

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Kate Kalmykov is a shareholder in the Business Immigration & Compliance practice of international law firm Greenberg Traurig, LLP. She focuses her practice on the EB-5 Immigrant Investor program, with a decade of experience in the industry. She regularly works with developers across a variety of industries, as well as private equity funds, on developing new projects that qualify for EB-5 investments. She also counsels foreign nationals on obtaining green cards through individual or Regional Center EB-5 investments, as well as issues related to I-829 Removal of Conditions. She earned her BA, magna cum laude, from American University. Kate also earned her MA in International Affairs and JD from American University.

Jennifer Hermansky is an attorney in the Business Immigration & Compliance practice of international law firm Greenberg Traurig, LLP. She focuses her practice on employment-based and family-based immigration, with experience serving the health care, pharmaceutical, and real estate industries, as well as entrepreneurs, scientists, and researchers in scientific communities. Jennifer also concentrates on EB-5 immigrant investor visas. She counsels clients on the creation of new regional centers, amendments of regional center designations, and adoptions of developer projects by existing regional centers. She earned her BS, summa cum laude, and her JD, cum laude, from Drexel University.

William S. Jordan III is Associate Dean and C. Blake McDowell Jr. Professor of Law at The University of Akron School of Law, where he teaches Administrative Law. He received his BA from Stanford University and his JD, cum laude, from the University of Michigan. He serves as Chair of the Publications Committee of the Section of Administrative Law and Regulatory Practice of the American Bar Association.

Anna Williams Shavers is the Cline Williams Professor of Citizenship Law at the University of Nebraska College of Law, where she teaches, among other things, Immigration, Forced Migration, and Administrative Law. She received her BS from Central State University–Ohio, her MS from the University of Wisconsin–Madison, and her JD, cum laude, from the University of Minnesota. She was elected as the 2014–2015 Chair of the Section of Administrative Law and Regulatory Practice of the American Bar Association.

Jill E. Family is Professor of Law and Director of the Law and Government Institute at Widener University School of Law. Professor Family teaches Immigration Law, Introduction to Immigration Law Practice, and Administrative Law. She is a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation and was the 2010 Fellow of the National Administrative Law Judiciary Foundation. Professor Family served as a member of the governing council of the American Bar Association's Section on Administrative Law from 2011 to 2014. She received her undergraduate degree from the University of Pennsylvania and her graduate degrees from Rutgers University.