Contents

Author’s Note .................................................................................... ix
About the Authors ........................................................................... xi
Introduction ..................................................................................... xiii

CHAPTER 1: What Are Special Needs? ........................................ 1
   I. Legislation Regarding Disabilities ............................................. 2
   II. Evaluating Special Needs in Family Court Cases ..................... 3
   III. Case Management for the Courts .......................................... 6
       A. What Types of Special Needs Can a Child Have? ................. 7
       B. How Can the Lawyer or Judge Know When a Particular Case
          Should Be Considered a Special Needs Case? ...................... 10

CHAPTER 2: How to Recognize and Handle Issues of Special Needs in Family Law Cases ...................................................... 11
   I. The Initial Client Interview ................................................... 12
   II. Drafting Divorce Petitions and Answers ................................. 17
   III. Additional Litigation Stages .................................................. 36
       A. Interrogatories—Standard Question for Form Interrogatories ... 37
       B. Discovery in General ....................................................... 37
       C. Maintenance/Alimony Calculations ................................... 56
       D. Parenting Plan ............................................................... 57
   IV. Posttrial Motions .................................................................. 89
   V. Undiagnosed Special Needs ................................................... 92
       A. Indicators that an Evaluation May Be Necessary ................... 93
           1. Autism ........................................................................ 93
           2. Hearing Deficits ....................................................... 94
           3. Visual Deficits ......................................................... 94
           4. Mental Retardation ..................................................... 95
           5. Learning Disabilities .................................................. 95
           6. Attention Deficit Disorder .......................................... 97
           7. Emotional Disturbances .............................................. 98
           8. Orthopedic Impairments ............................................ 100
CONTENTS

9. Multiple Disabilities .......................................................... 100
10. Traumatic Brain Injury ...................................................... 100
11. Other Health Impaired ........................................................ 101
VI. Recognizing and Applying Special Needs to Divorce Cases .......... 101

CHAPTER 3: How Special Needs Can Affect a Child in a Divorce Case .... 103
I. Treating Children with Special Needs During Divorce ................. 104
   A. During the Divorce ...................................................... 105
   B. After the Divorce ...................................................... 105
II. Impact of Divorce on Special Needs Children, by Category of Special Need .......................................................... 106
   A. Autism, Developmental Delays ..................................... 106
   B. Hearing Impairment, Visual Impairment, and Speech or Language Impairment ............................................. 107
   C. Emotional Disturbance .............................................. 107
   D. Mental Retardation, Traumatic Brain Injury ...................... 107
   E. Orthopedic Impairments, Other Health Impaired ................. 107

CHAPTER 4: Why Child Support Guidelines and Standard Visitation
Schedules Do Not Meet the Needs of Special Needs Children ............ 109
I. Child Support Charts .......................................................... 109
   A. Short-Term Needs ...................................................... 109
      1. Preexisting Expenses ............................................. 109
      2. Therapy .............................................................. 110
      3. Equipment .......................................................... 111
      4. Medication .......................................................... 111
      5. Supplements ........................................................ 111
      6. Dietary Costs ......................................................... 112
      7. Sensory Items (therapy, different clothing/other items, take-along items) .................................................... 112
      8. Respite Care .......................................................... 114
      9. Professionals ........................................................ 114
     10. Modifications to the Home Environment ......................... 115
     11. Changes in the Child’s Needs ..................................... 115
     12. Costs Caused by the Divorce ..................................... 115
   B. Long-Term Needs .......................................................... 115
II. Visitation Schedules .......................................................... 117
   A. Noncustodial Parent .................................................... 117
      1. Child’s Schedule ..................................................... 118
   B. Environmental Modifications ....................................... 120

CHAPTER 5: Legislation, Case Law, and Parenting Plans .................... 121
I. Legislation ............................................................................. 121
   A. Federal Law .................................................................. 122
      1. Health-Care Issues .................................................. 123
      2. Educational Issues ................................................... 123
CHAPTER 6: Model Child Support Chart, Parenting Plan, and Modification

CHAPTER 7: Maintenance and Property Distribution in Special Needs Cases

CHAPTER 8: Roles of the Parties

CHAPTER 9: School, Law Enforcement, and Religion

CHAPTER 10: Guardianships, Special Needs Trusts, and Other Estate Planning Issues
CHAPTER 11: Forms and Samples ............................................................ 199

CHAPTER 12: Resources ................................................................. 251
  I. National Dissemination Center for Children with Disabilities ........... 251
  II. State Councils on Developmental Disabilities .............................. 253
  III. State Departments of Education ............................................ 264
  IV. Additional Agencies and Organizations .................................. 270

CHAPTER 13: Bibliography ............................................................... 287

CHAPTER 14: Checklists ................................................................. 305
  1. Initial Interview—What to Ask the Client ................................. 306
  2. Client File Contents—Items the Lawyer Should Have in Her Client File When Handling a Special Needs Divorce Case .... 308
  3. Drafting the Petition—Special Subject Areas for the Petition ......... 309
  4. Statement of Income and Expenses—What Should Be Included in the Statement of Income and Expenses .................. 310
  5. Answer and Cross-Petition—How to Prepare the Answer and Cross-Petition .................................................. 311
  6. Discovery—Subjects to Explore Through the Discovery Process .... 312
  7. Temporary Orders—Do You Need to File a PDL Motion (Interim Order)? ......................................................... 318
  8. Child Support—Special Considerations Regarding Child Support .......................................................... 319
  9. Custody—Special Considerations Regarding Custody .................. 320
 10. Visitation—Special Considerations Regarding Visitation ............. 321
 12. Property Distribution—Special Considerations Regarding Property Distribution, Including Retirement Accounts ........ 323
 13. Counseling—Special Issues for Counseling ............................... 324
    Parents .............................................................................. 324
    Special Needs Children ....................................................... 324
    Siblings of Special Needs Children ....................................... 324

Glossary ......................................................................................... 327

Index ............................................................................................ 335