

CONTENTS

ABOUT THE AUTHOR	XXXIII
NOTES ON CITATIONS AND REFERENCES	XXXV
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	XXXIX
FOREWORD	XLI
INTRODUCTION	XLIII
CHAPTER 1
HISTORY AND STRUCTURE	1
Q 1. What was the Consumer Right to Privacy Act or “CRPA”?	1
Q 2. What is the California Consumer Privacy Act or “CCPA”?	1
Q 3. When was the CCPA enacted?	1
Q 4. When did the CCPA become operative (i.e., go into effect)?	2
Q 5. When did the CCPA become enforceable?	2
Q 6. What is the California Privacy Rights Act or “CPRA”?	2
Q 7. Is the CPRA the same thing as Proposition 24?	2
Q 8. When will the CPRA become operative (i.e., go into effect)?	2
Q 9. When will the CPRA become enforceable?	2
Q 10. What additional rights does the CPRA grant to California consumers?	3
CHAPTER 2
GENERAL CONCEPTS	5
Personal Information
Q 11. What is personal information?	5
Q 12. What types of information may qualify as personal information?	5
Q 13. Did the CCPA incorporate definitions of personal information found elsewhere in the California Code?	8
Q 14. Does the CPRA enlarge the list of data types that may qualify as personal information?	10

Q 15. Is the CCPA’s definition of personal information the same as the European GDPR’s definition of personal data?	11
Q 16. Does the CCPA use the term “personal data”?	12
Q 17. Does the term “personal information” mean the same thing as the term “personally identifiable information”?	12
Q 18. Does the term “personal information” mean the same thing as the term “personally-identified information”?	13
Q 19. Does the term “personal information” mean the same thing under the privacy laws of other states?	14
Q 20. Does the term “personal information” include information that a business obtains from government records?	14
Q 21. What constitutes publicly available information under the CCPA?	14
Q 22. What constitutes publicly available information under the CPRA?	15
Q 23. Are work email addresses and business contact information governed by the CCPA?	15
Q 24. Does the CCPA apply to paper records?	16
Q 25. Is an IP address considered personal information?	17
Q 26. Is data that has undergone hashing considered personal information?	18
Q 27. Is data that has undergone salted-hashing considered “personal information”?	19
Q 28. Is a token considered “personal information”?	20
Q 29. Is encrypted data considered “personal information”?	20
Q 30. Does the CCPA apply to information about businesses?	21
Q 31. Is the CCPA’s definition of “biometric information” broader than the definition used by other states?	22
Aggregate and Deidentified Information
Q 32. Is aggregated or deidentified information considered personal information?	24
Q 33. What qualifies as aggregate consumer information?	24
Q 34. What qualifies as deidentified information?	24
Q 35. Is deidentified information the same as aggregated information?	25
Q 36. Does the CCPA adopt a specific standard for deidentifying information?	25
Q 37. What is the difference between the CCPA’s deidentification standard and the GDPR’s anonymization standard?	26

Pseudonymization
Q 38. What is pseudonymized data?	26
Sensitive Personal Information
Q 39. Does the CCPA treat some types of personal information as more “sensitive” than others?	28
Q 40. Did the CPRA create a new category of “sensitive personal information”?	29
Q 41. If information is publicly available, is it still considered sensitive personal information?	30
Q 42. What rights does the CPRA provide for sensitive category data?	31
Businesses Covered by the Statute
Q 43. What is a “business”?	31
Q 44. Does the $25 million threshold to be considered a business refer to revenue generated in the state of California or revenue generated worldwide?	33
Q 45. Does the CCPA apply to non-profits?	33
Q 46. Are some non-profit entities, such as credit unions, covered by the CCPA?	34
Q 47. Does the CCPA apply to government agencies?	34
Q 48. Does an organization need to be “established” in the United States for the CCPA to apply?	35
Q 49. If a company is based in California, does the CCPA apply to all data processed by the company?	36
Q 50. What does it mean to “do business” in California?	37
Q 51. If a company has California employees, is it subject to the CCPA?	37
Q 52. Can the CCPA apply to a company that has no employees or offices in California?	38
Q 53. What is the “unified business provision” and the “affiliate exception”?	38
Q 54. Can corporate affiliates that share common branding choose whether they want to be considered a unified “business” under the CCPA?	38
Q 55. Are corporate affiliates that use common branding inherently under common “control” for purposes of the CCPA?	39

Q 56. How do you compute the number of persons, devices, or households when determining whether an entity meets the de minimis threshold to be considered a business?	41
Q 57. If a company that is not subject to the CCPA acquires a business that is subject to the CCPA, can the acquisition “infect” the data of the first company?	42
Q 58. Does the CCPA have “controllers” and “processors”?	44
Consumers
Q 59. What is a “consumer”?	44
Q 60. Does the CCPA apply only to consumers that are residents of California?	45
Processing
Q 61. What activities count as “processing”?	46
Selling
Q 62. What does it mean to “sell” personal information?	47
Q 63. What constitutes “valuable consideration” for the purposes of determining if personal information has been sold?	47
Q 64. Are all transfers for valuable consideration sales?	48
Sharing
Q 65. What does it mean to “share” personal information?	49
Q 66. What is “cross-context behavioral advertising”?	50
Q 67. Does a company share personal information when it provides information to a company that is not involved in AdTech?	50
Service Providers
Q 68. What is a service provider?	50
Q 69. Is a service provider the same thing as a processor?	51
Contractors
Q 70. What is the difference between a “contractor” and an “independent contractor”?	53
Q 71. What is the difference between a “contractor” and a “service provider”?	54
Q 72. Does the CPRA impose different rights or obligations upon contractors as opposed to service providers?	56

