

About the Author

David W. Tollen is a widely recognized authority on information technology contracts. He is a lawyer, law school lecturer, trainer, and expert witness.

David is the founder of Tech Contracts Academy[®], LLC, which provides training on IT contracts—for lawyers, procurement officers, contract managers, and IT staff. He also serves as an expert witness in litigation about IT contracts. And he teaches IT contracts at the U.C. Berkeley Law School.

David practices law in San Francisco with Sycamore Legal[®], P.C., an IT and IP boutique law firm he founded. He and his staff represent both buyers and sellers in cloud computing agreements, software licenses, and other IT contracts. And they provide advice and assistance related to privacy, data security, e-commerce, fintech, and intellectual property.

David is the author of The Tech Contracts Handbook. In its first and second editions, the Handbook consistently ranked number one among the bestsellers from the IP Section of the American Bar Association. David is also the author of The Tech Indemnities Pocket Guide: Indemnities in Software and Other IT Contracts for Lawyers and Businesspeople (ABA Publishing 2020), also from the IP Section.

David graduated with honors from Harvard Law School and has degrees from Cambridge University and U.C. Berkeley. He has served as General Counsel of a publicly traded software company, as Vice President of Business Development with a profitable technology start-up, and as an attorney with a global law firm. In his spare time, he writes about history and science, including novels that use fantasy to teach young people. He is the author of two multiple award winners: The Jericho River (Winifred Press 2018) and Secrets of Hominea (Winifred Press 2019).
