

About the Author

The Curmudgeon is, of course, a figment of Mark Herrmann's imagination. Mark Herrmann himself is not quite as old and not quite as nasty as you might think after having read this book. He graduated from Princeton University in 1979 and The University of Michigan Law School (Order of the Coif, Michigan Law Review) in 1983. After graduation, he clerked for The Honorable Dorothy W. Nelson in the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Mark practiced at the relatively small firm of Steinhart & Falconer in San Francisco from 1984 to 1989, when he moved to Cleveland and joined the international law firm Jones Day, where he was a partner when he wrote the original edition of this book. Mark is now the deputy general counsel of Aon plc. Mark's other books include Drug and Device Product Liability Litigation Strategy (Oxford Univ. Press 2d rev. ed. 2018) (with co-authors); Inside Straight: Advice About Lawyering, In-House and Out, That Only The Internet Could Provide (ABA 2012); and Statewide Coordinated Proceedings: State Court Analogues to the Federal MDL Process (Thomson-West 2d rev. ed. 2004) (with co-authors). His articles have appeared in, among other places, The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal.

The Curmudgeonly Assistant is a product of the joint imagination of Mark Herrmann and Laura Bozzelli. Laura worked as Mark's secretary at Jones Day. She conceived the idea, and wrote the first draft, of Chapter 4.

As noted on the copyright acknowledgment page, Mark's former partner, John Edwards, gets half the credit for Chapter 5, "The Curmudgeon's Law Dictionary." Now that's a guy with a sense of humor.
