

Table of Contents

Introduction and Disclaimer	xv
PART ONE   In Ancient Times	1
The first written law code we know about mentions beer.	3
Hammurabi was not a guy to mess around with.	5
Babylonian judges were fired after their first mistake.	7
But the river was never wrong.	8
The river frequently judged women.	10
Babylonian doctors also ran some serious risks.	11
The Hittites apparently stole each other's doors.	12
For Hittite men, some partners were strictly off-limits, others . . . not.	14
I am not to blame, Your Honor, for the pig sprang upon me .	16
In early Rome, having a conflict of interest could be a capital offense.	17
In Athens, each side got 10 gallons on the water-clock to make its case.	19
Athenian juries had up to 1,500 members.	21
The original meaning of "strip search."	23
There was no crying at Roman funerals.	25
Romans also had to keep an eye on wandering trees.	27
PART TWO   In Post-Ancient but Pre-Modern Times	29
Under the Salic law, the fine for hitting somebody depended on how hard you hit him.	31
Concerning the man who touches the hand or arm or finger of a free woman.	33

Concerning abusive terms.	34
Concerning sorcerers and witches.	36
Concerning those who are poor but not so poor they don't own a fence.	37
The value of a Russian mustache.	39
The first to tar and feather?	41
PART THREE   The Laws of the United States	43
Congress recently banned "lunatics."	45
Fear of "infamy" is not a good reason to avoid testifying before Congress.	47
Dairy farmers get reimbursed for fallout contamination, as long as it's not their fault.	49
You may be a member of the "unorganized militia" of the United States.	51
One who knowingly packs apples in any unapproved barrel shall pay a $1 penalty.	53
One good thing about losing an arm: you can legally use a switchblade.	55
U.S. jurisdiction over space vehicles is based on the status of the doors.	56
It's legal to mail a live scorpion.	58
A tax deduction is available for certain charitable donations of properly preserved dead animals.	60
Certain whaling captains are entitled to deduct up to $10,000 per year from federal taxes.	62
You can't patent an atomic weapon.	64
If you see an island covered in dung, you may legally claim it for the United States.	66
George Washington is technically the highest-ranking U.S. general ever.	68
PART FOUR   The Laws of the States of the United States	71
Alabama's official state insect is a butterfly. It also has an official state butterfly. Which is also an insect.	73
It's illegal to maim yourself in Alabama, but only for certain reasons.	75
Confederate widows, if any, would still be entitled to a pension.	76
Billiard rooms can't have any secret passages.	78

The machines of Alaska may not be deceived.	79
In Alaska, mooning someone is automatically “disorderly conduct.”	80
But Alaska is more tolerant of rioters than other states are.	82
In Arizona, it is technically illegal to knowingly shine a flashlight on a peace officer.	84
Three states have official state neckwear.	86
Arizona has an official state butterfly, which it would like to make clear is not protected.	88
There’s an official pronunciation of “Arkansas.”	89
There’s also an official possessive form of “Arkansas.”	91
Hijacking and carjacking are technically known as “vehicular piracy.”	93
In California, comic books must be less than 80 percent mayhem.	94
A California real-estate agent must tell a buyer if someone has recently died on the property.	95
Superfluity does not vitiate.	97
The law pertaining to frog-jumping contests.	99
If you manage to kill a great white shark in self-defense, you still have to throw it back.	101
One may not soak a rabbit carcass for more than two and a half hours, tops.	102
Nor shall one make false egg proclamations.	103
California’s official state animal has been extinct since 1922.	104
Something about huckleberry.	105
In California, you could be convicted of participating in your own lynching.	107
It’s legal to break into a house to make an arrest—and also to break back out again if it goes badly.	109
California is wise to your “not-a-U-turn-but-a-series-of-smaller-turns-with-the-same-result” defense.	111
The boundaries of Colorado aren’t the ones described in its constitution.	112
In Colorado, an officeholder is technically required to give “personal attention” to his or her duties.	114

