Chapter 5

Compensating Fact Witnesses .......................................................... 221
I. Introduction .................................................................................. 221
II. Governing Rules and Statutes ....................................................... 225
   A. Model Rule of Professional Conduct 3.4(b) ................................. 226
   B. California Rule of Professional Conduct 5-310 ......................... 233
   C. The Federal Anti-bribery or Anti-gratuity Statute ....................... 234
   D. Summary and Synthesis .............................................................. 235
III. Illustrative Cases ....................................................................... 237
   A. Cases Approving Fact Witnesses’ Compensation ....................... 237
   B. Cases Disapproving of Fact Witnesses’ Compensation ............. 243
IV. Recommendations for Lawyers ................................................... 248
V. Conclusion ............................................................................... 252

Chapter 6

Ex Parte Communications: Critical Concerns for Lawyers ................. 253
I. Introduction and Overview ......................................................... 253
II. Applicable Rules of Professional Conduct ................................... 254
   A. Model Rule 4.2 .................................................................. 254
   B. Model Rule 4.3 .................................................................. 268
   C. Model Rule 4.4(a) ............................................................... 269
III. Communications with Current and Former Employees ............... 271
IV. Ex Parte Communications with In-House Counsel ..................... 275
V. Ex Parte Communications with Treating Physicians .................... 278
VI. Ex Parte Communications with Expert Witnesses ..................... 284
VII. The Special Problem of Class and Collective Actions ................ 290
    A. Class Communications by Plaintiffs’ Counsel ......................... 290
    B. Restrictions on Plaintiffs’ Counsel and the Issue of Prior Restraint 292
    C. Places the First Amendment Does Not Always Reach ............. 298
    D. Class Communications by Defendants and Their Counsel ....... 308
VIII. Lawyers’ Ex Parte Communications with Government Agencies ....... 320
    A. The Model Rule 4.2 Authorized by Law Exception ............... 321
    B. ABA Formal Opinions 95-396 and 97-408 ............................ 321
    C. The Restatement (Third) of the Law Governing Lawyers .......... 327
    D. Jurisdictions with Express Government Contacts Exceptions .... 328
    E. Special Considerations ....................................................... 329
IX. Conclusion ............................................................................ 331

Chapter 7

The Receipt and Release of Confidential Information ....................... 333
I. Introduction and Overview ......................................................... 333
II. Lawyers’ Ethical Obligations with Respect to Client Information ...... 334
III. The Inadvertent Production of Confidential Information and Its Consequences for Senders and Recipients ......................... 347
IV. Receipt of Confidential Information Belonging to Others from One Not Authorized to Have It .................................................... 366
V. Practical Guidance and Protective Measures ................................ 378
VI. Conclusion ............................................................................ 383
Chapter 8
The Ethics of E-discovery .......................................................... 385
I. Introduction ........................................................................... 385
II. E-discovery and the Evolving Nature of the Ethical Duty of Competence ........................................................................... 387
III. Some Basics and Background of E-discovery Competence ........................................................................... 389
   A. The 2006 Amendments to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ................................................................. 389
   B. How ESI Differs from Paper Records .............................................................................................................. 391
   C. Litigation Holds and the Duty to Preserve Evidence ...................................................................................... 394
   D. The Seminal E-discovery Cases: Zubulake v. UBS Warburg LLC ................................................................. 396
   E. The Sedona Conference Cooperation Proclamation: Cooperation and Transparency as E-discovery Competence ................................................................. 398
IV. Beyond Competence: Ethical Considerations During the Discovery Process ................................................................. 400
   A. Preservation of Information .......................................................................................................................... 400
   B. Propounding Discovery .................................................................................................................................. 401
   C. Discovery Responses and Objections ........................................................................................................... 403
   D. Document Review and Production ............................................................................................................... 409
   E. Working with E-discovery Vendors and Consultants .................................................................................... 413
   F. Ethical Implications Once a Court Rules that E-discovery Has Gone Wrong ......................................................... 416
V. Social Media Discovery .................................................................................................................................. 416
   A. Informal Discovery and Investigation of Opposing Parties and Witnesses ......................................................... 417
   B. Investigating and Monitoring Prospective and Sitting Jurors Through Social Media ......................................................... 422
   C. Preserving Social Media Evidence ............................................................................................................... 429
VI. Qualcomm: What Happened and Its Potential E-discovery Legacy ........................................................................... 434
VII. Conclusion ............................................................................. 438

