Description of Event

Join us for the ABA Center on Children and the Law Spring 2019 National Conferences designed to train, engage, and provide opportunities for networking and dialogue among child law professionals who practice in a variety of areas.

National Conference on Access to Justice for Children and Families, April 9-10
The conference will provide training and networking opportunities for child law professionals who advocate for children, parents, agencies, and kin in child welfare proceedings. The conference also includes participation from judges, Court Improvement Program Directors, court administrators, and attorneys who handle cases that intersect with child welfare such as in immigration, education, housing and family law. This year, the conference will include a track on implementing the Family First Prevention Services Act in practice.

National Conference on Parent Representation, April 11-12
Hosted by the Center on Children and the Law and the National Alliance for Parent Representation, this event is designed for attorneys who represent parents, judges, CIP Directors and court administrators, parents, social workers, and other child welfare system professionals who focus on parent advocacy. The workshops, facilitated small group discussions, and plenary sessions on relevant topics will move the parent representation practice forward and improve outcomes for children and families.

Jessica Bryar Memorial Plenary Address

Something Odd Happened Last Year: It was a Great One for Family Defenders

Professor Martin Guggenheim, JD, New York University School of Law

Professor Guggenheim will open the conference with good news about our parent representation movement and provide insight on the road ahead.

Making the Case for Optimism: Poor Families, State Regulation, and Cultural Transformation

Khiara Bridges, JD, Boston University School of Law

Professor Bridges will focus her comments on race, class, reproductive rights, and the intersection of the three. She will tie these themes to the child welfare system.

The Rise and Resistance of Parents

Dinah Ortiz-Adames, Bronx Defenders

As a Parent Advocate, Ms. Ortiz-Adames works to empower clients and help them navigate the child welfare system successfully. She will share about her own experience with the child welfare system and how she has gone on to become a leader in the parent representation movement.

Session A

1. Changing the Narrative: Telling the Real Story of Families Caught Up in the Child Welfare System

Dinah Ortiz-Adames, Bronx Defenders

Vivek Sankaran, JD, Child Advocacy Law Clinic, University of Michigan Law School

Richard Wexler, National Coalition for Child Protection Reform

Changing a system that does so much harm to families requires winning in the court of public opinion. This session will demonstrate ways to win over media gatekeepers -- and work around them when necessary -- to change damaging stereotypes about children and families.

2. Trauma and Parental Engagement, Even When a Practitioner Does Not Have Support

Ron Ayler, MSW, Community Legal Services, Inc.

Brett Ballew, JD, Washington State Office of Public Defense

Heather Cantamessa, Washington State Office of Public Defense

Alex Dutton, JD, Community Legal Services, Inc.

Not all practitioners have access to parent supports or social workers to assist them in getting their parent clients engaged in their case plans. This workshop will give practitioners in this situation specific tools they can use to connect and support their parent clients even when resources and time are scarce. Because an understanding of trauma is crucial to getting parents engaged, we will use Bruce Perry’s neurosequential model to explore the impact of trauma on brain functioning and decision-making and how that affects a practitioner’s ability to engage with clients.

3. Successful Outcomes for Clients with Concurrent Family Court and Criminal Court Proceedings: The Unified Team Approach

Piyali Basak, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services

Jeff Blank, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services

Jessica Nitsche, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services

The Integrated Defense Practice at BDS provides representation to parents who have concurrent criminal and family court cases. This workshop will provide information on common issues that arise in the two matters and offer recommendations on how to coordinate defenses and ensure the best outcomes for our clients and their families.
4. State Central Registers
Carolyn A. Kubitschek, JD, Lansner & Kubitschek
David J. Lansner, JD, Lansner & Kubitschek
Melissa L. Staas, JD, LAF

This workshop will explain the nature of state central registers of suspected child abuse and neglect, including the statutory basis, the restrictions for employment and other activities for individuals listed in such registers, Constitutional due process considerations, and representation of individuals seeking to be removed from such registers.

