Author Biographies

Marc Edelman

Marc Edelman is an Associate Professor of Law at the Zicklin School of Business, Baruch College, City University of New York. He also is a summer adjunct professor at Fordham Law School, a featured blogger for FORBES SPORTSMONEY, and a legal consultant on a wide range of sports law matters.

Professor Edelman’s doctrinal areas of expertise include antitrust law, contract law, gaming law, and intellectual property law. Some of his more recent research interests include analyzing the NCAA Principle of Amateurism under the Sherman Act, analyzing the implications of professional sports licensing agreements under antitrust law, and reviewing the legal issues pertaining to the rapidly emerging fantasy sports industry.

Professor Edelman’s legal research has been published by more than 20 law journals, including FLORIDA LAW REVIEW, CASE WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY LAW REVIEW, RUTGERS LAW JOURNAL, PENN STATE LAW REVIEW, THE HARVARD JOURNAL OF SPORTS & ENTERTAINMENT LAW, and THE STANFORD JOURNAL OF LAW, BUSINESS, AND FINANCE. Professor Edelman has also commented on sports law issues for THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, THE NEW YORK TIMES, THE LOS ANGELES TIMES, and USA TODAY, among others.

Professor Edelman earned a B.S. degree magna cum laude from The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He also earned an M.A. in Kinesiology (Sports Management) from the University of Michigan, and a J.D. cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School. Before entering academia, Professor Edelman was a practicing attorney with the New York offices of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher, & Flom LLP and Dewey Ballantine LLP.

Geoffrey Rapp

Geoffrey Rapp is the Harold A. Anderson Professor of Law and Values at the University of Toledo College of Law and a co-editor of the Sports Law Blog. He has taught sports law since 2004 at Toledo, and also at the University of Utah S.J. Quinney College of Law and the Wayne State University School of Law. Professor Rapp regularly writes and comments on the intersection of Torts and Business Law and the professional and amateur sports industries. He has written on betting in baseball and the dispute over Barry Bonds’ homerun baseball for FINDLAW’S WRIT, and on the NCAA’s punishment of Penn State for USA TODAY. In recent years, he has commented on sports law issues for REUTERS, USA TODAY, NATIONAL PUBLIC

Acknowledgements

Professor Rapp thanks Zack Laumer and Trevor Colvin, students at the University of Toledo, who provided excellent research assistance on some portions of this project.