

About the Author

John A. Zervopoulos, Ph.D., J.D., ABPP, a board certified forensic psychologist and lawyer, directs PsychologyLaw Partners, a national forensic consulting service that helps family lawyers to critique mental health experts, their work, and their testimony, and to address the resulting evidentiary reliability issues in court.

In addition, Dr. Zervopoulos writes extensively and presents seminars to lawyers and mental health professionals. His previous book, Confronting Mental Health Evidence: A Practical PLAN to Examine Reliability and Experts in Family Law (2d ed.), was published in 2015 by the American Bar Association. He also publishes PsychologyLaw Brief, a semimonthly e-mail that offers practice tips for family lawyers to guide case preparation, assess the reliability of experts' methods and reasoning, sharpen deposition and court examinations, and frame legal arguments.

Among his professional activities, Dr. Zervopoulos served on the Expert Witness Committee of the State Bar of Texas Family Law Section and contributed several papers to the committee's published manual. He also served on the American Psychological Association's Committee on Professional Practice and Standards and on the Committee on Legal Issues. In addition, he is Clinical Associate Professor in Psychiatry at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas.

Dr. Zervopoulos received his B.A. from Wheaton College (IL) in 1974, his Ph.D. in psychology from the University of North Texas in 1981, and his J.D. from Southern Methodist University Dedman School of Law in 1993. In 2002, he earned board certification in forensic psychology from the American Board of Professional Psychology.