CHAPTER 3
GENERAL COMPLIANCE ISSUES	57
Compliance Programs
Q 73. What are the core requirements imposed by the CCPA on businesses?	57
Q 74. What additional requirements will be imposed upon businesses by the CPRA?	57
Q 75. What types of compliance documents should businesses consider?	59
Q 76. What are the core requirements imposed by the CCPA on service providers?	60
Q 77. Did the regulations implementing the CCPA impose additional requirements on service providers?	60
Q 78. Does the CPRA impose additional requirements on service providers?	61
Q 79. What types of documents, policies, procedures, and protocols should service providers consider putting in place to comply with the CCPA?	61
Permissible Uses of Personal Information
Q 80. Are businesses required to have a “lawful basis” or a “permissible purpose” to process personal information under the CCPA?	62
Q 81. Are companies generally required to get opt-in consent before using personal information?	63
Q 82. Are businesses required to get opt-in consent to conduct email marketing?	64
Permissible Uses of Sensitive Personal Information
Q 83. Does a business have to get opt-in consent from consumers before collecting their sensitive personal information?	65
Q 84. Do consumers have a right to object to a business’s continuing use of their sensitive personal information?	65
Q 85. Is the CPRA’s right to object to the continued use of sensitive personal information an absolute right?	66
Q 86. Under the CPRA, will a consumer be able to object to a company using sensitive personal information for behavioral or targeted advertising?	67

Q 87. Under the CPRA, will a consumer be able to object to a company sharing sensitive personal information with AdTech companies for their use in constructing a consumer profile?	67
Q 88. Will all companies be required to post a “Limit the Use of My Sensitive Personal Information” link on their homepages?	67
Data Minimization
Q 89. Will the CPRA require data minimization with regard to the storage of information?	68
Q 90. Will the CPRA require data minimization with regard to the collection and use of information?	69
Q 91. Will the CPRA require publishing the data retention period that applies to personal information?	69
Notice at Collection
Q 92. What is a notice at collection?	69
Q 93. Does a business have to provide a notice at collection to a consumer if the business does not collect information directly from them?	70
Q 94. Can a business’s privacy notice and notice at collection be the same document?	71
Q 95. Can a service provider provide a notice at collection on behalf of a business?	72
Q 96. When a business collects personal information over the phone, can it satisfy the requirement to give a notice at collection by directing consumers to an online notice?	72
Q 97. When a business collects personal information offline, can it satisfy the requirement to give a notice at collection by including a sign that directs consumers to an online notice?	73
Q 98. Does a business have to translate a notice at collection into languages other than English?	73
Q 99. If a business does not identify a specific use for information in a notice at collection, is it prohibited from using information in that manner?	74
Q 100. If a service provider (e.g., a call center) collects personal information on behalf of a business, is the service provider required to provide a notice at collection?	75
Privacy Notices
Q 101. What is a privacy notice?	75
Q 102. Should it be called a “privacy notice,” “privacy policy,” “information notice,” “privacy statement,” or something else?	75

Q 103. Is a privacy notice the same thing as a notice at collection?	77
Q 104. Is a business required to provide its privacy notice “at or before” the point at which information is collected?	77
Q 105. Does a business have to provide a privacy notice directly to a consumer if it obtains the consumer’s data from a third party (i.e., purchases it)?	78
Q 106. What information does the CCPA require be included in a privacy notice?	79
Q 107. If a business drafted a privacy notice to comply with the CCPA, does the business need to revise its notice for the CPRA?	80
Q 108. If a business drafted a privacy notice to comply with other U.S. laws, does it need to change its notice to comply with the CCPA?	81
Q 109. If a business drafted a privacy notice to comply with the GDPR, does the notice need to be changed to comply with the CCPA?	83
Q 110. What are enumerated categories of personal information?	84
Q 111. Are businesses prohibited from creating additional enumerated categories when disclosing the type of personal information that they collect?	86
Q 112. Do businesses have to disclose within their privacy notice that they share information with law enforcement agencies?	87
Q 113. Do businesses have to disclose within their privacy notice which enumerated categories of information are shared with law enforcement agencies?	87
Q 114. Are the seven examples identified in the CCPA the only “business purposes”?	88
Q 115. Do businesses have to disclose within their privacy notice that they may share information as part of a merger or acquisition?	89
Q 116. Do businesses have to disclose within their privacy notice their data security practices?	90
Q 117. Do businesses have to disclose within their privacy notice their data breach response practices?	90
Q 118. Do businesses have to affirmatively state within their privacy notice that they sell or that they do not sell personal information?	91
Q 119. Can a business use a single privacy notice for its customers and its employees?	91

