About the Author

Andre Fiebig has studied, practiced, and taught EU business law for almost three decades both in Europe and the United States. Mr. Fiebig is a graduate of IIT/Chicago-Kent College of Law and also holds a Doctorate of Laws degree from the University of Tübingen in Germany. Prior to coming to the United States, he practiced EU business law in Brussels with one of the leading European law firms, where he focused on EU competition and merger law. Mr. Fiebig is currently a partner in the Chicago office of Quarles & Brady LLP, where he continues to focus on transatlantic business law issues advising both European companies doing business in the United States and U.S. companies doing business in Europe. He is the author of many publications on international business law and serves as Adjunct Professor at Northwestern University School of Law and regularly as visiting professor at Bucerius Law School in Hamburg, Germany, and Hong Kong University School of Law.