5. Game of Thrones: Influencing, Challenging, and Toppling Your Judges to Give Your Clients a Fighting Chance
Andrew Cohen, JD, Massachusetts Committee for Public Counsel Services Children and Family Law Division
David Meyers, JD, Dependency Legal Services of Northern California

Has a judge ever told you - before trial – that you should settle because you were going to lose? Has a judge ever taken over questioning your client and done more damage than the CPS attorney? Has a judge ever treated you – or your client – so badly at trial that you knew that your client couldn’t get a fair trial? Did it make you feel powerless? Let’s take up arms together. We’ll address: influencing judges through aggressive defensive lawyering; understanding bias and the limits of judicial power; recognizing when judges’ behavior crosses the line; and standing up to judicial bullying. We’ll also talk about making – and surviving – motions to recuse. We can win the Game of Thrones if we fight wisely.

6. SKILLS: Cross Examining Child Witnesses in Sex Abuse Cases
Sophia Bernhardt, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services
Juliana Chereji, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services

This workshop focuses on challenging child witnesses in sex abuse cases. Participants will engage in a discussion regarding the dynamics of cross-examining children, workshop a case example, and practice short cross-examinations. The workshop will also include a discussion of social science research on child suggestibility.

7. DISCUSSION: Parent Advocates as Leaders and Managers
Brejea Colthirst, East Bay Family Defenders
Arielle Reisman, MSW, East Bay Family Defenders
Rita Rodriguez, JD, East Bay Family Defenders

A key strength of interdisciplinary representation is pairing attorneys with parent advocates who have lived experience in the system. These interdisciplinary models are nearly always designed and managed by attorneys or social workers. We will explore how parent advocates can design interdisciplinary programs and be part of a management team.

1. Family Poverty Is Not Neglect: Exploring the Persistent Mislabeling and the Steps Family Defenders Can Take to End It
Darice Good, JD, Good Law Firm
Jayanthi Rajaraman, JD, Legal Services of New Jersey
Diane Redleaf, JD, Family Defense Consulting
Ruth White, MSW, National Center for Housing and Child Welfare

The child welfare system targets families in poverty, treating their lack of resources as neglect and often worsening family poverty. The panel will discuss national and state policies, case law, litigation and legislative developments to address this endemic child welfare system issue and punitive practice applied to poor families.

2. Think Different: Persuading Trial and Appellate Judges Using the Psychology of Advertising
Andrew Cohen, JD, Massachusetts Committee for Public Counsel Services Children and Family Law Division
Ruchi Kapoor, JD, Office of Respondent Parents Counsel

Do you want judges to read what you’ve written, remember it, be persuaded by it, and yearn to give you the relief you want? We need to “think different,” as Apple says. We need to learn from advertising psychology how people read and process information, what persuades them, and what makes them buy. Because we want judges to buy what we’re selling about our parent clients and the outcomes that justice and fairness demand. You’ll come away from this session armed with new ways of thinking about – and writing – motions and briefs.
3. In Search of a Silver Bullet: Child Welfare’s Embrace of Predictive Analytics
Christopher Church, JD, University of South Carolina School of Law, CHAMPS Clinic
Amanda Fairchild, PhD, University of South Carolina Dept. of Psychology

Predictive analytics has shaken up a number of fields, including child welfare. Although it can help professionals make decisions more accurately, objectively, and quickly, there is concern it may result in discriminatory & unethical practices. This session will examine programmatic & ethical considerations for this new science in child welfare.

4. Special Considerations for Representing Noncitizen Parents in Child Welfare Proceedings
Danny Alicea, JD, Center for Family Representation, Inc
Teresa Garcia, JD, Center for Family Representation, Inc

This session will focus on the unique challenges and consequences that non-citizens face stemming from a child welfare case. This includes ICE detection, triggering a deportation ground, eligibility for discretionary immigration benefits, child visitation, production to family court if held, and maintaining eligibility for release on immigration bond.

