery), Packaging Waste Recycling Obligations—a business guide to British regulations (Pira), and numerous papers and articles on environmental law and policy. He is a member of the board of trustees of the UK Environmental Law Foundation; a member of the editorial boards of Water Law, The Utilities Law Review, and Environmental Law and Management; and former Editor of the Journal of Environmental Law (FT Law & Tax 1989–1997). He was a founding member of the UK Environmental Law Association and served as Chairman of the Law and Policy Working Group of the Environmental Industries Commission from 2000 to 2004.

Andrew Long is a Visiting Associate Professor of Law at the University of Missouri Kansas City School of Law. His research focuses on environmental governance, with an emphasis on regulatory approaches to global challenges such as climate change and biodiversity loss. He is particularly interested in the linkage of environmental issues with human well-being and the interaction of multiple levels of governance. Mr. Long has published a dozen research articles in law reviews and peer-reviewed journals, as well as book chapters and shorter works. He is currently writing a book that analyzes the significance of issue-linkage as an element of international environmental governance effectiveness, drawing on polycentric governance and complexity theories. Professor Long holds an LLM from New York University School of Law and a JD from Willamette University College of Law. He also is the co-chair for newsletters for the ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources International Environmental and Resources Law and Endangered Species Committees.

Robert Makgill is a barrister who specializes in environmental, natural resources, and public law. He regularly appears before the Environment Court and courts of general jurisdiction in New Zealand. In 2010, he was legal counsel in the International Law for the Sea Tribunal’s (ITLOS) historic advisory opinion on deep sea mining in the High Seas. In 2011, he chaired the legal working group for the International Seabed Authority’s international workshop on “Environmental Management Needs for Exploration and Exploitation of Deep Sea Minerals.” In 2012, he advised the Secretariat of the Pacific Community on the European Union-funded deep sea minerals project, which aims to establish deep sea regulatory frameworks for Pacific Island member states. In 2013, he was appointed an exclusive economic zone (EEZ) Hearing Commissioner for the New Zealand Environmental Protection Authority, and assisted in advising a party to the ITLOS advisory proceedings on illegal fishing activities within the EEZs of third-party states. Mr. Makgill is doctoral researcher at the University of Ghent, and research fellow with the Faculty of Environment, Society, and Design at Lincoln University, New Zealand.

Guillermo Malm Green is a partner at the Brons & Salas law firm in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He chairs the Environmental Law Practice and co-chairs the corporate and M&A Practice. He graduated, with honors, from Buenos Aires University Law School in 1989. In 1993 he took a postgraduate course on International Environmental Law at the Southwestern University School of Law Summer Law Program. In 1994 he attended a course at the Academy of American and International Law, Center for American and International Law (formerly Southwestern Legal Foundation), University of Texas, Dallas. He is a member of the International Bar Association, American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Buenos Aires Bar Association, and San Isidro Bar Association. He is Vice President of the Environmental Committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Argentina. He is also the Country Chair (Argentina) of the New York State Bar Association, Vice Chair of the International Environmental Law Committee of the American Bar Association Section of International Law, and former Co-Chair of the Latin America & Caribbean Committee (2006–2009).

Tolulope Abimbola Moseli is a Senior Associate in the Nigerian law firm of Edward Ekiyori & Co. based in Lagos and Bayelsa States. She holds a Bachelor of Laws from Obafemi Awolowo University, Nigeria, and a Masters in Law from the University of London (Queens Mary College), United Kingdom. She is licensed to practice in Nigeria and is a member of the Nigerian Bar Association. Ms. Moseli has advised various companies in the construction sector on their compliance with the relevant Nigerian environmental laws and communities in pollution abatement civil actions.

