This book is intended to provide an overview of lead paint, asbestos, and Chinese drywall litigation. While we have attempted to include case law and statutes in many jurisdictions, lead paint litigation, for example, is primarily centered in jurisdictions with old housing stock that remains contaminated with dust and soil from the prior use of lead-based paint. Nevertheless, we hope we have provided a handy guide covering a broad spectrum of issues that often arise or should be considered and strategies for prosecuting and defending not only lead paint cases but also asbestos and Chinese drywall cases. While we have attempted to be as current as possible, the law is ever changing.