5. Ensuring Reasonable Efforts for Parents with Substance Use Disorders
Honorable Len Edwards (Ret.) Center for Families, Children & The Courts
Sid Gardner, MPA, MA, Center for Children and Family Futures

The connections needed between child welfare caseloads and treatment for substance use disorders have led to a wider awareness of reasonable efforts, as it applies to improve safety and permanency outcomes for children and families. Presenters will discuss approaches that attorneys can use to apply reasonable efforts in legal decisions.

6. SKILLS: Effective Advocacy and Trial Preparation in Cases Requiring Expert Testimony
Rachel Brewer, JD, Los Angeles Dependency Lawyers, Inc.
Elyzabeth Melendez, SW, Los Angeles Dependency Lawyers, Inc.

This workshop focuses on a multidisciplinary approach to preparing cases that require expert testimony for trial, from both a parent’s social worker/investigator and attorney perspective. Best practices will be explored, with a focus on trial preparation beginning from the day the petition is filed through the adjudication hearing.

7. DISCUSSION: #SAY HER NAME: The intersection of law enforcement, the criminal justice system, and dependency courts, and how parent attorneys can help flip the script
Marci Comeau, JD, King County Department of Public Defense

Charleena Lyles was a pregnant mother of four children navigating the CPS and criminal justice systems when she was killed by law enforcement. Her case serves as a vivid reminder that many clients are walking the tightrope of interconnecting dependency and criminal cases and must deal with law enforcement as a result of it.

3:15 p.m. – 3:30 p.m. Break
3:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. Session C

1. Supporting Those on the Front Line: Strategies for Trauma-Informed Supervision and Management in a Family Defense Practice
Kathleen Creamer, JD, Community Legal Services, Inc.
Maggie Potter, MSW, MSSP, Community Legal Services, Inc.

Supervisors and managers can help support family defense staff who experience vicarious trauma and burn-out by using a trauma-informed approach. Participants will learn key strategies for fostering a supportive and responsive practice. Come share ideas, learn new approaches, and leave with techniques for improved supervision and management.

Change in the child welfare system requires that family defenders include legislative and policy advocacy in their tool boxes. A new bipartisan legislative/policy change agenda developed since 2016 will be highlighted, with presentation by an experienced Congressional staffer (and lawyer) on how family advocates can achieve legislative success.

| Katrina Carter, MS, Iowa Department of Corrections |  |
| David Flower, JD, Dependency Advocacy Center of San Jose, CA |  |
| Jami J. Hagemeier, JD, Drake Legal Clinic-Incarcerated Parent Representation Project |  |
| Tracy Ortega, JD, East Bay Family Defenders |  |
| Kristin Walker, Iowa Department of Human Services |  |

Panelists from California and Iowa will discuss barriers to representing incarcerated parents in child welfare proceedings, community solutions and partnering strategies they are using to address those barriers and advocate for incarcerated parents, how collaboration can eliminate barriers, and how these strategies can support families and promote reunification.

| Krista Ellis, ABA Center on Children and the Law Intern |  |
| Shrounda Selivanoff, Washington State Office of Public Defense |  |
| Amelia Watson, JD, Washington State Office of Public Defense |  |

This presentation will discuss the impact of bias on participants in the child welfare system. While focusing on racial and poverty bias, the training will discuss the importance of recognizing bias, welcoming diversity, and overcoming individual predispositions. This training was adapted from nationally recognized research.

| 4. Sex Trafficking and Minor Mothers | Colonnade |
| Tiffani Cortez, JD, Children's Law Center of California |  |
| Rosezetta Upshaw, JD, Los Angeles Dependency Lawyers, Inc. |  |

This substantive workshop will define the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC), outline best practices when representing CSEC youth as parents, minors, or both, and provide stirring accounts of pimps and thriving sex markets from attorneys on the frontline of the global CSEC crisis.

| 5. Foster Parents and Reunification: Resource, Roadblock or Both? | Consulate |
| Dusti Standridge, JD, Arkansas Parent Counsel Program and Foster Parent |  |