Q 120. Does a business need to translate its privacy notice into languages other than English?	91
Q 121. Do privacy notices need to be accessible to consumers with disabilities?	92
Q 122. Can a company be sued by consumers for failing to post a privacy notice?	92
Q 123. How many businesses updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	93
Q 124. Have companies in different industry sectors updated their privacy notices at different rates for the CCPA?	93
Q 125. What is the maximum penalty that can be imposed upon a business if a privacy notice does not comply with the CCPA?	94
Requests to Access Personal Information
Q 126. What is the right to access?	95
Q 127. Is it called an “access request” or a “request to know”?	95
Q 128. What is the difference between a category-level access request and a specific-information access request?	95
Q 129. Did the CCPA create the right to access?	96
Q 130. How much time does a company have to respond to an access request?	96
Q 131. What grounds justify extending the 45-day time period to respond to an access request?	96
Q 132. Does a business have to forward or “flow down” an access request to a service provider with whom it has shared personal information?	97
Q 133. Does a business have to forward or “flow down” an access request to a service provider that maintains redundant copies of personal information?	98
Q 134. Does a business have to forward or “flow down” an access request to a third party to whom it has given personal information?	99
Q 135. Does a business need to document its methodology for verifying individuals that submit access requests?	99
Q 136. What level of certainty is a business required to have when verifying a consumer’s identity?	99
Q 137. Can a business request a consumer’s driver’s license number or Social Security number when verifying their identity?	100
Q 138. Can a business require that a consumer submit a declaration under penalty of perjury in order to prove their identity?	100

Q 139. Can a business require that a consumer submit a notarized affidavit in order to prove their identity?	101
Q 140. Can a business use an online account to verify a consumer?	101
Q 141. Is a business required to match at least two data points before responding to a category-level access request?	101
Q 142. Is a business required to match at least three data points before responding to a specific-information access request?	102
Q 143. What do most businesses include in an access policy or procedure?	102
Q 144. Is a business required to respond to an access request electronically?	103
Q 145. In response to an access request, can a business produce only personal information received from the consumer?	104
Q 146. In response to an access request, does a business have to produce unstructured information?	104
Q 147. In response to an access request, does a business have to provide information that is more than a year old?	105
Q 148. In response to an access request, does a business have to produce all the information that it has about an individual?	105
Q 149. In response to an access request, does a business have to produce its internal notes relating to an individual?	107
Q 150. In response to an access request, does a business have to produce its own work product?	107
Q 151. In response to an access request, does a business have to produce trade secrets?	108
Q 152. Can a business that receives an access request delete a consumer’s personal information before responding to the request?	109
Q 153. If an access request is not specific, is a business required to treat it as a specific information request?	111
Q 154. Do businesses have to set up a process by which a consumer can appeal the denial of an access request?	111
Q 155. Can a company be sued by consumers for failing to honor an access request?	111
Q 156. What is the maximum penalty for violating an individual’s right to access their information?	112
Requests to Delete Personal Information
Q 157. What is the right to deletion?	112
Q 158. Is it called a “deletion request” or an “erasure request”?	112

Q 159. Did the CCPA create the right to deletion?	112
Q 160. Is a business required to delete only the last 12 months of personal information in response to a deletion request?	113
Q 161. Does the CCPA's right to deletion require that a business delete the same type of information as the GDPR's right to be forgotten?	113
Q 162. Do the CCPA and the GDPR have the same exceptions to deletion requests?	114
Q 163. If a business receives a deletion request, does it always have to delete the requestor's personal information?	116
Q 164. Does a business's reason for processing personal information impact whether it must honor a deletion request?	118
Q 165. If a business receives a deletion request, is it prevented from collecting personal information about the consumer in the future?	118
Q 166. Does a business need to document its methodology for verifying consumers that submit deletion requests?	118
Q 167. What level of certainty is a business required to have when verifying a consumer's identity before honoring a deletion request?	119
Q 168. Does the CCPA require a business to create a policy or procedure for processing deletion requests?	119
Q 169. What do most businesses include in a deletion request policy or procedure?	120
Q 170. Does a business have to delete personal information needed to complete a transaction?	121
Q 171. Does a business have to delete IP addresses in response to a deletion request?	122
Q 172. Does a business have to delete personal information from its point of sale system?	124
Q 173. Does a business have to destroy printed books in response to a deletion request?	125
Q 174. Does a business have to delete records that show whether an individual opted-in to or opted-out from marketing?	126
Q 175. Does a business have to delete personal information from backup systems?	129
Q 176. Does a business have to honor deletion requests from employees, former employees, and job applicants?	129
Q 177. Does a business have to delete personal information if it is required by contract to retain it?	130

Q 178. Does a business have to delete personal information if it is required by a foreign law to retain it?	130
Q 179. Does a business have to delete the deletion requests that it receives?	131
Q 180. Can a business ask a consumer to confirm whether all personal information should be deleted?	131
Q 181. Can a business refuse a deletion request based upon technical feasibility?	132
Q 182. Does a business have to forward or “flow down” a deletion request to a service provider with whom it has shared personal information?	132
Q 183. Is a service provider required to comply with a business’s instruction to delete personal information?	132
Q 184. Is a business liable if a service provider fails to follow its deletion instruction?	133
Q 185. Does a business have to forward or “flow down” a deletion request to a third party with whom it has shared personal information?	134
Q 186. If a business receives a deletion request from one consumer, does it have to delete information it obtained from other consumers in the same household?	134
Q 187. Do businesses discriminate against consumers when they delete them from marketing lists?	135
Q 188. Can a business decide whether to deidentify or delete personal information in response to a deletion request?	136
Q 189. Can a business charge a fee for responding to a right to be forgotten request?	137
Q 190. Does a business have to delete personal information about employees from its print and video marketing materials?	137
Q 191. How much time does a business have to respond to a deletion request?	138
Q 192. What grounds justify extending the time period to respond to a deletion request?	139
Q 193. If a consumer sends a request for deletion or a request for access via Twitter or other social media, does a business have to respond?	140
Q 194. How many deletion requests can a consumer send to a business each year?	140

