

About the Authors

Imran Ahmad (Chapter 10: Canada) is a partner in the Toronto office of Miller Thomson LLP, a full-service Canadian law firm. He leads the Cybersecurity, Data Protection and Privacy practice and has extensive experience in advising clients on matters relating to electronic commerce, including privacy, data protection, anti-spam, and social media. He advises domestic and foreign clients seeking compliance with Canadian laws and assists them in the case of regulatory enforcement action or litigation. Imran holds a civil-law degree from University of Montreal, a common-law degree from University of Sherbrooke, and an LL.M. in antitrust law from the University of Ottawa. Prior to his legal career, Imran worked as a senior political advisor to Senator Roméo A. Dallaire and clerked for Justice Edmond P. Blanchard at the Federal Court of Canada. His clients include small, medium, and large companies, as well as inventors and other individuals. He can be reached at iahmad@millerthomson.com or +1 416-597-6031.

Paul Beattie (Chapter 6: Intellectual Property) is a partner at Rimon Law, an international business law firm. He heads the intellectual property litigation practice and has extensive experience litigating all kinds of intellectual property disputes, as well as other commercial matters. Paul has taken or defended hundreds of depositions, has first-chaired over 30 federal, state, and administrative trials, and has participated in over 60 arbitrations and mediations, all with a better than 90 percent success rate. Paul is an honors graduate of the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan Law School. He was also a judicial clerk on the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. In another life, Paul was a U.S. Marine Corps infantryman. His clients include small, medium, and large companies, as well as inventors and other individuals. Paul has taught legal writing, trial advocacy, and intellectual property litigation courses at several law schools. He can be reached at Paul.Beattie@RimonLaw.com or 800-930-7271 x-236.

Brad Blanchard (Chapter 8: Ethics and Admissibility) is the supervising attorney in charge of Outsourced Services at Lexington Law Firm, where he also sits on the firm's Compliance Committee. His practice focuses primarily on compliance risk mitigation arising from the intersection of technology, business, and legal practice. A graduate of the Appalachian School of Law, he also served as editor-in-chief of the Appalachian Journal of Law. He currently resides in Salt Lake City, Utah. Mr. Blanchard can be reached at brad@johnheathlaw.com.

Renato M. S. Opice Blum (Appendix II: Brazil) is a partner at Opice Blum, Bruno, Abrusio e Vainzof, Attorneys at Law; MSc, attorney and economist; Digital Law program professor and coordinator of courses in Brazil; former vice-chair of the Privacy, E-Commerce and Data Security Committee of American Bar Association Section of International Law; recognized professional for four consecutive years in international publications such as Chambers & Partners, Who's Who, and Best Lawyers; invited speaker at several events, both national and international; author of the book Electronic Law: Internet and Courts; coordinator and co-author of the book Manual of Electronic Law and Internet; co-author of the article "Recent Development on Cyberspace Law: A View from Brazil" (The Business Lawyer, American Bar Association, 2013), "Brazilian's Chapter" of Data Protection & Privacy Law (2d Edition, European Lawyer, Thomson Reuters). Mr. Blum can be reached at renato@opiceblum.com.br.

Jerry Cohen (Chapter 8: Ethics and Admissibility) is a partner at Burns & Levinson in Boston. He has more than 40 years of experience as a lawyer dealing with patent, copyright, trademark, unfair competition, licensing/franchising, visual arts, software, databases, and publication law; formation and operation of business enterprises and not-for-profit organizations; and international trade, litigation/ADR, and legal ethics. He handles acquisition, licensing, and litigation of intellectual property rights. He has also served as an expert witness, arbitrator, and mediator in intellectual property matters. He can be reached at jcohen@burnslev.com or +1 617.345.3276.