Angeles Murgier is a senior attorney at Brons & Salas law firm in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Since she joined the firm her practice has been focused on both environmental and corporate law. She graduated from the Argentine Catholic University in March 2000. She has additionally completed a number of training programs in environmental and international environmental law at the American University Washington College of Law, the University of California, San Diego Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies, the American Law Institute, and the ABA Committee on Continuing Professional Education. She is a member of the ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources, was appointed the first International Liaison Vice Chair for 2008–2011 of the International Environmental Law Committee, and Peter J. Murtha is a self-employed attorney in Silver Spring, Maryland, who advises on environmental and criminal litigation matters. Mr. Murtha retired from the federal government after over 30 years of service, the majority of which was with the Environment and Natural Resources Division (ENRD) of the U.S. Department of Justice. At ENRD he was a prosecutor handling both environmental crimes and wildlife and marine resources matters, and tried numerous cases. After leaving DOJ, Mr. Murtha headed U.S. EPA’s criminal enforcement program where he directed an organization of approximately 375 individuals including criminal investigators, attorneys, and forensic scientists across EPA’s ten regions. Upon leaving the criminal director’s position in 2008, he spent his final years of government service working on climate change and international environmental law issues with a focus on ensuring compliance with commitments. Mr. Murtha writes on climate change compliance issues and has been active with nongovernmental organizations in promoting the need for limits upon carbon pollution and a transition to clean renewable energy. He graduated from Bucknell University and the George Washington University law school.

Peter H. Oppenheimer is the Chief of the NOAA Office of General Counsel International Section. He oversees an office that provides legal counsel to NOAA and other federal agencies on international environmental and oceans law, particularly the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea. Mr. Oppenheimer has participated in the negotiation, amendment, or implementation of numerous international agreements that address vessel pollution, shipwrecks, ocean dumping, seabirds, and marine scientific research, among others. He currently serves as the principal legal adviser on the U.S. delegation to the Arctic Council’s Working Group on the Protection of the Arctic Marine Environment (PAME). Mr. Oppenheimer graduated in 1992 with joint degrees from the Yale Law School (JD) and Tuft University’s Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy (MA in law and diplomacy). He received his BA in history summa cum laude from Yale University in 1986.

Nilufer Oral is a member of the Law Faculty at Istanbul Bilgi University and Deputy Director of the Marine Research Center for the Law of the Sea. She is Chair of the IUCN Academy on Environmental Law, Councilor on the IUCN Council, and co-chair of the IUCN Specialist Group on Oceans, Coasts and Coral Reefs for the IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law. She is also a member of the Environmental and Social Advisory Council for the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Dr. Oral has served as legal advisor to the Turkish Foreign Ministry on law of the sea and climate change and has participated as a climate change negotiator with the Turkish Delegation (2009–2013). She is a Distinguished Senior Visiting Scholar at the Law of the Sea Institute, University of California School of Law, Berkeley (2011–2014), and has lectured on several occasions at the Rhodes Academy for the Law of the Sea.

LeRoy C. (Lee) Paddock is Associate Dean for Environmental Law Studies at the George Washington University Law School. His work focuses on environmental compliance and enforcement; environmental governance with particular emphasis on integrating the regulatory system with economic and values-based drivers; and governance in the context of emerging technologies, environmental justice, public participation, and energy efficiency. Associate Dean Paddock is a member of the American Bar Association’s Task Force on Sustainable Development. He also serves on the George Washington University Sustainability Implementation Team. Prior to coming to George Washington University, Mr. Paddock was Director of Environmental Law Programs at Pace University School of Law for five years. Before Pace, he served for 20 years in the Minnesota Attorney General’s Office, including 13 years as Director of Environmental Policy for Minnesota Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III. Mr. Paddock holds a BA from the University of Michigan and a JD with high honors from the University of Iowa. He clerked for Judge Donald Lay of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit Court.

Robert V. Percival is the Robert F. Stanton Professor of Law and Director of the Environmental Law Program at the University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law. He received a BA summa cum laude from Macalester College and a JD/MA from Stanford University, where he was named the Nathan Abbott Scholar for graduating first in his law school class. Mr. Percival served as a law clerk for Judge Shirley M. Hufstedler of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White. A former senior attorney at the Environmental Defense Fund, Mr. Percival is internationally recognized as a leading environmental law scholar and has lectured in 28 countries. For more than two decades he has been the principal author of the most widely used casebook on U.S. environmental law, Environmental Regulation: Law, Science and Policy, now in its seventh edition. Mr. Percival has served as a visiting professor of law at Harvard Law School, the Georgetown University Law Center, the China University of Political Science and Law, and Comenius University.