Q 195. Do businesses have to set up a process by which a consumer can appeal the denial of a deletion request?	141
Q 196. Can a company be sued by consumers for failing to honor a deletion request?	141
Q 197. What is the maximum penalty for violating an individual’s deletion rights?	141
Requests to Correct Personal Information
Q 198. What is the right to correction?	142
Q 199. Is it called a “rectification request” or “correction request”?	142
Q 200. Does the CCPA have a right to correction?	142
Q 201. Did the CPRA confer a right of rectification?	142
Q 202. Does a business need to flow down rectification requests to its service providers?	142
Requests to Opt-Out of the Sale of Personal Information
Q 203. What is the right to opt-out of the sale of personal information?	143
Q 204. What steps must a business take if it sells personal information?	143
Q 205. Does a business need to post a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link if it does not sell personal information?	144
Q 206. Does a subsidiary sell information when it shares it with a corporate affiliate for the affiliate’s marketing purposes?	144
Q 207. If a company acquires another company, can it transfer the target’s data to its new affiliates for their marketing purposes?	146
Q 208. Is the disclosure of personal information by a business to a third party that provides services considered a “sale” under the CCPA?	147
Q 209. Is the disclosure of personal information for purposes of creating a lookalike audience a sale under the CCPA?	148
Q 210. Is the disclosure of personal information to a “bot” detection service considered a sale?	148
Q 211. Is the disclosure of personal information to a map service considered a sale?	149
Q 212. How many businesses include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	150
Q 213. Is there a growing trend to start including the “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on website homepages?	150

Q 214. What is a “global privacy opt-out,” and is it the same thing as a “do not sell signal”?	151
Q 215. Is there a standard format for sending (or receiving) a global privacy opt-out signal?	151
Q 216. Is a company required to stop all selling activity if it receives a global privacy opt-out signal?	152
Q 217. Does the California Attorney General believe that a business violates the CCPA if it receives a global privacy opt-out signal from a consumer, records that preference in a cookie, but forgets that preference when a consumer clears their browser’s cache?	152
Q 218. Have some industry groups proposed a format for sending a global privacy opt-out signal?	153
Q 219. How can a business identify if a GPC signal has been sent?	153
Q 220. Does a business violate the CCPA if it does not respond to the GPC signal?	154
Q 221. Does the CCPA require businesses that develop software or online browsers to provide consumers with the ability to broadcast a global privacy opt-out signal?	154
Q 222. What should a business do if a global privacy opt-out signal conflicts with other instructions provided by a consumer?	155
Q 223. Can a company be sued by consumers for failing to post a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link?	155
Request to Opt-Out of the Sharing of Personal Information
Q 224. What is the right to opt-out of the sharing of personal information?	156
Requests from Authorized Agents
Q 225. What is an authorized agent?	156
Q 226. Does the Secretary of State keep an index of authorized agents?	157
Q 227. Is there a standard form for demonstrating that someone is an authorized agent?	157
Q 228. Does a business need to respond to requests from authorized agents?	157
Q 229. Can a business verify a consumer’s identity directly with the consumer when contacted by an authorized agent?	158
Q 230. Can a consumer provide an authorized agent with an electronically signed permission to act on their behalf?	158

- Q 231. Can a consumer require a business to communicate through an authorized agent’s online platform? 158
- Q 232. Is a business permitted to verify a consumer’s identity directly if the authorized agent presents a power of attorney? 159
- Q 233. Is an authorized agent permitted to use the information that it obtains as part of a request for its own purposes? 160

Data Security and Data Breach

- Q 234. Does the CCPA require a business to secure personal information? 160
- Q 235. Does the CCPA require that a business notify impacted consumers in the event of a data breach? 161
- Q 236. Can a business be sued under the CCPA for failing to protect personal information? 161
- Q 237. Does the CCPA provide a specific security standard? 162
- Q 238. Is a business required to implement a written information security plan (WISP) under the CCPA? 162
- Q 239. What do many businesses consider including in a WISP? 162
- Q 240. Is a business required to implement an incident response plan (IRP)? 163
- Q 241. Does the data security requirement within the CCPA apply to businesses and service providers? 163
- Q 242. If a business complies with other data security laws, is it also compliant with the CPRA’s data security requirements? 164
- Q 243. Do the CCPA’s data security provisions apply to all types of personal information? 164
- Q 244. Can a consumer whose name is compromised as part of a data breach seek statutory damages under the CCPA? 167
- Q 245. Can a consumer whose email address is compromised through a data breach seek statutory damages under the CCPA? 167
- Q 246. Does the CPRA require companies to undergo security risk assessments? 168

Third-Party Vendor Management

- Q 247. Are all vendors considered service providers under the CCPA? 168
- Q 248. Will all service providers under the CCPA be considered service providers under the CPRA? 169
- Q 249. Can a business unilaterally amend a vendor agreement to incorporate service provider-related contractual provisions? 170