Foster parents can play a vital role in a child welfare case and can have a direct impact - both positive or negative - on reunification efforts. This presentation alerts those in the field of some of the benefits and concerns of the foster parent’s effect on reunification and termination, as well as the care of the child.

| Richard Cozzola, JD, LAF |  |
| Jessica Horan-Block, JD, Bronx Defenders |  |
| Melissa L. Staas, JD, LAF |  |

Defending clients against a child abuse pediatrician’s “diagnosis” of abuse requires exposing the weaknesses in that opinion and presentation of affirmative medical testimony supporting non-abuse explanations. This workshop will provide an overview of the medical, legal, and trial practice tools for developing direct and cross examinations of medical experts.
| 7. DISCUSSION: Partnering with Appellate: | Boardroom |
| How Trial and Appellate Partnerships Elevate the Practice | |
| Daniel Deramo, JD, NJ Office of the Public Defender | |
| Robyn A. Veasey, JD, NJ Office of the Public Defender | |
| This session will begin with a presentation on how NJ OPD’s Office of Parental Representation has worked on partnering with the Appellate Section for training modules and information sharing with trial counsel. Participants will share effective strategies for similar partnerships. | |

| 10:00 a.m. – | Break |
| 10:15 a.m. – | Session E |

| 1. Beyond Due Process: Parent Rights After a Child’s Removal | Consulate |
| Emily Peeler, JD, MSW, ABA Center on Children and the Law | |
| Hope Newton, Center for Family Representation, Inc. | |
| Parents retain certain rights after removal, sometimes called “residual rights,” including topics such as education or medical decision making and religious affiliation. The presentation will examine residual rights in 51 states identifying trends, gaps, and unique rights. Hear from multi-disciplinary partners helping parents exercise these rights, with a specific focus on education rights. | |

| 10:15 a.m. – | |
| 11:45 a.m. | |

| Michael Heard, MSW, Washington State Office of Public Defense | |
| Alexandra G. Roark, JD, Massachusetts Committee for Public Counsel Services Children and Family Law Division | |
| Successfully representing parents inside and outside of the courtroom is a constantly evolving skill. This session will focus on reviewing national scientific and social science resources to enhance your arguments, motions, and advocacy. We will touch on many important aspects which are critical to successful parent representation, including the harm of removal, racial and ethnic disparities, limiting the onerous demands placed on parents, and visitation. Join us as we move from reviewing the data to putting it into your everyday practice. | |

| 3. LGBT Parents in Child Welfare Proceedings | Colonnade |
| Nancy Polikoff, JD, American University Washington College of Law | |
| Emily Haan, JD, National Center for Lesbian Rights | |
| Lesbian/bisexual mothers are at documented higher risk of losing their children to the state. This workshop addresses: discrimination, especially by faith-based agencies; inappropriate removal of a gender-variant child; failure to apply state parentage law to a parent’s same-sex partner/former partner; and narrow definitions of kin. | |

| David Cohen, JD, Drexel University School of Law | |
| Amber Khan, JD, National Advocates for Pregnant Women | |
| Mishka Terplan, MD, MPH, Virginia Commonwealth University | |
| This workshop will explore how drug policies are used to expand child welfare investigations and “child abuse” to include pregnancy and any substance use. It will include medical expertise on prenatal substance exposure and tips for utilizing experts and constitutional arguments for parent defense in such cases and appellate proceedings. | |

| 5. Planning for Successful Reunification/Re-Entry Prevention | Old Dominion |
| Malena Arnaud, MSW, Center for Family Representation, Inc | |
| Virginia Christ, LMSW, Center for Family Representation, Inc | |
| Michele Cortese, JD, Center for Family Representation, Inc | |
| Reunification is a “win” but also challenging. CFR will share lessons learned and materials from our Re-Entry Prevention Project. | |

| 6. SKILLS: Why TPR? How Family Defense Lawyers Can Get Courts To Address This Fundamental Question | Ambassador |
| Emma Brown-Bernstein, JD, Public Defender Atlanta Judicial Circuit | |
| Christopher Church, JD, University of South Carolina School of Law, CHAMPS Clinic | |
| Vivek Sankaran, JD, Child Advocacy Law Clinic, University of Michigan Law School | |
| When it comes to Termination of Parental Rights, there are a variety of motivations that are not child or family specific, identified as the “5Ps.” This workshop will explore these five motivations and how to incorporate these motivations into courtroom advocacy and challenging and changing child welfare policy. | |
7. DISCUSSION: Family Justice Initiative: A National Approach to High Quality Representation for Parents and Children