Iván Poklepovic is Partner and Head of the Regulated Markets and Natural Resources Practice at Morales & Besa, Abogados, Santiago, Chile (ipoklepovic@moralesybesa.cl). He focuses his practice on environmental and regulatory matters and has a significant experience in environmental litigation and environmental administrative proceedings. He is also well versed in environmental regulation applicable to investment projects and issues relating to energy and natural resources. He founded and led the Environmental Unit of the State Defense Council of Chile (Consejo de Defensa del Estado de Chile) for more than 10 years, where he implemented and developed the environmental liability system for environmental damage under the Chilean environmental law. He also worked on matters relating to environmental law enforcement at the Environmental Compliance Office of the U.S. EPA in Washington, D.C. He was a Fulbright grantee in 2003 and obtained his LLM in environmental law from Pace University Law School in 2004.

Arnold W. Reitze, Jr., has been an environmental lawyer for 50 years, Professor of Law at the University of Utah since 2008, and a member of the University’s Institute for Clean and Secure Energy. He is the J.B. and Maurice C. Shapiro Professor Emeritus of Law at the George Washington University School of Law where he was the director of the program in environmental law for 38 years. For nine years he was the faculty editor of the ABA’s Environmental Lawyer. Professor Reitze is the author of three books on environmental law, four books on air pollution and climate change, and more than 50 law review articles on air pollution. He has extensive experience as an environmental lawyer with an emphasis on air pollution and climate change issues and has been Of Counsel with a number of law firms. He represented the automobile industry in the U.S. Supreme Court in Massachusetts v. EPA (2007) and Engine Manufacturers Ass’n v. South Coast Air Quality Management District (2003). The author is available at arnold.reitze@law.utah.edu.

Héctor Rodríguez Molnar is the founding partner of Rodríguez Molnar & Asociados, a corporate and environmental law firm in Madrid, Spain. In addition to his corporate and commercial practices, he is a specialist in industrial environment and a member of the Madrid Bar Association, entitled to practice in all Spanish jurisdictions. He is a frequent speaker at International Bar Association (IBA) Conferences and other fora. He holds an Argentine LLB in law and an LLM degree in law from the University of Pennsylvania; currently, he is Vice Chair of the IBA Environmental Health & Safety Law Committee for the period 2013/2014. He can be reached at h.rodriguezmolnar@rm-as.com.

Edward Ruggeri is an associate in the Environmental team of the law firm Gianni, Origoni, Grippo, Cappelli & Partners. Mr. Ruggeri has developed his experience in the fields of environmental, health and safety, and energy law. This experience includes issues concerning asbestos, air emissions, water discharges, waste management, clean-up procedures, and authorization procedures for industrial plants fueled by traditional and renewable energy sources. In addition, he was seconded to a leading international oil and gas company, dealing with regulatory, environmental, and safety issues related to building and management of a regasification terminal. Moreover, he has written various articles on environmental governance and regularly lectures at environmental law training courses organized by a leading energy company.
Mr. Ruggeri graduated in law at the Florence University (2005). During his academic career, he was Junior Editor for the Journal of Environmental Law (Oxford University Press) and an assistant at the Siena Summer School “Environmental Law: International and European Perspectives.” He obtained an LLM in European and environmental law at University College London (2006). He is bilingual in English and Italian.

Noah M. Sachs is a professor at the University of Richmond School of Law and directs the Robert R. Merhige, Jr. Center for Environmental Studies. He teaches both domestic and international environmental law, and his research focuses on climate change, toxic substance regulation, and European Union law. His work has appeared in the UCLA Law Review, Vanderbilt Law Review, and University of Illinois Law Review, among other venues, and his co-authored text, Regulation of Toxic Substances and Hazardous Waste, is the leading casebook on toxic substances regulation. Professor Sachs was awarded the University of Richmond’s Distinguished Educator award in 2013, the highest recognition for teaching and scholarship for the faculty. In 2007, he was awarded a fellowship through the EU Visitors Program to study EU environmental lawmaking in Brussels, and in 2014, he was a Fulbright scholar at the National Law School of India University in Bangalore, India.

