

Contributors

Editor-in-Chief

H. Wayne Porter
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

Contributors

Alisa S. Abbott
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

Steve S. Chang
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

Shane Delsman
Godfrey & Kahn, SC
Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Rouget F. (Ric) Henschel
Potomac Law Group, PLLC
Washington, DC

David Hricik
Mercer University
Walter F. George School of Law
Macon, Georgia

Robert S. Katz
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

Scott M. Kelly
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

H. Wayne Porter, Editor-in-Chief
Banner & Witcoff, Ltd.
Washington, DC

Tim Russell
Venner Shipley LLP
Cambridge, UK

Michael A. Sartori, PhD
Baker Botts LLP
Washington, DC

Andrew R. Sommer
Greenberg Traurig, LLP
Washington, DC

Rose M. Thiessen, PhD
Milton, Florida

James Tumbridge
Venner Shipley LLP
London, UK

C. Dylan Turner, PhD
Ionis Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
San Diego, California

Milan M. Vinnola
Polsinelli PC
Denver, Colorado

Matthew M. Welch
Baker Botts LLP
Washington, DC

About the Authors

Rouget Frederic (Ric) Henschel

Chapter 1: The State of the Law of Claim Construction and Infringement

Rouget Frederic (Ric) Henschel is a partner at Potomac Law Group, PLLC. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the Virginia and District of Columbia bars. He earned a PhD in organic chemistry from City University of New York and his law degree from Georgetown University Law Center. He has served as contributing editor of the Federal Circuit Bar Journal. He is a former law clerk for Judge Randall R. Rader (retired) of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit.

Scott M. Kelly

Chapter 2: Pitfalls in Patent Drafting

Scott M. Kelly is a principal shareholder with Banner Witcoff in Washington, DC. His practice includes patent prosecution, litigation, and counseling. He has experience with a wide range of technologies, including computer software, networking, and business methods. As a former examiner at the USPTO, Mr. Kelly offers clients valuable experience with the practices and procedures of the agency offices. He is a member of the Alliance of Mergers & Acquisitions Advisors (AM&AA) and has spoken at M&A conferences on IP issues and how they can impact a deal. He serves as chair for the Digital Games and New Media committee of the American Bar Association's Intellectual Property Law Section, an assistant editor at PatentArcade.com, and a contributing author to the ABA Legal Guide to Video Game Development, 2nd Edition (2016). Mr. Kelly received his bachelor of science degree with honors from Virginia Tech, where he majored in computer science with minors in physics and mathematics. He received his JD from the University of Virginia School of Law, where he served on the editorial board of the Virginia Journal of Law and Technology.

H. Wayne Porter*Chapter 3: Drafting the Winning Patent*

H. Wayne Porter is a principal shareholder with the law firm of Banner & Witcoff, Ltd. in Washington, DC. His practice includes patent prosecution, counseling, and related opinion work. He earned his mechanical engineering degree from the Georgia Institute of Technology and his law degree, with high honors, from the University of Florida. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the District of Columbia and Florida bars.

Andrew R. Sommer*Chapter 4: Continued Prosecution of the Patent*

Andrew R. Sommer is a partner with the law firm of Greenberg Traurig, LLP in McLean, Virginia. He focuses on patent litigation in federal court, the International Trade Commission, and the PTAB. He also counsels clients on issues regarding the management and monetization of patent rights. In 2014, the National Law Journal recognized him as one of Washington DC's Top 40 Age 40 and Under, citing his "vigorous intellectual property practice." He has also been recognized in the IAM Patent 1000 since 2016 and IAM Strategy 300 from 2017 to 2019. Mr. Sommer earned his BS in optics from the University of Rochester and his law degree, magna cum laude, from George Mason University School of Law. While in law school, he was a patent examiner at the USPTO. He left private practice to clerk for the Hon. Kimberly A. Moore, United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, from 2006 to 2007. He is registered to practice before the USPTO and is a member of the bars of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Shane Delsman*Chapter 5: Mechanical Patents*

Shane Delsman is a shareholder and Group Leader of the Intellectual Property Practice at Godfrey & Kahn, SC in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Mr. Delsman regularly prosecutes mechanical and electromechanical patents and has successfully appealed adverse examiner decisions before the PTAB. He has also represented clients in patent cases throughout the United States on both sides of the "v" and in postgrant proceedings before the PTAB. Mr. Delsman is a past president of the Wisconsin Intellectual Property Law Association and serves as editor in chief of the ABA's intellectual property magazine, Landslide. He has received recognition from Super Lawyers, Best Lawyers, and I AM PATENT 1000 for his intellectual property law work.