Margaret "Molly" DiBianca (Chapter 8: Ethics and Admissibility) is counsel at Young Conway Stargatt & Taylor, LLP, in Wilmington, Delaware, where she practices employment law, representing and counseling employers on all workplace issues. She helps clients develop and implement HR policies, trains executives and managers on best practices, defends businesses against suits brought by current and former employees, and assists clients to enforce non-compete agreements. Molly is the head of the Social Media Working Group for the Delaware Commission on Law and Technology and speaks to audiences across the country about social media and the workplace, as well as the intersection of social media and legal ethics. Molly's blog, The Delaware Employment Law Blog, was inducted into the ABA Journal's Blawg Hall of Fame in 2015. She can be reached at mdibianca@ycst.com or +1 302-571-5008.

Natasha Dorsey (Chapter 1: Employment) is an associate in the Employment Law group of Rimon, P.C. She has experience in multiple areas of civil litigation, including state and federal labor and employment law. Ms. Dorsey has successfully defended numerous charges by employees filed with state and federal anti-discrimination agencies and the National Labor Relations Board. Ms. Dorsey earned both her law and undergraduate degrees from Florida State University. Ms. Dorsey is licensed to practice in Florida and Illinois. She can be reached at Natasha.Dorsey@RimonLaw.com.

Pamela M. Egan (Appendix I: Russia) is a partner at Rimon, P.C., an international business law firm. She focuses on bankruptcy reorganizations, bankruptcy litigation, and business litigation in courts of all jurisdictions. Ms. Egan has represented a wide variety of clients—large public corporations and smaller businesses, debtors, creditors' committees and trustees—across many industries in both bankruptcy and where bankruptcy affected the client's interests. She also has an international practice involving Russian business interests. As co-chair of the ABA's Russia Eurasia Committee, Ms. Egan created and is directing a survey of legal obstacles affecting small high-tech companies in Russia. The survey has been taken in five Russian cities. Pamela Egan graduated from Dartmouth College, cum laude, and from Cornell University, where she earned her JD. She is admitted to the California Bar. She can be reached at Pamela.Egan@RimonLaw.com or +1 415-688-4622.

Pat Fahy (Appendix III: Cyber Terrorism) is professor in the Centre for Distance Education, and coordinates the Graduate Diploma in Distance Education (Technology) at Athabasca University in Alberta, Canada. He taught at AVC Edmonton (now Norquest College), and before that, briefly in the K-12 system in Manitoba, and in the continuing education programs of Grant MacEwan Community College and Edmonton Public Schools. For over five years, he worked in the private sector for an educational technology company. Besides the Alberta Distance Education and Training Association (ADETA), he has in the past served on the executives of provincial and national adult literacy associations and various aviation-related groups. Dr. Fahy can be reached at patf@athabascau.ca or 780-465-5183.

Jen Geary (Appendix III: Cyber Terrorism) was awarded her PhD in 2008 from the University of South Australia. Later she was to receive her LLB and her MA (Psychology) degrees. In 2009 Dr. Geary was the recipient of the New South Wales Bar Association Human Rights Prize. In her thesis work for her MA, she liaised with governments and professionals across six countries. Dr. Geary has an interdisciplinary background and an eclectic practice. She can be reached at tridentcounseling@yahoo.ca.

Duris L. Holmes (Chapter 8: Ethics and Admissibility) is a partner in the New Orleans office of Deutsch Kerrigan, L.L.P. His practice includes litigation and transactions involving intellectual property, technology, franchising, and general business matters. Duris attended Louisiana Tech University and is an honors graduate of Tulane University Law School. He can be reached at dholmes@deutschkerrigan.com or +1 504-593-0659.

John Isaza (Editor in Chief, Introduction, and Chapter 3: Records) is a fellow of ARMA International and heads the Records and Information Governance practice at Rimon Law, a twenty-first century international business law firm. By bringing structure to chaos, Mr. Isaza is internationally recognized in the field. He has developed information governance and records management programs for some of the most highly regulated Global 1000 companies. He has facilitated records retention research in over 130 countries. Prior to joining Rimon, Mr. Isaza served as general counsel to a publicly traded medical device manufacturer now owned by Abbott Labs. He is co-author of 7 Steps for Legal Holds of ESI and Other Documents, and contributing author to the ABA's Internet Law for the Business Lawyer, Second Edition. Mr. Isaza can be reached at John.Isaza@RimonLaw.com or +1 949-715-7010 x-233.