No nuclear bomb can be set off in Colorado unless the voters approve it.	116
In Connecticut, you can't hunt squirrels with dynamite.	118
Connecticut does not consider the Boy Scouts to be a "private military force."	120
If you gather up seaweed or manure, you can keep it if you take it home within 24 hours.	122
Those finding an item worth more than $1 must file a police report.	124
"Punt guns" are no longer permitted in Delaware.	126
Feel free to do your worst to a woodchuck.	128
It's illegal to tell people about marriage in any state other than Delaware.	129
The oath-swearing provisions in Delaware were first enacted in 1852, and they look it.	130
The "tongue-splitting" regulations, on the other hand, are much more recent.	132
No puppet shows without a license.	134
In Florida, it's illegal to molest a manatee.	136
It's still legal to take a picture of a farm without written consent. At least for now.	138
In Georgia, you can't sell kids under 12 to a clown.	140
You also can't steal human body parts from an accident scene.	141
It is legal to sell squirrel tails.	142
Benefit of clergy no longer exists.	144
You can't tattoo anyone within one inch of their eye socket.	146
No noodling or grabbling without a permit.	147
It's also illegal to "lay drags."	149
There are laws that apply to ski resorts, but Georgia doesn't have any ski resorts.	150
A pay toilet is not a "bona fide coin operated amusement machine."	151
You can't ride a motorcycle in your socks.	153
In Hawaii, it's illegal to harbor a mongoose.	155

You can take home all the driftwood you want, but only one gallon of sand per day.	157
You can't drop anything out of an airplane except water, sand, or "paper handbills."	159
State employees still have to work on Buddha Day and Bodhi Day.	160
Sorcery per se is no longer a crime in Hawaii.	162
In Idaho, cannibalism is against the law unless you can prove it was really necessary.	164
In Illinois, consumers must be warned not to nuzzle a reptile.	166
They also must be warned not to wear bowling shoes outside.	168
It's a felony to possess more than 37 lizards for commercial purposes.	170
In Indiana, fighting's illegal unless it is part of a carefully regulated sport or is totally unplanned and spontaneous.	172
Pi has the same value in Indiana as it does everywhere else.	174
In Kentucky, lawyers and other "public officers" must swear they have never fought a duel.	178
In Louisiana, it's against the law to insult a boxer or wrestler during a match.	179
It's illegal to jump off a bridge in Louisiana, but only if you do it to get attention.	180
You can get 10 years of hard labor for stealing an alligator in Louisiana.	181
You can get jail time for making noise in a Massachusetts library.	183
In Mississippi, it's illegal to tell anyone about polygamy.	184
Stallions cannot be kept in public view or within 100 yards of a church.	186
Wait . . . pro wrestling matches might be rigged?	187
In Missouri, bear wrestling and related activities are not welcome.	188
In New Hampshire, rope dancers and ventriloquists must be licensed.	190
New Mexico considered a law requiring certain expert witnesses to dress like wizards.	192
In New York, strangling someone is permitted only for a valid medical or dental purpose.	194

Nevada funeral directors may not swear in the presence of a dead body.	196
The larceny of ginseng.	197
In North Carolina, you will be taxed on the proceeds from rattlesnake-milking exhibitions.	198
By statute, it is legal in North Carolina to ride a horse while intoxicated.	199
Git yourself a hollerin' plate.	201
But not a smoke screen.	203
You don't need a real-estate license to sell graves.	204
Oklahoma's constitution guarantees religious freedom and forbids a religious practice in the same paragraph.	205
Oregon is the only state with an official microbe.	207
No children on the fenders.	209
Rhode Island is not actually named "Rhode Island."	210
One shall not impersonate a corder of wood.	212
Keep your exploding cigars out of South Carolina.	213
It's illegal to act obnoxiously on campus.	214
You can't say no to a posse.	216
There is no fornication in South Carolina.	217
Also no pinball or billiards.	218
And no unlicensed horse-trading nomads.	219
Coon-on-a-log is fine, but no hog-dogging.	220
In South Dakota, you may use explosives to defend your crop of sunflowers.	222
The Tennessee constitution bars any minister, priest, atheist, or "duelist" from public office.	224
Don't bring your skunks into Tennessee.	225
Texas once had a five-"device" limit.	226
The five-device limit did not apply to legislators.	227
The Texas legislature once passed a resolution honoring Albert DeSalvo.	228
Virginia observes "Motherhood and Apple Pie Day."	231