Jose Pablo Sanchez is senior attorney at VS Abogados in charge of the firm’s Environmental, Natural Resources and Energy Practice. With over 10 years of experience in the field, Mr. Sanchez has acquired expertise in all aspects of environmental and energy law with particular strengths in regulatory, due diligence, and project development while advising clients in sophisticated cross-border transactions. He advises leading electronics and consumer products companies on product take-back and recycling requirements across Central America and energy companies including financial institutions for energy and oil transactions. He has been as a foremost practitioner in his fields of practice by recognized international publications such as Chambers & Partners and Who’s Who Legal. Mr. Sanchez is also an Associate Professor of Environmental Law at the University of Costa Rica. JD, University of Costa Rica; LLM, American University Washington College of Law.

Yee Chung Seck is a partner in the Ho Chi Minh City office of Baker & McKenzie LLP. Mr. Seck has extensive experience in foreign investment, corporate/commercial, and mergers and acquisitions, and is recognized a leading lawyer for corporate/M&A in Vietnam by Chambers Global and Chambers Asia. He has dealt with a wide range of investment projects and major M&A deals, and advised on corporate, commercial, and regulatory compliance matters, including foreign direct investment, licensing, and market access including numerous environmental matters. Mr. Seck has experience working with entities from a diverse range of industries, including agribusiness, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and medical devices, food and beverages, manufacturing, property, software, information technology, media and telecommunication, and aviation, both in Vietnam and regionally. He is Vice President of the Singapore Business Group (HCMC Chapter) and an active participant in the Vietnam Business Forum through its Advisory Council on Administrative Reform and Manufacturing & Distribution Working Group. Mr. Seck graduated from the Law School of the National University of Singapore (1996) and was admitted to the Singapore Bar (1997).

Jung Pyo Seo is an associate at Yulchon, LLC, Seoul, Korea. He practices primarily in the areas of banking/general finance, project finance and lease, transportation finance, and environment and energy. Mr. Seo received his LLB from Korea National Police University. He is currently a member of the Korean Bar Association.

Krishna Vijay Singh is a Senior Partner in the law firm Kochhar & Co and heads the firm’s practice at its Gurgaon office. He also is in charge of the infrastructure, life sciences, and environment law practice of the firm. Though he primarily practices corporate law, he has over 17 years of experience in litigation and arbitration and is involved in several prominent domestic and international contentious matters. He has advised clients on a range of complex environmental issues including issues concerning developmental projects and forests and environmental laws, environmental pollution, environmental clearances and licenses, law and policy on genetotechnology and genetically modified products, hazardous wastes, and product recall issues, among others. He is co-author of Environmental Law Reporter India Update, published by Environment Law Institute, USA, a quarterly briefing that discusses Indian environmental law issues and provides policy updates. He has also co-authored the EIATRACK India pages for the website http://www.eiatrack.org.

Kim Smaczniak (Part II Editor and author of chapter 8, “Natural Resource Damages”) is a trial attorney at the United States Department of Justice, Environmental Natural and Resources Division, Environmental Defense Section. She is an adjunct professor at Howard University Law School and is the co-chair of the ABA Section for Environment, Energy, and Resources’ International Environmental and Resources Law Committee and the ABA Section for International Law’s International Environmental Law Committee.

Eugene E. Smary is a partner with the Grand Rapids, Michigan, office of Warner Norcross & Judd LLP. He has been practicing environmental and resources law for over 30 years. Much of his practice currently focuses on cross-border environmental, natural resource, and infrastructure issues, and on metallic mineral mining. He is the past Chair of the Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources of the American Bar Association. Mr. Smary is also the immediate past Chair of the International Bar Association’s Environment Health and Safety Law Committee and was recently elected to serve as Secretary of the IBA’s Section of Energy, Environment, Resources and Infrastructure Law. He served as an Adjunct Associate Professor of Law at the University of Notre Dame Law School. He holds his JD and MA degrees from the University of Notre Dame, and his BA from Aquinas College. Following his graduation from law school, he served as a judicial clerk to the Hon. John A. Danaher of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.