Chapter 9
Expert Witness Conflicts of Interest .................................................. 441
I. Introduction ............................................................................... 441
II. Expert Witnesses and Conflicts of Interest ...................................... 442
   A. Conflicts of Interest and Disqualification Generally ...................................................................................... 445
   B. When Does a Lawyer Have an “Objectively Reasonably Belief” That a Confidential Relationship Has Been Established? ...................................................................................... 449
   C. What Constitutes “Confidential Information” for Purposes of Expert Witness Disqualification? ................................................................. 452
   D. Issues of Proof: Establishing That Confidential Information Was Disclosed ...................................................................................... 454
III. Counsel’s Responsibility for Discovering Expert Witness Conflicts ........................................................................... 455
IV. Recurring and Emerging Expert Conflict Issues .................................. 460
   A. Affiliated Experts within the Same Firm or Practice ...................................................................................... 460
   B. Former Employees Testifying as Experts against Former Employers ...................................................................................... 463
   C. Expert Conflicts Involving Treating Physicians ...................................................................................... 469
   D. Opposing Experts Consulting with One Another and Other Collaborative Efforts ...................................................................................... 471
E. Waiver as a Defense to Expert Disqualification Based on Conflict of Interest ......................................................... 473

V. Expert Disqualification and Conflicts: Summary and Guidance ............. 474

VI. That’s Not What You Thought He Was Going to Say: “Side-Switching” and Designated but Withdrawn Experts ....................................................... 478
   A. The Entitlement Test ................................................................. 479
   B. The Discretionary or Balancing Standard ...................................... 480
   C. The Exceptional Circumstances Test ............................................ 483
   D. Summary of Side-Switching and Expert Withdrawal Considerations .... 484

VII. Conclusion ................................................................................. 486

Chapter 10
Civility and Saber-Rattling ................................................................. 489

I. Introduction .................................................................................. 489

II. Civility ......................................................................................... 492
   A. Cases and Controversies ............................................................ 492
   B. Uncivil Behavior as Unethical Behavior ....................................... 499
   C. Summary .................................................................................. 508

III. Saber-Rattling .............................................................................. 509
   A. Applicable Rules of Professional Conduct ................................. 509
   B. Threatening Criminal Action ...................................................... 516
   C. Summary and Recommendations for Lawyers ............................. 525
   D. Threatening Professional Discipline .......................................... 528

IV. Conclusion .................................................................................. 540

Chapter 11
Candor to the Tribunal ...................................................................... 543

I. Introduction .................................................................................. 543

II. Candor in Context ......................................................................... 544
   A. False Statements of Fact or Law .................................................. 550
   B. False Statements and the Duty to Correct ...................................... 556
   C. Silence as Statement: Misrepresentation by Omission .................. 557
   D. Materiality .................................................................................. 560
   E. The Curious Case of Plagiarism .................................................... 561
   F. Ghostwriting and Lawyer Identity ................................................ 566
   G. Special Responsibilities of Prosecutors ........................................ 575
   H. Conclusion .................................................................................. 577

III. Disclosing Directly Adverse Authority ........................................... 578

IV. Candor in Ex Parte Proceedings .................................................... 585
   A. Illustrative Cases ......................................................................... 586
   B. Defining Ex Parte Proceedings ..................................................... 590
   C. Model Rule 3.3(d) May Not Apply to Prosecutors Presenting Cases to Grand Juries .................................................... 591

V. Deception and Illusion as Advocacy Techniques ............................... 592
   A. Court as Theater ......................................................................... 593
   B. The Critics Speak ......................................................................... 605