Q 250. If a service provider agreed to a data processing addendum that complies with the GDPR, is a new addendum needed for the CCPA?	171
Q 251. Will the CPRA require that businesses impose additional contractual requirements on service providers?	173
Q 252. If a service provider agreed to a data processing addendum that complied with the CCPA, will a new addendum be needed for the CPRA that specifically prohibits selling or sharing of data?	176
Q 253. If a service provider agreed to a data processing addendum that complied with the CCPA, will a new addendum be needed for the CPRA that includes additional use restrictions?	176
Q 254. Does the CCPA impart the same requirements on businesses and service providers?	177
Q 255. Can a service provider be considered a business for the purposes of the CCPA?	178
Q 256. Can a company be a service provider and a business at the same time with regard to the same information?	179
Q 257. Can an independent contractor be considered a service provider under the CCPA?	180
Q 258. What is a data processing addendum?	180
Q 259. Is there a difference between a data processing addendum and a data processing amendment?	181
Q 260. Is a service provider permitted to disclose personal information if it receives a criminal or grand jury subpoena?	181
Q 261. Is a service provider permitted to disclose personal information if it receives a discovery request?	182
Q 262. Is a service provider permitted to disclose personal information in a contract dispute with its client?	182
Q 263. Is a service provider permitted to disclose personal information to its lawyer?	182
Q 264. Is a service provider permitted to disclose personal information if it receives a civil subpoena?	183
Q 265. Can a company that collects personal information from a data broker on behalf of clients still be a service provider?	183
Q 266. Can a company that collects personal information from consumers but does so on behalf of a client still be a service provider?	184

Q 267. Can a service provider use and transfer personal information if it deidentifies or aggregates it?	185
Q 268. Does a service provider based in California have to comply with the CCPA even if its client is not subject to the Act?	186
Q 269. Is a company that provides services to a non-profit treated as a business under the CCPA?	187
Q 270. Is a company that provides services to a government agency treated as a business under the CCPA?	187
Q 271. Does a company that provides services to a government agency have to respond to consumer requests?	188
Q 272. Is a company that accepts credit cards a service provider under the CCPA with respect to credit card-related information?	189
Q 273. If a company agrees to comply with the PCI DSS, are they automatically considered a service provider under the CCPA?	190
Q 274. Are payment processors and acquiring banks service providers under the CCPA?	191
Q 275. If a consumer submits an access or deletion request directly to a service provider, is the service provider required to respond?	192
Q 276. Is a business responsible if a service provider misuses personal information?	193
Q 277. Is a service provider responsible if a business violates the CCPA?	193
Q 278. Are service providers required to indemnify businesses for their processing activities?	193
Q 279. Can a service provider require that a business transmit deletion instructions through a specific portal or system (e.g., a service provider-specific API)?	194
Q 280. Can a service provider require that a business transmit access instructions through a specific portal or system (e.g., a service provider-specific API)?	194
Training
Q 281. Are businesses required to train their employees about the CCPA?	194
Q 282. Are all businesses required to train their employees, or just those that collect large quantities of personal information?	196
Q 283. What topics do businesses typically consider when training their employees?	197

CHAPTER 4
APPLICATION TO SPECIFIC ISSUES	199
Application to Human Resources
Q 284. What personal information does an employer typically collect about its employees?	199
Q 285. Does the CCPA apply to the personal information of employees?	200
Q 286. Under the CCPA, do employees need to be given a notice at collection?	200
Q 287. How can a business distribute a notice at collection to current employees?	201
Q 288. Under the CCPA, do job applicants need to be given a notice at collection?	201
Q 289. How can a business distribute a notice at collection to job applicants?	202
Q 290. Under the CCPA, do beneficiaries of employees need to be given a notice at collection?	203
Q 291. What operational impact will the CPRA have on the personal information that a business collects about its employees?	203
Q 292. Under the CCPA, do employees need to be provided with a privacy notice?	204
Q 293. Under the CPRA, will employees need to be provided with a full privacy notice?	204
Q 294. What information will need to be included in an employee privacy notice?	204
Q 295. How can a business provide a privacy notice to current employees?	205
Q 296. Will employees need to sign or consent to their employer’s privacy notice?	206
Q 297. Can an employee privacy notice be combined with a customer privacy notice?	206
Q 298. Under the CPRA, will job applicants need to be provided with a full privacy notice?	206
Q 299. Under the CPRA if a company receives an access request from an employee, does it have to share with them performance reviews and other notes and comments that implicate other employees?	207

Q 300. If a business receives a deletion request from an employee, does it always have to delete the employee’s personal information?	208
Q 301. Can a business unknowingly sell personal information about their employees?	209
Q 302. If a corporate affiliate handles human resource administration for a group of companies, is the transfer of personal information to that affiliate considered a “sale”?	210
Q 303. What risk mitigation strategies lower the likelihood that a transfer of personal information to a human resources vendor will be considered a sale?	210
Q 304. Can an employer ask an employee to consent to the transfer of personal information to HR benefit providers?	211
Q 305. Can an employer share with public health authorities the names of employees infected with a contagious disease?	211
Q 306. Can an employer share the name of an employee infected with a contagious disease with other employees?	212
Q 307. Are companies required to designate an employee responsible for privacy compliance?	213
Application to Cookies
Q 308. What is a cookie?	214
Q 309. Is a cookie considered “personal information”?	214
Q 310. If a business collects personal information through a cookie, is it required to disclose that fact in a notice at collection?	215
Q 311. Does the CCPA require a cookie banner when a business uses cookies?	215
Q 312. What is a persistent cookie?	216
Q 313. Are persistent cookies always considered personal information under the CCPA?	216
Q 314. What is a session cookie?	216
Q 315. Are session cookies considered unique identifiers under the CCPA?	216
Q 316. Can a session cookie be considered personal information under the CCPA even if it is not a unique identifier?	217
Q 317. What is a first party cookie?	217
Q 318. What is a third-party cookie?	218
Q 319. Are cookies the only type of technology that tracks consumers online?	218