Marise Hosomi Spitzeck is an Associate at Demarest Advogados. She graduated from Universidade de São Paulo Law School in 1999 and was admitted to the Brazilian Bar the following year. She has taken specialization courses in economy and company law from Fundação Getúlio Vargas and environment and society from Fundação Escola de Sociologia e Política. Ms. Spitzeck earned an LLM degree at the University of California in 2007. She is a member of the New York Bar Association. At Demarest, she has been a member of the Environmental Department since 2009.

John Taberner is a Consultant in Herbert Smith Freehills’ Sydney office, where he was a partner for 20 years between 1988 and 2008. He has over 30 years’ experience exclusively in environmental law. He is recognized as a leading practitioner in the field. He has acted for a number of significant government, semi-government, and private clients in a wide variety of matters involving environmental legal issues, including greenhouse issues. Mr. Taberner has leading-edge skills in all practice areas of environmental law (including greenhouse law). He was named by the Australian Financial Review in March 2008 as Best Lawyer in the greenhouse field. He served as Secretary of the National Environmental Law Association of Australia for the first four years after its establishment, and as a member of the Executive Committee of the International Bar Association’s Committee on Environmental Law for four years in the late 1980s. Mr. Taberner also served as a member of the Advisory Board of the Commonwealth Environment Protection Authority while that Authority existed. He is a Life Patron and a Director of the Australian Chamber Orchestra.

Gray Taylor is co-leader of Bennett Jones LLP’s climate change and emission trading practice. His practice focuses on climate change and related corporate issues affecting businesses in Canada and abroad. Mr. Taylor is a past chair of the National Environmental, Energy and Resources Law Section of the Canadian Bar Association, a director of the International Emissions Trading Association and the co-Chair of IETA’s Canadian Working Group and is recognized in Chambers Global and Lexpert. He is qualified to practice in Ontario and New York.

Kirk Tracy is an associate at Paladin Law Group LLP’s Walnut Creek, California, office with an environmental litigation practice. Mr. Tracy counsels clients on a variety of federal and state environmental laws, including RCRA, CERCLA, and the Clean Water Act. He received his JD with an environmental Juta Wada is the managing director of Wada Law Firm, located in Osaka, Japan. He has represented many companies and individuals in civil, criminal, and administrative litigations, including various environmental cases. Mr. Wada is a member of Japan Federation of Bar Associations, Environmental Protection Committee, and served as the Chair of Global Warming Measures Project Team of that Committee from 2008 to 2012. He was a member of Japan International Cooperation Agency, Advisory Council of Environmental and Social Considerations Review from 2004 to 2006. He also has taught environmental law in Kobe College from 2008 and in Kwansei Gakuin University from 2010 to 2013, and is a co-author of Preventive Measures for Global Warming in the World (written in Japanese). Mr. Wada received a master’s degree in environmental law, cum laude, from Vermont Law School; a master’s degree in human rights and education for peace from University for Peace in Costa Rica; and a BA in law from the University of Tokyo.

Scott Watson is a Partner at Warner Norcross & Judd LLP in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Mr. Watson concentrates his practice in environmental law and the energy industry. He advises clients on complex regulatory and litigation matters involving federal and state environmental law. He is currently a member of Environmental Law Section Council of the Michigan State Bar, where he is also chair of the Technology Committee, and he is a co-author of the Part 201 (state Superfund law) chapter of the Michigan Environmental Law Deskbook. He obtained a BS, with honors, in ecology and evolutionary biology from the University of Michigan, and a JD and MSEL, both magna cum laude, from Vermont Law School, where he was Senior Managing Editor of the Vermont Law Review and a Production Coordinator on the Vermont Journal of Environmental Law. He previously clerked in the Region 3 Office of Regional Counsel for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and he served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Robert J. Jonker, U.S. District Court, Western District of Michigan.