Martha Lessman Katz (Chapter 5: Ownership) helps businesses do better technology/Internet deals and advises on privacy and data security matters, emerging issues with social media, and strategies to protect IP assets. Examples include business protection/confidentiality agreements, in-and-out licensing, outsourcing, technology transfer, subscription agreements, website legal terms, Software/Platform/Infrastructure-as-a-Service, and cloud-computing agreements. Named Best Lawyer in Baltimore for Information Technology, Martha has also been named to Best Lawyers in America in Information Technology Law each year since 2009. In addition to being licensed to practice law in California, Illinois, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, she is certified as both an Information Privacy Professional (CIPP-US) and a Licensing Professional (CLP). Ms. Lessman Katz may be reached at her firm, Lessman|Katz Law, martha@lessmankatzlaw.com.

Q. Scott Kaye (Chapter 11: Australia and Asia) is a partner at Rimon, P.C. He has extensive experience advising companies, lenders, sponsors, and private equity funds and their portfolio companies on mergers and acquisitions, restructuring and finance matters, as well as technology companies from start-up to exit, on equity and debt-financing matters. Having advised clients on more than $65 billion in financing and debt restructuring in hundreds of transactions, Mr. Kaye represents private lenders and borrowers as purchasers in acquisitions and acquisition financing, asset-based lending, bridge financing, liquidity lines, mezzanine and subordinated debt, second-lien financing, DIP financing and trustees, debtors, DIP lenders, and creditors in out-of-court workouts and formal bankruptcy proceedings. Mr. Kaye can be reached at q.scott.kaye@rimonlaw.com or +1 310-331-8533.

Dan Klein (Chapter 4: Cybersecurity and Risk) is an associate at Kane, Russell, Coleman & Logan. He practices in the Financial Services and Litigation sections of the Dallas office. His experience includes complex commercial litigation in federal and state court, arbitrations, and mediations. He has participated in litigating a wide range of disputes, including antitrust, securities, fraud, breach of contract, and bankruptcy-related litigation matters. He can be reached at DKlein@krcl.com or +1 214-777-4252.

Sara Beth A.R. Kohut (Chapter 5: Ownership) is counsel at Young Conaway Stargatt & Taylor, LLP, in Wilmington, Delaware, where she is co-chair of the Cybersecurity, Privacy and Data Protection practice team. Her practice focuses on representing and advising legal representatives for future claimants in connection with mass tort bankruptcy cases and post-bankruptcy personal injury claim settlement trusts. As a Certified Information Privacy Professional/United States, she regularly assists clients with developing policies and strategies for the protection of confidential and sensitive data. Ms. Kohut can be reached at skohut@ycst.com or +1 302-571-5004.

Patrick Kyhos (Chapter 2: Governance and Chapter 4: Cybersecurity and Risk) concentrates his practice on information security and privacy. Mr. Kyhos served as chief of staff to a Maryland Democrat. He developed policies and advanced legislation that promoted emerging technologies and technology companies. Mr. Kyhos can be reached at Patrick.F.Kyhos@gmail.com or + 1 202-337-7227 x 14.

Paul Lanois (Chapter 4: Cybersecurity and Risk) is vice president and senior legal counsel at Credit Suisse. Paul is a global privacy, data protection, and information security expert and is an attorney admitted to the bars of the District of Columbia (D.C.), New York (N.Y.) and the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS). He regularly publishes articles on technology law and is frequently invited to speak on such topics. In 2016, he was named a “Cybersecurity & Data Privacy Trailblazer” by the National Law Journal and an “Innovative Corporate Counsel” by Law 360. He was also recognized as a leading lawyer in The Legal 500’s GC Powerlist. He has been recognized as a fellow of Information Privacy (FIP) by the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP) and is a Certified Information Privacy Professional, with concentrations in Asian law (CIPP/A), U.S. law (CIPP/US), European law (CIPP/E), and Canadian law (CIPP/C). He is also a Certified Information Privacy Manager (CIPM) and a Certified Information Privacy Technologist (CIPT). He was an associate professor at the University of Cergy-Pontoise in France and an associate at major international law firms (Simpson Thacher & Bartlett, Allen & Overy, and Linklaters). Mr. Lanois can be reached at paul.lanois@outlook.com.

