08:30 – 08:45 WELCOMING REMARKS

08:45 - 10:00 BIG DATA: BIGGER PLATFORMS, BIGGER CONCERNS?

Internet platforms and network effects are here to stay, and aggregation of consumer/customer data is accelerating. When does data aggregation raise serious concerns regarding anticompetitive effects? This panel will explore that question as well as the extent to which ongoing enforcement actions in the Big Data space pose a risk of chilling procompetitive behavior.

Moderator:
Maureen K. OHLHAUSEN, Baker Botts LLP, Washington, DC

Speakers:
Rosanna GARZA LIPSCOMB, Senior Competition Counsel, Google Inc, Mountain View, CA
Cormac LITTLE, William Fry, Dublin
Ana PELLEGRINI, Legal Director, Litigation and Global Competition Law, Uber Technologies Inc, San Francisco, CA
Marianela LÓPEZ-GALDOS, Director, Computer and Communications Industry Association (CCIA), Washington, DC

10:00 – 11:15 WILL PRIVATE DAMAGES ACTIONS TAKE OFF IN LATIN AMERICA?

As competition law awareness expands in Latin America, private damages actions are also expected to proliferate and provide a new platform for consumer and competitor redress. This panel will explore the recent emergence of damages actions in American jurisdictions and forecast the ways in which these actions will shape the legal landscape for potential plaintiffs and defendants.

Moderator:
Nicolás LEWIN, Estudio Lewin Abogados, Santiago

Speakers:
Laura BIERZYCHUDEK, Estudio Trevisán Abogados, Buenos Aires
Peter CARNEY, White & Case, Washington DC
Rita MOTTA, Latham & Watkins LLP, Brussels

11:15 - 11:30 BREAK

11:30 - 12:45 MERGER CONTROL IN A MULTIJURISDICTIONAL CONTEXT

As competition law develops around the globe, deals big and small and across all industries now routinely face multiple, simultaneous merger reviews. Because the analysis of and approach to competitive effects varies by jurisdiction, parties and enforcers alike must take into account the processes of all regulators looking at a transaction in determining the course forward. This panel will explore the realities of multijurisdictional merger control and the potential for streamlining the multi-track review process.
