The past decade has featured numerous high-profile decisions, including that of the Supreme Court in FTC v. Actavis, that have fundamentally influenced the advice that practitioners give to their pharmaceutical clients. The goal of this updated edition of the Handbook, as with the first edition, is to provide a comprehensive and objective source about the most important antitrust issues faced by the pharmaceutical industry today.

First and foremost, the creation of this Second Edition would not have been possible without all of those who labored on the First Edition, and the Health Care & Pharmaceuticals Committee would like to thank the dozens of individuals who contributed to that effort.

Special thanks are also due to co-editors Jacqueline Grise and Richard Coe, and the Books and Treatises Committee, particularly Brandon Bigelow and Leo Caseria, all of whom spent substantial time and effort on creating a high-quality, useful, and accessible guide. These primary editors were aided by numerous others, including authors who contributed content, and editors who reviewed each chapter to ensure an objective and balanced perspective, and who proofread, formatted, cite-checked, and implemented edits after each round of review.

The names of the authors and editors who made this Second Edition possible are listed below. We would also like to thank the associates, librarians, paralegals, secretaries, and other law firm staff members who might not themselves be named below but who provided invaluable support to the authors and editors.