Caio César Carvalho Lima (Appendix II: Brazil) is a partner at Opice Blum, Bruno, Abrusio e Vainzof, Attorneys at Law. He holds an MSc in Civil Procedural Law from Pontifical Catholic University of São Paulo and is a Digital Law professor in Brazil; a speaker for lectures both national and international; and an author of papers and chapters of books related to digital law and digital education. His areas of practice are Digital Law, Data Protection, and Intellectual Property. Mr. Lima can be reached at caio@opiceblum.com.br.

David Ma (Chapter 10: Canada) is a partner at Blaney McMurtry LLP, a Canadian firm based in Toronto, Ontario. David has practiced technology law for a broad range of clients over the past 16 years. His peers and clients have seen fit to endorse his abilities, leading to his inclusion in Who's Who Legal (Telecommunications Media & Technology—Information Technology), Lexpert® (Repeatedly Recommended), and Best Lawyers in Canada. He can be reached at dma@blaney.com or +1 (416) 596-2895.

Scott Malouf (Chapter 7: Defamation, Discovery, and Fake News) is a social media attorney and solo practitioner. He helps lawyers use social media in all aspects of litigation. He also helps organizations use social media for business, advising on social media guidelines, policies and practices. He was recently appointed to the American Bar Association/BNA Lawyers Manual on Professional Conduct Editorial Advisory Board. Scott is also an active member of the New York State Bar Association's Social Media Committee, where he co-authored the Social Media Ethics Guidelines, an influential national ethics resource, and contributed to the Social Media Jury Instructions Report. Scott writes and speaks extensively and has appeared on television, National Public Radio (NPR), before the National Advertising Division (part of the BBB), on behalf of the American Board of Trial Advocates, at CLEs and in many other forums. He can be reached at info@scottmalouf.com. See more at Scott's LinkedIn profile (linkedin.com/in/socialmediaattorney/) or his Twitter account: @ScottMalouf.

Melinda “Mindy” Morton (Chapter 6: Intellectual Property and Chapter 7: Defamation, Discovery, and Fake News) is a partner in the Palo Alto office of Procopio, Cory, Hargreaves & Savitch LLP. Ms. Morton's practice focuses on Internet and intellectual property litigation. She litigates cutting-edge cases at the intersection of technology and free speech issues. She defends Internet companies against defamation, copyright, trademark, and related claims on First Amendment, Communications Decency Act Section 230, DMCA and US SPEECH Act grounds. She also helps clients resolve disputes involving trade secret, patent, trademark, copyright, computer fraud, and non-compete agreement litigation. Ms. Morton was recognized as one of Silicon Valley's Women of Influence in 2016. Ms. Morton can be reached at mindy.morton@procopio.com.

Adam Nadelhaft (Chapter 2: Governance) is a senior litigation associate in the Washington office of Winston & Strawn LLP, and concentrates his practice on antitrust, complex commercial litigation, and e-discovery and social media. Mr. Nadelhaft has been recognized by SuperLawyers as a Washington, D.C. Rising Star from 2013 through 2017, and he is the co-author of How to Navigate Social Media Hazards. Mr. Nadelhaft can be reached at anadelhaft@winston.com or + 1 202-282-5883.

Jamie Quient (Chapter 7: Defamation, Discovery, and Fake News and Chapter 8: Ethics and Admissibility) is an associate at Procopio, Cory, Hargreaves & Savitch LLP, where she represents companies and municipalities in all areas of civil litigation with a focus on intellectual property and insurance bad-faith litigation. Ms. Quient helps companies protect and defend their intellectual property, including trademarks, trade secrets, copyrights, and patents. Ms. Quient also provides pre-litigation counseling and represents policyholders in insurance coverage and bad-faith litigation, helping them maximize their coverage and recover their insurance benefits. Prior to joining Procopio, she served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Michael M. Anello, district court judge in the Southern District of California. Ms. Quient can be reached at jamie.quient@procopio.com.