VI. Conclusion .................................................................................. 607
Chapter 12
False Testimony by Clients and Witnesses ................................. 609
 I. Introduction ........................................................................ 609
 II. Lawyers' Duty of Candor and the Problem of False Testimony ...... 610
     A. Applicable Rules of Professional Conduct .......................... 611
     B. The Duration of the Obligation ....................................... 615
     C. Candor Trumps Confidentiality ....................................... 617
     D. False Testimony and the Knowledge Element ..................... 620
     E. Knowledge Versus Reasonable Belief ............................. 632
     F. Materiality ..................................................................... 633
     G. The Model Rule 3.3 Remediation Requirement ................... 636
     H. Failing to Remedy False Testimony under Model Rule 3.4(b) .... 638
 III. False Testimony in Criminal Cases ...................................... 638
     A. Lawyers' Options When Confronting Prospective False Testimony .... 639
     B. Illustrative Narrative Cases .......................................... 642
     C. The Problem of Surprise Perjury ..................................... 650
     D. Testimony by Witnesses ............................................... 652
     E. Special Responsibilities of Prosecutors ............................. 653
     F. Summary ..................................................................... 654
 IV. Prevention of False Testimony and Reasonable Remedial Measures .... 655
     A. Prospective False Testimony ......................................... 656
     B. False Testimony in Retrospect ...................................... 658
     C. Ex Parte Disclosure of False Testimony ........................... 659
     D. The Problem of Disclosure in Bench Trials ....................... 660
 V. Conclusion ..................................................................... 662

Chapter 13
Lawyers as Witnesses .............................................................. 665
 I. Introduction ........................................................................ 665
 II. An Overview of Lawyers as Fact Witnesses .......................... 666
 III. Understanding the Advocate-Witness Rule ............................ 669
     A. The Scope and Reach of Model Rule 3.7(a) ........................ 669
     B. Excluding the Lawyer's Testimony Rather than Disqualifying the Lawyer .................................................. 683
 IV. Exceptions to the Advocate-Witness Rule .............................. 685
     A. The Uncontested Issue Exception to Model Rule 3.7(a) ........ 685
     B. The Nature and Value of Legal Services Exception ............. 685
     C. The Substantial Hardship Exception to Model Rule 3.7(a) .... 687
 V. Model Rule 3.7(b) and Personal Versus Imputed Disqualification .... 692
 VI. The Consequences of Tactical Abuses .................................. 695
 VII. Conclusion .................................................................... 699
Chapter 14

Professional Responsibility and Liability in Negotiations

- I. Introduction ........................................... 701
- II. Negotiation and Authority to Settle .................. 704
- III. Lawyers’ Duty to Communicate with Clients ....... 707
  - A. The Potential Insurance Defense Trap .................. 711
  - B. Summary ............................................. 714
- IV. Lawyers’ Duty of Confidentiality .................... 715
- V. Lawyers’ Duty of Honesty to Third Persons .......... 722
  - A. Applicable Rules of Professional Conduct .............. 722
  - B. Affirmative Misrepresentation Cases ................... 727
  - C. The Failure to Disclose and Concealment ............... 733
  - D. Summary ............................................. 740
- VI. Negotiations Involving Tribunals and Lawyers’ Associated Duty of Candor ............................ 742
- VII. Civil Liability for Fraud or Misrepresentation ..... 748
- VIII. Conclusion ........................................ 761

Chapter 15

Ethics on Appeal

- I. Introduction ........................................... 763
- II. Appellate Lawyers and the Truth ...................... 764
  - A. The Duty to Disclose Adverse Authority ................. 765
  - B. False Statements of Material Fact or Law and Other Forms of Dishonesty .............................................. 773
- III. Lawyers’ Criticism of Courts ........................ 778
  - A. Limitations on Lawyers’ Speech Rights and the First Amendment .................................................. 779
  - B. The Problem of Perception and Courts’ Willingness to Presume the Worst ............................................. 790
- IV. Frivolous Appeals and Other Bad Faith Litigation ........ 800
  - A. Model Rule 3.1 and Similar Restrictions Apply Equally to Appeals .................................................. 800
  - B. Special Issues in Criminal Appeals ...................... 805
  - C. Statutory Prohibitions and Court Rules Regarding Frivolous Appeals .................................................. 806
- V. Lawyers’ Ethical Duties to Avoid Delay and Expedite Litigation .................................................. 809
- VI. Issue or Positional Conflicts of Interest .............. 813
- VII. Conclusion ............................................. 817

Table of Cases

- Index ..................................................... 907