Q 320. What is a cookie banner?	218
Q 321. What are the main types of cookie banners?	218
Q 322. How many websites deploy a cookie banner?	219
Q 323. Is the percentage of websites that have a cookie banner increasing or decreasing?	220
Q 324. What industries utilize cookie banners the most?	220
Q 325. How many websites use notice, deemed consent, opt-out, or opt-in cookie banners?	220
Q 326. Are consumers in the United States or Europe more likely to opt-in to cookies when given the choice?	220
Q 327. Does the placement of a cookie banner impact user acceptance rate?	221
Q 328. Do cookie banners that seek opt-in consent receive different acceptance rates on desktops and on smartphones?	221
Q 329. Do cookie banners receive different acceptance rates depending upon how many choices are provided to visitors?	222
Q 330. What is the “Do Not Track” signal?	222
Q 331. Does the CCPA require that companies honor the Do Not Track signal?	223
Q 332. Do other California privacy laws require companies to honor the Do Not Track signal?	223
Q 333. Is the Do Not Track signal the same thing as a request to opt-out of the sale of personal information?	223
Application to Analytics Cookies
Q 334. What is an analytics cookie?	224
Q 335. Is the use of analytics cookies considered the sale of personal information?	224
Q 336. Are analytics cookie providers considered service providers?	224
Q 337. Does the CCPA require that a business obtain the opt-in consent of a consumer before placing analytics cookies on their browser?	225
Q 338. How explicit should an opt-in to analytics cookies be?	226
Q 339. Does the CCPA require that a business allow consumers to opt-out (e.g., toggle off) analytics cookies?	226
Application to Behavioral Advertising Cookies
Q 340. What is a behavioral advertising cookie?	227
Q 341. Is the use of behavioral advertising cookies considered the sale of personal information?	227

Q 342. Are other state privacy laws as ambiguous as the CCPA with respect to whether behavioral advertising constitutes the sale of personal information?	228
Q 343. Are behavioral advertising cookie providers considered service providers?	229
Q 344. Does the CCPA require that a business obtain the opt-in consent of a consumer before placing AdTech cookies on their browser?	230
Q 345. How explicit should an opt-in to behavioral advertising cookies be?	230
Q 346. Does the CCPA require that a business allow consumers to opt-out (e.g., toggle off) of behavioral advertising cookies?	231
Q 347. How many behavioral advertising cookies do most websites deploy?	232
Q 348. Which industries utilize the most behavioral advertising cookies?	232
Q 349. Does a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on a website that goes to a cookie preference center comply with the CCPA?	232
Q 350. What is the IAB’s CCPA Compliance Framework?	234
Q 351. What is the U.S. Privacy String?	235
Q 352. Does the IAB guarantee that its CCPA framework complies with the CCPA?	236
Q 353. What is the IAB Limited Service Provider Agreement?	236
Q 354. Has the Limited Service Provider Agreement been approved by the Attorney General?	237
Q 355. Can the IAB Limited Service Provider Agreement erode other contractual protections?	237
Q 356. Did the CPRA apply additional opt-out rights to the sharing of personal information with behavioral advertising companies?	237
Application to Data Brokers
Q 357. What is a “data broker”?	238
Q 358. Are all businesses that sell personal information “data brokers”?	239
Q 359. Does the CCPA apply special rules to data brokers?	239
Q 360. Do other California laws apply special rules to data brokers?	239
Q 361. Are data brokers exempt from any CCPA requirements?	240

Q 362. What information are data brokers required to provide to the California Attorney General as part of their registration?	240
Q 363. Does the California Attorney General publish a list of registered data brokers?	240
Q 364. If a data broker receives a do not sell request, how long does it have to process the request and stop selling information?	240
Q 365. If a data broker receives a do not sell request, does it have an obligation to notify the entities to whom it has already sold information about the request?	241
Application to Financial Incentive Programs
Q 366. What is a “financial incentive” program?	241
Q 367. If a business offers a financial incentive, what is it required to do?	241
Q 368. Is a business required to provide a financial incentive in order to collect a consumer’s personal information?	242
Q 369. If a business offers a financial incentive when collecting a consumer’s personal information, does it have to estimate the value of the financial incentive?	242
Q 370. Does the collection of contact information to transmit promotions or discounts count as a financial incentive program under the CCPA?	243
Application to Loyalty Programs
Q 371. Is a loyalty program a “financial incentive” program under the CCPA?	244
Q 372. What rights does a consumer have in relation to a loyalty program under the CCPA?	244
Q 373. Is a business prohibited under the CCPA from giving discounts to loyalty program members?	245
Q 374. Does the CCPA require that the benefits conferred by a loyalty program be “directly related” to the value of a consumer’s data to the business?	246
Q 375. Does the CCPA require that the benefits conferred by a loyalty program be “reasonably related” to the value of a consumer’s data to the business?	246
Q 376. Does a business “discriminate” against consumers by operating a loyalty program?	247
Q 377. Does a business that operates a loyalty program need to provide a “notice of financial incentive”?	248

