About the Authors

Theodore H. Davis Jr. (Editor) is a partner in the Atlanta office of Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP, where he practices trademark and unfair competition law, including litigation before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and the Federal Circuit. He has served as the chair of the American Bar Association Section of Intellectual Property Law, a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the International Trademark Association, and the chair of the American Intellectual Property Law Association’s Trademark Law Committee. A frequent author, speaker, and expert witness on trademark-related matters, he also has taught as an adjunct professor at the Emory University and the University of Georgia schools of law, as well as testified before Congress on trade dress and Internet issues.

John C. (JC) Heinbockel (Chapter 1) is an associate at Seyfarth Shaw LLP in New York, New York. His practice focuses on global trademark portfolio management and enforcement. He advises clients on Trademark Trial and Appeal Board litigation and strategy, as well as trademark clearance, prosecution, use, and enforcement. Mr. Heinbockel also advises clients on issues including domain names, copyrights, and IP licensing and transactions.

Holly B. Lance (Chapter 2) is an Attorney Advisor for the Office of Policy and International Affairs at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, where she focuses on domestic and international intellectual property enforcement. She previously served ten years in private practice, focusing on trademark prosecution, enforcement, and litigation matters, including Trademark Trial and Appeal Board proceedings. She also has substantial experience with intellectual property licensing and copyright and domain name issues, including UDRP (Uniform Domain Name Dispute Resolution Policy) proceedings. She is the author of several articles relating to trademark and Internet law matters.

Beth A. Chapman (Chapter 3) is an intellectual property advisor to Muncy Geissler, Olds & Lowe, P.C., just outside Washington, D.C., in Fairfax, Virginia. She is a former Administrative Trademark Judge of the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, former Interlocutory Attorney of the Board, former Trademark Managing Attorney, and a former Trademark Examining Attorney at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Ms. Chapman has written several articles and has given numerous speeches and presentations in seminars and classes on trademark registrability and practice before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

Kyoko Imai (Chapter 3) is a principal at Muncy Geissler, Olds & Lowe, P.C., just outside Washington, D.C., in Fairfax, Virginia. Her practice focuses on trademark, unfair competition, and false advertising under the Lanham Act and includes domain name, copyright, and related fields. She has extensive experience providing legal and strategic advice on Trademark Trial and Appeal Board proceedings to U.S. and international clients, as well as on other aspects of U.S. trademark law and mark management, including litigation, disputes, adoption, use, portfolio development, and enforcement.

Linda K. McLeod (Chapter 4) is a partner with Kelly IP, LLP, in Washington, D.C. She has over 25 years of experience handling litigation before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB) and complex United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) prosecution matters. She is a former Administrative Trademark Judge and Interlocutory Attorney with the Board and Examining Attorney for the USPTO. Ms. McLeod frequently speaks on TTAB practice before intellectual property and other organizations, including AIPLA, INTA, Intellectual Property Institute of Canada, and various state bar associations. She has published a number of articles in legal journals and other publications focusing on TTAB and USPTO practice and procedure. Ms. McLeod has served on the USPTO’s Trademark Public Advisory Committee (2011–2014). She has been recognized as a leading trademark practitioner by The Legal 500, The World Trademark Review, Legal Media Group’s Guide to the World’s Leading Trademark Law Practitioners, International Who’s Who of Trademark Lawyers, and Who’s Who Legal: USA—Trademarks.
Stephanie H. Bald (Chapter 4) is a partner with Kelly IP, LLP, in Washington, D.C. She specializes in trademark litigation, disputes, and strategic counseling. She represents clients in federal courts across the country and before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office’s Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB). She has published a number of articles in legal journals and other publications relating to TTAB practice and procedure and routinely speaks on these topics. She has been recognized as a leading trademark practitioner by Legal 500, World Trademark Review, and Managing Intellectual Property. In December 2018, the U.S. Secretary of Commerce appointed Ms. Bald to serve a three-year term on the USPTO’s Trademark Public Advisory Committee (TPAC). Ms. Bald also has long been active with the American Intellectual Property Law Association (AIPLA), in which she has served as the chair and vice chair of the Trademark Law and Trademark Litigation Committees. She is currently a member of the Executive Committee of AIPLA’s Women and IP Committee and will join AIPLA’s Board of Directors starting in the fall of 2020. Since 2014, Ms. Bald has been an adjunct professor at American University’s Washington College of Law, where she teaches an advanced course on trademark practice and procedure.