Steve S. Chang

Chapter 6: Electrical Patents

Steve S. Chang is a Principal Shareholder with the law firm of Banner & Witcoff, Ltd., in Washington, DC. His practice includes utility and design patent prosecution, litigation, and counseling. He earned his BS in electrical engineering from The Ohio State University and his JD from Temple Law School in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the District of Columbia bar. Mr. Chang is also an adjunct professor of law at the Georgetown University Law Center, where he teaches Pretrial Intellectual Property Litigation.

Michael A. Sartori, PhD, and Matthew M. Welch

Chapter 7: Software, E-Commerce, Internet, and Business Method Patents

Michael A. Sartori, PhD, is a partner at Baker Botts LLP in Washington, DC. His practice includes patent prosecution, counseling, opinion work, and litigation. Dr. Sartori received his bachelor of science, master of science, and doctorate in electrical engineering from the University of Notre Dame and graduated, cum laude, from the Georgetown University Law Center. Dr. Sartori has received several patents for inventions resulting from his research. He was also a patent examiner with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the Virginia and District of Columbia bars.

Matthew M. Welch is an associate at Baker Botts LLP in Washington, DC. Mr. Welch works on a range of intellectual property matters, focusing primarily on patent litigation and patent prosecution. He has experience with wind energy, oil and gas, computer software, mechanical devices, and medical equipment. Mr. Welch received his bachelor of science in mechanical engineering from Clemson University, graduating summa cum laude, and his law degree from Wake Forest University, graduating magna cum laude. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the North Carolina and District of Columbia bars.

Rose M. Thiessen, PhD, and C. Dylan Turner, PhD*Chapter 8: Chemical and Pharmaceutical Patents*

Rose M. Thiessen, PhD, is General Counsel at Epitracker, Inc. She has a PhD in chemistry from Purdue University and a JD from Rutgers University. Dr. Thiessen has extensive experience in U.S. and international patent portfolio management, patent prosecution, and licensing for chemical, pharmaceutical, and medical device technologies.

C. Dylan Turner, PhD, is a San Diego patent attorney transitioning to in-house practice. He has a PhD from the University of British Columbia and a JD from Northwestern University School of Law. Dr. Turner specializes in patent portfolio management, including patent procurement and strategy. He has experience in managing diverse pharmaceutical patent portfolios at all stages of development including discovery, clinical trials, and for commercially marketed products.

Milan M. Vinnola*Chapter 9: Biotechnology Patents*

Milan M. Vinnola is a shareholder in the Denver office of Polsinelli PC. Her practice focuses on intellectual property counseling, patent procurement, and licensing, as well as involvement in opinion, litigation, interference, and opposition practice primarily in the chemical, pharmaceutical, and biotechnology areas. She earned her BS in chemical engineering from the University of Kansas, her MS in engineering and applied physics in biomedicine from Johns Hopkins University, and her law degree from the Georgetown University Law Center. Prior to receiving her law degree, she also worked as a patent examiner at the USPTO.

Robert S. Katz and Alisa S. Abbott*Chapter 10: Design Patents*

Robert S. Katz is a principal shareholder with the law firm of Banner & Witcoff, Ltd. in Washington, DC. His practice includes patent prosecution, litigation, and counseling, and he is internationally recognized as one of the leading practitioners in the field of industrial designs. He earned his mechanical engineering degree from Carnegie Mellon University and his law degree, with honors, from the George Washington University Law School. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and is a member of the Virginia and District of Columbia bars. He is admitted to the bars of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and several district courts. Mr. Katz has served as the chair of the Industrial Design Committee for both AIPLA and FICPI and currently serves as treasurer on the Executive Board of the U.S. Section of FICPI. Mr. Katz is a professor at the George Washington University Law School teaching Design Law and also was an adjunct professor at Georgetown University Law Center and is teaching a class on Intellectual Property Pretrial Litigation Skills. Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Katz was a patent examiner at the USPTO.