Q 378. If a business that operates a loyalty program provides a notice of financial incentive, is it required to disclose a numeric valuation of the value of a consumer’s data?	249
Q 379. If a business that operates a loyalty program provides a notice of financial incentive, can it treat the value of the consumer’s data as a trade secret?	250
Q 380. Is a business required to provide a notice at collection in conjunction with a loyalty program?	251
Q 381. Is a business required to provide a privacy notice in conjunction with a loyalty program?	252
Q 382. Is a business required to provide access to all information about the consumer maintained through a loyalty program?	252
Q 383. Is a business required to delete loyalty program information if it receives a deletion request from an active member of the program?	252
Q 384. Is a business required to delete loyalty program information if it receives a deletion request from an inactive member of the program?	255
Q 385. If a business voluntarily honors the deletion request of a loyalty program member, is it violating the CCPA?	257
Q 386. Is a business required to post a “do not sell” link if it offers a loyalty program?	259
Q 387. If a business allows consumers to redeem loyalty program benefits for products or services offered by a corporate partner, does that constitute the sale of information?	259
Q 388. If a business shares personal information through its loyalty program with a third-party fulfillment company, is it selling that information?	260
Q 389. Can a company exclude Californians from a loyalty program?	261
Application to Other Common Marketing Practices
Q 390. Is a business required to delete marketing information if it receives a right to be forgotten request?	261
Q 391. Does a business need consent to market to business contacts identified during conferences and trade shows?	262
Q 392. Does the CCPA impose any additional obligations on companies that market to business contacts identified during conferences and trade shows?	262
Q 393. Can a conference organizer use on-site tracking?	264

Q 394. Can a conference organizer transfer the personal information of attendees to conference sponsors?	264
---	------------

CHAPTER 5

LITIGATION AND ENFORCEMENT

Q 395. Which groups of consumers can sue under the CCPA?	267
Q 396. Are health care providers subject to CCPA litigation?	267
Q 397. What categories of information could trigger a consumer class action if breached?	268
Q 398. Did the CPRA expand the scope of the private right of action?	268
Q 399. Can non-Californians bring suit under the CCPA following a data breach?	269
Q 400. Are businesses strictly liable if a data breach occurs?	270
Q 401. What percentage of data breaches result in class action litigation?	270
Q 402. Can a plaintiff choose to file a CCPA case in state court or federal court?	270
Q 403. Does a consumer have to establish injury to bring suit in federal court in California under the CCPA?	271
Q 404. Can a consumer bring suit in a California state court under the CCPA even if they were not injured by a data breach?	271
Q 405. In what locations can a plaintiff file a CCPA case?	272
Q 406. Can CCPA cases be filed in courts outside of the state of California?	273
Q 407. What is the most popular federal court for filing a CCPA case?	273
Q 408. What legal theory are plaintiffs most likely to assert in a data breach class action in addition to the CCPA?	273
Q 409. What other legal theories could a plaintiff assert in a data breach class action in addition to the CCPA?	274
Q 410. Do businesses have to report data breaches to the state of California?	274
Q 411. If a business reports a data breach to the state of California, is the data breach posted to a website?	275
Q 412. What are “reasonable security procedures and practices” under the CCPA?	275

Q 413. Does the CCPA suggest a minimum statutory damage that a court should award?	275
Q 414. Does the CCPA identify a maximum statutory damage that can be awarded?	276
Q 415. What factors will courts look to when determining what statutory damages to award?	276
Q 416. Does a business have an ability to “cure” a data breach by improving its security?	276
Q 417. Does the CCPA permit national class actions?	277
Q 418. Do all cyber insurance policies cover litigation under the CCPA?	277
Q 419. What is the statute of limitations for claims brought pursuant to the CCPA?	278
Q 420. Can companies use arbitration clauses and class action waiver provisions to mitigate the risk of CCPA-related class actions?	278
CHAPTER 6
COMPARISONS TO OTHER STATUTES	281
Q 421. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to those of HIPAA?	281
Q 422. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to those of the GLBA?	282
Q 423. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to FERPA?	283
Q 424. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to COPPA?	284
Q 425. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to Nevada’s privacy law?	285
Q 426. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to those of Virginia’s privacy law?	286
Q 427. How do the requirements of the CCPA compare to those of the GDPR?	288
CHAPTER 7
APPLICATION TO SPECIFIC INDUSTRIES	291
Attorneys and Law Firms
Q 428. What types of information do law firms collect that may be subject to the CCPA?	291
Q 429. Are law firms considered businesses or service providers in the context of the personal information that they receive from employees?	292

Q 430. Are law firms considered businesses or service providers in the context of the personal information that they collect about potential clients?	292
Q 431. Are law firms considered businesses or service providers in the context of the personal information that they collect about current clients?	293
Q 432. Are law firms considered businesses or service providers of the personal information that they receive from clients as part of a representation?	293
Q 433. Does the CCPA require a law firm to respond to an access request that seeks personal information that it obtained from its client?	294
Q 434. Can a litigant use an access request as a means of obtaining quasi-discovery?	295
Q 435. Is a law firm required to send a notice at collection when issuing party discovery?	295
Q 436. Is a law firm required to send a notice at collection to a third party when issuing a subpoena?	297
Q 437. Is a law firm required to respond to a deletion request?	298
Banking and Financial Services
Q 438. Can the CCPA impose obligations on a financial institution?	299
Q 439. What types of data do financial institutions collect that would be subject to the CCPA?	300
Q 440. Have financial institutions updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	300
Q 441. What is the average size of a financial institution’s California privacy notice?	301
Q 442. Have financial institutions disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated categories?	301
Q 443. How many financial institutions sell personal information?	302
Q 444. How many financial institutions include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	302
Q 445. Do financial institutions use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	302
Q 446. Do financial institutions take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	302
Q 447. Do financial institutions that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie banners?	303

