1. A Man Was Told by a Police Officer to Get Out of the Street, and to Walk Somewhere Else . . . . . 199 2. When the Man Turned toward the Police Officer, There Was a Struggle, and the Officer in Response Used a Large Amount

Police Early on Were Selective in What They Shared with the Media . . . . . 203

Happened: Whether the Man Was Mostly Blameless or Mostly to Blame, and Whether the Force Was Excessive or Proportional . . . . . 206
