
ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Thomas E. Patterson graduated from Illinois Wesleyan University in 1975, was a salesman for one year, and then attended law school, graduating from DePaul University in 1979. In law school, he was an editor of the Law Review and published a note, “Ex Parte Contacts in Informal Rulemaking Proceedings: Home Box Office v. FCC,” 27 DePaul Law Review 489 (1978).

After law school, Patterson became a law clerk for Justice William G. Clark of the Illinois Supreme Court, after which he joined Wildman, Harrold, Allen & Dixon, where he was elected partner in 1988. He started his own firm on April 14, 2000. He is now the manager of the Patterson Law Firm, LLC, and concentrates his practice in commercial litigation, with a heavy emphasis on emergency business litigation.

Patterson is admitted to practice before the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme Court and has been admitted to practice pro hac vice in many other courts throughout the United States. As a member of the American Bar Association, the DuPage County Bar Association, and the Illinois State Bar Association, he has been active on committees relevant to businesses, professionals, entrepreneurs, and the selection of judges.

Patterson received an AV rating under the Martindale-Hubbell lawyer rating system and is listed in the Bar Register of Preeminent Lawyers. In 2009, Super Lawyers magazine named him an Illinois Super Lawyer. In 2016, he was named a Leading Lawyer.

Prior writing and teaching includes coauthoring a bimonthly column on nonpattern jury instructions for the Chicago Daily Law Bulletin, teaching an online continuing legal education courses on the attorney-client privilege, shareholder disputes, and emergency remedies, and speaking to bar and industry groups about the attorney-client privilege, breach of contract, e-commerce, expert witness rules, indemnity agreements, and trial practice.

Michael D. Haeberle graduated magna cum laude from Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota, and served in AmeriCorps following graduation. He graduated from University of Chicago Law School with honors.

Since graduation, Haeberle has been focused on trying cases ranging from shareholder disputes to fraud cases, encompassing a broad spectrum of commercial litigation. He is admitted in Illinois and Wisconsin, the United States District Courts for the Eastern District of Wisconsin, and the Northern,

Central, and Southern Districts of Illinois, as well as the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

Haeberle has published, spoken to bar groups and national organizations, and taught continuing legal education courses about restrictive covenants, attorney ethics, representation of closely held corporations, and corporate liability. He has repeatedly been named as an Emerging Lawyer by Leading Lawyers and a Rising Star by Super Lawyers.