Mary L. Kevlin (Chapter 5) is a counsel of Cowan Liebowitz & Latman, P.C., in New York, New York. She specializes in domestic and international trademark, copyright, domain name, right of publicity, and related matters, including counseling, clearance, registration, contested administrative proceedings, and litigation. Ms. Kevlin manages intellectual property portfolios and enforcement programs for large U.S. and multinational corporations. She has been an adjunct professor, teaching trademark law, at the New York University School of Law and is a coauthor of a leading trademark casebook, Trademark and Unfair Competition Law. Her writings also include the New York State chapter in INTA’s State Trademarks and Unfair Competition treatise. She has been very active in the ABA Section of Intellectual Property Law, has chaired many of its copyright and trademark committees, and has served on its Council. In addition to being named by “Best Lawyers” and “Super Lawyers” for many years, Ms. Kevlin was named NYC’s Trademark Lawyer of the Year in 2014 by “Best Lawyers.”

Kieran G. Doyle (Chapter 5) is a shareholder of Cowan, Liebowitz & Latman, P.C., in New York, New York. He advises clients in their selection, adoption, registration, and protection of trademarks. Mr. Doyle has represented numerous clients before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and in trademark and copyright litigations before federal courts throughout the country. He regularly negotiates complex trademark licenses and concurrent use agreements. Mr. Doyle has written several published articles on the subject of trademark fair use and parody and has lectured on these topics. He also is the chair of the American Intellectual Property Law Association’s Anti-Counterfeiting and Anti-Piracy Committee and cochair of the Practicing Law Institute’s Advanced Trademark Seminar, and he teaches trademark law at New York University’s School of Continuing and Professional Studies.

Tyson Smith (Chapter 6) is a trademark attorney at Pirkey Barber PLLC in Austin, Texas. His trademark practice includes policing, litigation, and assisting clients in the selection, clearance, and registration of trademarks and managing U.S. and international trademark portfolios. He frequently represents clients in trademark opposition and cancellation proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and in federal courts. He also has significant experience advising clients regarding domain name, social media, and other Internet issues.

William M. Bryner (Chapter 7) is a partner with Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP at its offices in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He practices in the areas of trademark, unfair competition, advertising, and copyright law. Mr. Bryner has more than 20 years of experience litigating matters of this type in federal courts around the country, as well as before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, and has spoken and written extensively in the area of TTAB practice and procedure. He has consistently been named to Business North Carolina’s “Legal Elite” list for Intellectual Property/Trademarks Law and has regularly been listed in The Best Lawyers in America® in the area of Intellectual Property Law. He has often been named a North Carolina “Super Lawyer” in the area of Intellectual Property by North Carolina Super Lawyers magazine. Mr. Bryner is also listed in World Trademark Review’s “World Trademark Review 1000: The Definitive Guide to Trademark Legal Services,” placing him among that publication’s top 1000 trademark lawyers in the world.

Charles H. Hooker III (Chapter 7) is a partner at Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP in Atlanta, Georgia. His practice focuses on trademark, trade dress, and unfair competition litigation in federal courts and before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. He also has extensive experience advising clients on matters related to protecting and enforcing brands, defending against infringement claims, and litigating contractual issues related to trademark disputes. Mr. Hooker has spoken at various seminars on these topics and has been a guest lecturer at the University of Georgia School of Law and Emory University School of Law.

Roberta Jacobs-Meadway (Chapter 8) is a member of Eckert, Seaman, Cherin & Mellott, LLC, at its offices in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She cochairs the intellectual property practice group and serves on the firm’s Executive Committee. She focuses her practice on trademark, copyright, unfair competition law, and related licensing and litigation in the federal courts and before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. Ms. Jacobs-Meadway also serves on the advisory board for intellectual property for ALI-CLE and is a frequent course planner and speaker for the Pennsylvania Bar Institute. She has been recognized by Chambers USA: America’s Leading Lawyers for Business as one of the “leaders in their field” in the area of intellectual property law annually since the 2003 edition. Ms. Jacobs-Meadway also has been selected for inclusion in the Pennsylvania Super Lawyers and The Best Lawyers in America. In addition to being a frequent speaker and published writer on trademark and copyright issues, she is a contributor to the Commercial Damages Reporter.