It's illegal in Virginia for shoe stores to X-ray a customer's feet.	232
Washington has an official state mammoth.	234
Washington's official state folk song celebrates the river that ties its snowcapped mountains to the ocean so blue.	235
It's illegal to shoot fish in Wyoming.	237
The official state code of Wyoming is "the code of the West," also known as "cowboy ethics."	238
PART FIVE   The Laws of the Cities of the States of the United States	239
The longest known legal definition of "buttocks."	241
An Arkansas city council banned all unapproved meetings or organizations.	243
In San Francisco, a necromancer needs to have an official fortunetelling permit.	245
You can't be naked in public, unless you're in a parade.	246
Snowball fights are illegal in Aspen, Colorado.	248
It's illegal in Columbus, Georgia, to wear a tall hat in a theater.	249
No dogs at Corn Fest.	251
Chico, California, does not allow its residents to have nuclear weapons.	252
The juggler's defense.	253
Fort Wayne needs to revise its locomotive-bell-ringing rules.	255
The city code of Joliet, Illinois, tells you how to pronounce "Joliet."	257
Flirting remains illegal in Haddon Township, New Jersey.	258
You can't throw "marine life" during a Mardi Gras parade.	260
In New Orleans, one may not set forth one's power to turn bitterest enemies into staunchest friends.	262
New Orleans also defines a "Peeping Tom" as "one who peeps."	264
It's unlawful in Oklahoma City to tattoo a fish.	265
In Portland, Oregon, all skeleton-scraping must take place indoors.	267
Cross-dressing without a permit is illegal in Walnut City, California.	268
The emergency Sasquatch ordinance.	270

PART SIX   The Laws of States That Are Not the United States or States of the United States	273
Australian tax commissioners are invested with godlike powers.	275
It's illegal to insult the Minister for Gaming.	276
Should the Master in Lunacy be absent, the Deputy Master in Lunacy shall act in his place.	278
The Brazilian stutterers' discount.	280
In Canada, they are not amused by attempts to alarm the Queen.	281
Beware: margarine served here.	282
You can't sell cattle without a license, but if you sell cattle, you automatically have a license.	283
Canada frowns upon the crafty sciences.	284
How to apply for reincarnation.	286
My swarm of bees has fled! What shall I do?	288
It flew into my neighbor's empty beehive! Now what?	289
Turns out there were bees in there already! It'll take forever to separate my bees from his!	290
No, wait! Those are my bees over there! Flying toward that other swarm of bees, which also has someone chasing it! Are you kidding me?	291
In the United Kingdom, part of the Statute of Marlborough is technically still in effect after almost 750 years.	293
It's still illegal to wear armor in Parliament.	295
Parliament has taken away the Queen's forests.	297
But she still owns the royal fish.	298
No one under 18 may be hypnotized in public.	300
In London, hypnotists must tell subjects not to walk off the stage.	301
You could get in trouble for causing a nuclear explosion in the UK, too.	303
How Parliament shortened the titles of its acts.	305
No person shall interfere with a fungus.	307
Come to my aid, my prince, for someone does me wrong.	309
Papua New Guinea has repealed the Sorcery Act.	311

Chewing gum is a controlled substance in Singapore.	313
The Swiss respect the “dignity” of plant life.	315
Sources and Bibliography	317
Acknowledgments/Credits	319
Endnotes	323