Joseph Rosenbaum (Chapter 7: Defamation, Discovery, and Fake News) is a partner at Rimon, P.C., based in New York. Joe is an internationally recognized and highly valued media, entertainment, marketing and promotions, corporate-commercial transactional lawyer, known as much for his strategic advice and policy acumen, as his legal skills and practical judgment. Prior to joining Rimon, Joe was a partner at Reed Smith LLP and prior to private practice, serviced for 17 years as an in-house lawyer for American Express, including 4 years in Toronto as Vice President & General Counsel of Amex Canada. Joe can be reached at Joe.Rosenbaum@RimonLaw.com or +1(646) 513-3225.

Sajai Singh (Chapter 11: Australia and Asia) is a partner at J. Sagar Associates and undertakes transactional work with a focus on representing emerging technology companies in areas of inbound investments in India. During his career he has represented technology clients focused in a cross-section of industries, including defence, banking and finance, hospitality, automotive, retail and communication. He has helped many international businesses and funds to conduct transactions in India. These clients include established and high-technology companies, Internet start-ups, connectivity specialists, e-commerce ventures, conversion technology, and technology-based entertainment industries. He leads the Firm's Knowledge-Based Industries Practice. Sajai's work requires him to actively engage with various regulators. Sajai is the past president of ITechLaw, the International Technology Lawyers Association, headquartered in the U.S. This was a first for any Asian. Mr. Singh can be reached at sajai@jsalaw.com or 91 98450 78666 / 91-080-43503627.

Valerie Surgenor (Co-editor, Introduction and Chapter 9: UK and Europe) is a partner in the Glasgow, Scotland, law firm MacRoberts LLP. Ms. Surgenor is a member of the ABA's Cyberspace Law Committee and is a partner in the firm's IP, Technology & Commercial Group, where she focuses on non-contentious IP, IT, compliance, and regulatory matters. She also advises public sector and commercial clients in the area of competition law, anticorruption, and the new UK Bribery Act and its related compliance issues. Before becoming a solicitor, she worked as a manager in the social care sector, and she is the head of the MacRoberts Not for Profit, Charities, and Third Sector Group, advising on charity law and particularly in the area of compliance and regulatory matters. She has a Master's degree in information technology and telecommunications law from the University of Strathclyde (Scotland) and is a frequent author in the areas of data privacy and data protection across a wide range of sectors and anti-bribery compliance. She can be reached at valerie.surgenor@macroberts.com.

Thomas M. White (Chapter 1: Employment) is a partner at Rimon Law, an international business law firm. He heads the firm's Benefits and Compensation practice, and his experience also includes employment law matters. His clients range from very large employers to start-ups, and his representations have involved matters both domestic and international. He is a frequent author of articles in his field. Mr. White can be reached at Thomas.White@RimonLaw.com.

John Zeleznikow (Appendix III: Cyber Terrorism) Professor John Zeleznikow currently teaches at the College of Business, Victoria University, Melbourne, Australia, and is an internationally recognised expert with over 40 years of research experience, including the last 20 years working on negotiation decision support and machine learning in law. This is evidenced by the publication of three books, 75 refereed journal articles (including the Harvard Negotiation Law Review and Monash University Law Review), and 150 refereed conference articles. He has received over 7 million Australian dollars in competitive research grants, significant international collaboration and industry funding; supervised 15 PhD students to completion; and conducted over 20 radio and television appearances. In November 2005, he won his heat of the ABC "New Inventors" program for his negotiation support system, Family Winner, which enhances negotiation in Australian family disputes. He has worked in the university sector for 44 years, with extended experience in the U.S.A., France, Netherlands, United Kingdom, Poland, and Israel. He has also worked with Victoria Legal Aid, Relationships Australia, and the New Zealand government. He has written articles for the Economist, Boston Globe, London Daily Telegraph, Times of London, CNN and El Periodico in Barcelona. His expertise is in negotiation, mediation, alternative dispute resolution, and online dispute resolution. He currently teaches alternative dispute resolution and research methods. He is a pioneer in the use of machine learning and law and can be reached at John.Zeleznikow@vu.edu.au.