Jessica Wentz is a Visiting Associate Professor and Environmental Law Fellow at George Washington University Law School for 2012–2014. Professor Wentz received her JD from Columbia Law School in 2012, where she studied... environmental law, participated in clinical programs, and conducted independent research on issues related to climate change and energy policy. She was designated a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar for each of her three years at Columbia and was awarded the Alfred A. Forsyth Prize for her dedication to the field of environmental law. During her time as a law student, Professor Wentz worked on a range of issues including the atmospheric impact of livestock production systems, geothermal energy development, and alternative modes of international climate governance. She interned with the Center for Climate Change Law in New York and clerked at the Earthjustice regional office in California. Professor Wentz received her BA in international development from the University of California, Los Angeles.

Jennifer Wills is an attorney with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, D.C., where she counsels on the regulation of industrial chemicals and pesticides. Since joining EPA in 2003, she has provided legal advice on issues related to a number of environmental and administrative statutes including Superfund, Toxic Substances Control Act, and the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act. She has participated extensively in the development and implementation of chemical regulatory matters, including work on the use of chemicals in hydraulic fracturing and in consumer products. Ms. Wills’s previous experience includes a Brookings Fellowship in the office of Senator Frank R. Lautenberg, where she advised on energy and environmental policy issues, including legislation on the testing and prioritization of chemicals in commerce. She clerked for the Kentucky Supreme Court and the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. Ms. Wills earned a JD from the University of Kentucky College of Law. She is a vice chair and former co-chair of the ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources International Environmental and Resources Law Committee.

Steve Wolfson coordinates the U.S. EPA Office of General Counsel (OGC) international capacity-building activities on environmental law; has trained environmental lawyers in Africa, Asia, and Latin America; and leads the OGC’s China Environmental Law Initiative, which works with China’s Environment Ministry to help strengthen Chinese environmental law and institutions. Mr. Wolfson has represented EPA in environmental and trade treaty negotiations and at World Trade Organization dispute settlement proceedings concerning environmental issues. He has taught international environmental law as an adjunct professor at Howard University Law School and U.S.-Chinese comparative environmental law as an adjunct professor in the Vermont Law School summer program. Mr. Wolfson is a member of the IUCN Commission on Environmental Law, served as Vice Chair for Programs of the International Environmental Law Committee in the ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources, and is a graduate of UCLA School of Law.
Tseming Yang is Professor of Law and the Faculty Director of Graduate Legal Programs at Santa Clara University School of Law. His teaching and research focus on international and comparative environmental law, environmental governance, and China’s environmental governance system. From 2010 to 2012, Professor Yang served as Deputy General Counsel of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, where he supervised the legal aspects of the Agency’s international work, including on multilateral environmental agreements. From 2007 to 2010, he led the establishment of the U.S.-China Partnership for Environmental Law, a U.S. AID and State Department-funded initiative to build China’s institutional capacity in environmental law and governance. Professor Yang has previously been a member of the National Environmental Justice Advisory Council and was a Fulbright Lecturer at the Tsinghua University School of Law in Beijing. He currently serves on the Board of Trustees of Earthjustice and is a member of the American Law Institute, the IUCN Commission on Environmental Law, and the National Committee on United States-China Relations.

Yong Hee Yoon is an Associate at Yulchon LLC, Seoul, Korea. Mr. Yoon practices primarily in the areas of antitrust, TMT, construction/real estate, environment and energy, and administrative disputes. Mr. Yoon received his LLB and MA (environmental law) from, and is a PhD candidate (environmental law) at Seoul National University. He is currently a member of the Korean Bar Association.

Duk Guen Yun is an Associate at Yulchon LLC, Seoul, Korea. Mr. Yun practices primarily in the areas of general corporate, mergers and acquisitions, antitrust, and environment and energy. Mr. Yun received his LLB and MA (administrative law) from Korea University. He is currently a member of the Korean Bar Association.