Roberta S. Bren (Chapter 9) is a principal of Muncy, Geissler, Olds & Lowe, P.C., in the Washington, D.C. area in Fairfax, Virginia. Ms. Bren’s practice covers all aspects of trademark, trade dress, unfair competition, false advertising, domain name, and copyright matters. She began her legal career in a general practice firm in New York, representing individuals and businesses on an array of issues, and then worked at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office as an Examining Attorney. Ms. Bren counsels U.S. and international clients from the early trademark adoption stages through the registration process, including ex parte appeals, as well as in opposition and cancellation actions and court litigation. Her practice also includes worldwide trademark portfolio management. Ms. Bren lectures extensively on the adoption and protection of marks, including searching strategy, licensing, prosecution, ex parte and inter partes proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, unfair competition matters, and other aspects of intellectual property. In addition, Ms. Bren taught Trademarks and Unfair Competition Law as an adjunct professor at the George Mason University Law School (1991–1993, 1995, and 2004–2005) and has lectured at the George Washington University Law School. She is an active member of the International Trademark Association, having served on several of its committees and subcommittees, and is an active member of the American Bar Association and American Intellectual Property Law Association.
Jane Shay Wald (Chapter 9) is a partner emeritus with Irell & Manella, LLP, in Los Angeles, California, and is chair of the firm’s Trademark Practice Group. Over her practice of nearly 45 years, she has focused on trademark, unfair competition and false advertising under the Lanham Act, and copyright law, litigating before the federal courts and the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. She counsels clients on acquiring and maintaining trademarks and on potential and pending infringement problems. The Los Angeles Daily Journal and the San Francisco Daily Journal have named her to their list of the “Top 100 Women Litigators” in California and have also listed her as one of California’s “Top 10 Trademark Lawyers.” She was named a “Woman of Achievement” by the Century City Chamber of Commerce/Chambers Women’s Business Council. Ms. Wald has been named to the Southern California “Super Lawyers” list for her work in intellectual property every year for over 15 years. In addition, she has been included in the “Super Lawyers” list as one of the “Top 100 Lawyers” in Southern California and is often listed as one of the “Top 50 Women Lawyers” in Southern California. She has, for many years, been included in “Best Lawyers in America.” Ms. Wald received the California State Bar Intellectual Property Law Section’s first Vanguard Award for private practice and the Century City Bar Association’s Lifetime Achievement Award. Law360 has named her an Icon of IP. Ms. Wald is the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board columnist for New Matter, the magazine of the California Lawyer Association’s IP Section. A frequent speaker and writer on trademark topics, Ms. Wald also has served as adjunct professor of trademark law at UCLA and USC law schools. She has served as president of the Los Angeles Copyright Society and president of the Century City Bar Association.

Cathleen E. Stadecker (Chapter 10) is a director and chair of the Intellectual Property Practice Group at Downs Rachlin Martin, PLLC. Her practice covers all aspects of trademark, trade dress, unfair competition, false advertising, domain name, and copyright matters, with a focus on trademark counseling, clearance, prosecution, and enforcement, including handling litigation before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. During law school, she was an articles editor for the Columbia Journal of Law and the Arts and the recipient of her school’s Carroll G. Harper Prize for achievement in intellectual property studies and writing. Prior to joining DRM, she was an associate in the trademark group at Morrison Foerster LLP. She now lives in Burlington, Vermont, with her husband and two daughters.
Alan S. Cooper (Chapter 11) is a member of the firm Westerman Hattori Daniels & Adrian, LLP, in Washington, D.C. He has specialized in trademark and unfair competition law and related litigation for more than 25 years. He has acted as lead counsel in numerous trademark infringement, trademark dilution, and trade dress infringement actions in federal courts throughout the United States and in inter partes registration proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. Mr. Cooper also has designed and implemented a number of trademark policing programs to protect famous, well-known marks against infringing and diluting usages. Included in his practice is the successful prosecution of more than 30 civil actions involving the seizure of counterfeit products in diverse commercial areas. Following graduation from law school, Mr. Cooper served as a law clerk to Judge Frank Gray, Jr., Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Tennessee. He has served as an adjunct professor at Georgetown University Law Center, teaching trademark and unfair competition law, and has written on various trademark issues as well as the impact of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 and ethical rules on trademark practice. Mr. Cooper has spoken at continuing legal education seminars on a wide variety of trademark topics, including trademark dilution, the use of survey evidence in trademark cases, and insurance coverage in trademark infringement actions. He also is a former member of the Advisory Board of BNA's Patent, Trademark & Copyright Journal.