Alisa S. Abbott is an attorney in the Washington, DC, office of Banner and Witcoff, Ltd. She represents clients in all facets of design patent procurement, prosecution, and intellectual property counseling. Outside of her legal practice, Ms. Abbott serves as an adjunct professor at Georgetown Law, teaching a seminar on Pretrial Intellectual Property Litigation. Ms. Abbott earned her JD from Washington & Lee University, focusing the majority of her practicum-based studies on intellectual property coursework.

David Hricik

Chapter 11: Combining Prosecution with Other Forms of Representation

Professor David Hricik received his undergraduate degree magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Arizona, where he majored in English. He received his law degree with honors from Northwestern University School of Law. He practiced with Baker Botts LLP and small litigation boutiques from 1988 to 2002, litigating cases primarily involving patent infringement, legal malpractice, and general complex commercial matters. In 2002, he joined Mercer University School of Law, where he teaches legal ethics, patent law and litigation, federal civil procedure, and other courses. In 2012–13, he served as law clerk to Chief Judge Randall R. Rader at the Federal Circuit. He rejoined Mercer and also became Of Counsel to Taylor English Duma, LLP, where he represented clients in patent, trademark, legal malpractice, and other complex litigation until 2019. He is a member of the American Law Institute and a fellow of the American Intellectual Property Law Association, and he authored the only treatise on ethical issues in patent litigation and coauthored the only treatise on ethical issues in patent prosecution. In addition to serving in leadership positions on ethics committees with the AIPLA and ABA and serving as an expert witness, he has written dozens of articles and given well over 100 presentations on issues at the intersection of ethics and patents. His articles and testimony have been adopted by both state and federal courts.

James Tumbridge and Tim Russell

Chapter 12: Drafting U.S. Patents with a View toward Europe

James Tumbridge is an intellectual property litigation partner with Venner Shipley. In the past 20 years, his patent work has covered a wide range of technology, from bagless vacuum cleaners and the Viagra litigation to mobile telecoms standards cases and fiberglass manufacturing methods. As a litigator, he has been involved in cases in several jurisdictions at the highest levels, including the UK Supreme Court decision in R. v. Prudential on the issue of whether legal professional privilege applies to nonlawyers representing the interests of the IP community; the House of Lords decision in RPR v. Yeda concerning patent entitlement to a cancer therapy; and CCH v. the Law Society of Upper Canada, a decision of the Canadian Supreme Court concerning copyright in legal judgments. Mr. Tumbridge is additionally an ad hoc advisor to various UK members of Parliament and members of the European Parliament on a range of IP issues and other disputes. Through his engagement with policymakers, he has garnered extensive government relations experience and accordingly advises clients on how to prepare for legislative changes and regulation compliance.

Tim Russell is a European/UK Chartered patent attorney and partner with Venner Shipley. Mr. Russell advises clients in the pharmaceutical sector, helping them develop their IP strategy and helping them achieve desired outcomes by combining his legal, scientific, and commercial experience. He also works for clients in other chemistry-related industries such as absorbents, additives, agrochemicals, chemical processes, detergents, fine chemicals, food chemistry, liquid crystal displays, oil and gas, and polymers. Mr. Russell's work has evolved such that he is an expert on EPO oppositions and appeals. He has been successful in many EPO oppositions and appeals, and his input in corresponding contentious proceedings in other parts of the world is frequently requested by clients. This experience helps Mr. Russell provide invaluable advice to patent holders and third parties involved in complex postgrant issues.

Andrew R. Sommer*Chapter 13: Validity Trials at the Patent Trial and Appeal Board*

Andrew R. Sommer is a partner with the law firm of Greenberg Traurig, LLP in McLean, Virginia. He focuses on patent litigation in federal court, the International Trade Commission, and the PTAB. He also counsels clients on issues regarding the management and monetization of patent rights. In 2014, the National Law Journal recognized him as one of Washington DC's Top 40 Age 40 and Under, citing his "vigorous intellectual property practice." He has also been recognized in the IAM Patent 1000 since 2016 and IAM Strategy 300 from 2017 to 2019. Mr. Sommer earned his BS in optics from the University of Rochester and his law degree, magna cum laude, from George Mason University School of Law. While in law school, he was a patent examiner at the USPTO. He left private practice to clerk for the Hon. Kimberly A. Moore, United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, from 2006 to 2007. He is registered to practice before the USPTO and is a member of the bars of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the District of Columbia.