Q 448. Do financial institutions provide access and deletion rights?	303
Q 449. Does the CCPA expose financial institutions to increased litigation?	303
Q 450. How frequently are financial institutions the target of CCPA-related class actions?	303
Consumer Goods
Q 451. Have consumer goods companies updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	304
Q 452. What is the average size of a consumer goods company’s privacy notice?	304
Q 453. Have consumer goods companies disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated category?	305
Q 454. How many consumer goods companies sell personal information?	305
Q 455. How many consumer goods companies include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	305
Q 456. Do consumer goods companies use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	306
Q 457. Do consumer goods companies take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	306
Q 458. Do consumer goods companies that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie banners?	306
Health Care, Covered Entities, and Business Associates
Q 459. Does the CCPA apply to personal information that is governed by HIPAA?	306
Q 460. Are covered entities fully exempt from the CCPA?	307
Q 461. Are business associates fully exempt from the CCPA?	307
Q 462. What types of data do health care providers collect that would be subject to the CCPA?	308
Q 463. Have covered entities updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	308
Q 464. What is the average size of a health care company’s California privacy notice?	308
Q 465. Have health care companies disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated categories?	309
Q 466. How many health care companies sell personal information?	310

Q 467. How many health care companies include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	310
Q 468. Do health care companies use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	310
Q 469. Do health care companies take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	310
Q 470. Do health care companies that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie banners?	310
Q 471. Do health care companies provide consumers with access and deletion rights?	311
Hotels and Hospitality
Q 472. Have hotels updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	311
Q 473. What is the average size of a hotel’s privacy notice?	311
Q 474. Have hotels disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated category?	312
Q 475. How many hotels sell personal information?	312
Q 476. How many hotels include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	312
Q 477. Do hotels use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	313
Q 478. Do hotels take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	313
Q 479. Do hotels that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies deploy cookie banners?	313
Life and Health Insurance
Q 480. Have life and health insurance companies updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	313
Q 481. What is the average size of a life and health insurance company’s California privacy notice?	313
Q 482. Have life and health insurance companies disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by “enumerated category”?	314
Q 483. How many life and health insurance companies sell personal information?	315
Q 484. How many life and health insurance companies include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	315

Q 485. Do life and health insurance companies use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	315
Q 486. Do life and health insurance companies take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	315
Q 487. Do life and health insurance companies that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie notices?	316
Q 488. Does the CCPA expose insurance companies to increased litigation?	316
Pharmaceuticals
Q 489. Have pharmaceutical companies updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	317
Q 490. What is the average size of a pharmaceutical company's California privacy notice?	317
Q 491. Have pharmaceutical companies disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated category?	317
Q 492. How many pharmaceutical companies sell personal information?	318
Q 493. How many pharmaceutical companies include a "Do Not Sell My Personal Information" link on their homepage?	318
Q 494. Do most pharmaceutical companies use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	318
Q 495. Do pharmaceutical companies take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	319
Q 496. Do pharmaceutical companies that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie notices?	319
Property and Casualty Insurance
Q 497. Have property and casualty insurance companies updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	319
Q 498. What is the average size of a property and casualty insurance company's California privacy notice?	319
Q 499. Have property and casualty insurance companies disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated category?	320

Q 500. How many property and casualty insurance companies sell personal information?	321
Q 501. How many property and casualty insurance companies include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	321
Q 502. Do property and casualty insurance companies use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	321
Q 503. Do property and casualty insurance companies take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	321
Q 504. Do property and casualty insurance companies that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies use cookie notices?	322
Retailers
Q 505. Have retailers updated their privacy notices for the CCPA?	322
Q 506. What is the average size of a retailer’s California privacy notice?	322
Q 507. Have retailers disclosed their collection and sharing of personal information by enumerated category?	323
Q 508. How many retailers sell personal information?	323
Q 509. How many retailers include a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on their homepage?	323
Q 510. Do most retailers use third-party behavioral advertising cookies?	324
Q 511. Do most retailers take the position that the use of third-party behavioral advertising cookies is, or is not, the sale of personal information?	324
Q 512. Do retailers that use third-party behavioral advertising cookies have cookie banners?	324

CHAPTER 8

ADDITIONAL GUIDANCE AND RULEMAKING	325
Q 513. Which agencies were authorized to interpret the CCPA?	325
Q 514. What topics did the CCPA identify for rulemaking?	325
Q 515. What agencies were authorized to interpret the CPRA?	326
Q 516. What rulemakings are currently expected?	326

APPENDIX A
TIMELINE OF THE ADOPTION OF THE CCPA AND CPRA	329
APPENDIX B
TEXT OF CCPA	331
APPENDIX C
TEXT OF THE REGULATIONS IMPLEMENTING THE CCPA	361
APPENDIX D
TEXT OF THE CPRA	391
APPENDIX E
TEXT OF THE CALIFORNIA ONLINE PRIVACY PROTECTION ACT (CALOPPA)	465
APPENDIX F
TEXT OF THE CALIFORNIA SHINE THE LIGHT LAW	469
INDEX	479