Leslie Heimov, JD, Children's Law Center of California
Sue Jacobs, JD, Center for Family Representation
Mimi Laver, JD, ABA Center on Children and the Law

The FJI seeks to ensure that every parent and child has access to high-quality legal representation when courts make decisions about their families. This discussion will focus on what constitutes “high-quality” and strategies for working with an interdisciplinary team. Participants will learn about FJI demonstration sites, how parents’ and children’s attorneys can be allies supporting investment in high-quality legal representation and accessing federal dollars to support attorneys for children and parents.

11:45 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. Lunch

12:00 p.m. – 1:00 p.m. Lunch Plenary

Perinatal Addiction and Harm Reduction- Preserving the Mother Baby Relationship in the Face of the Opioid Crisis

Dr. Ron Abrahams, founding Medical Director of the FIR (Families In Recovery)
Rooming in program at British Columbia Women's Hospital

1:00 p.m. – 1:15 p.m. Break

1:15 p.m. – 2:45 p.m. Session F

1. A Trauma-Informed Group for Fathers with Dual Criminal Court and Family Court Involvement

Albery Abreu, MSW, Children's Aid Society - Family Wellness Program
Tricia Stephens, LCSW-R, Ph.D. Hunter College - Silberman School of Social Work
Lisa Washington, JD, Bronx Defenders

This workshop describes how fathers who accept a plea deal after a DV charge receive treatment. Findings from a qualitative study of 14 fathers participating in a trauma-informed “batterers’ group” are followed by a detailed discussion of the group elements that prepare fathers for rebuilding healthier relationships with their children.

2. Toto, We're Not in Kansas Anymore: Storming, Forming, and Creating Change for Parents in Colorado

Ashlee Arcilla, JD, Office of Respondent Parents Counsel
Ruchi Kapoor, JD, Office of Respondent Parents Counsel
Melissa Michaelis Thompson, JD, Office of Respondent Parents Counsel

In 2016, Melissa, Ruchi, and Ashlee were charged with changing the landscape of parents’ representation for an entire state through an independent contractor model. Learn about how they messed it up, got it right, and how it’s working now. From appellate policy to statewide messaging, the whirlwind of change is making a difference for parents.

3. Mandated Reporting from Hospital Staff: A Family Defense Perspective

Clara Presler, JD, Bronx Defenders
Jey Rajaraman, JD, Legal Services of New Jersey

Mandated reporting laws encourage speedy reporting of suspected child maltreatment, inhibiting medical professionals from investigating in order to determine whether a suspicion is reasonable. Reports from hospitals are interpreted in the court system as if they represented a medical conclusion.

Kaela Economos, SW, Brooklyn Defender Services
Hannah Roman, JD, King County Dept. of Public Defense

This workshop focuses on how harm reduction principles can be incorporated into child welfare practice, and how defense attorneys and social workers can effectively advocate for evidence based practices (including non-abstinence based approaches and medically assisted treatment) for clients with substance use disorder.
5. Mamas of Color and Mental Health: The Harm of State Intervention via the Child Protection System

Morgan Hill, LMSW, Bronx Defenders
Fallon Speaker, JD, Bronx Defenders

This workshop will explore the ways in which the child protection system, when used as a tool of intervention in early stages of maternal bonding and parenting, can serve as a patriarchal tool of government oppression, surveillance, intervention, and control over women of color and their families.

6. SKILLS: Motivational Interviewing: Tools for Client Counseling in Challenging Contexts

Payal Dalal, LMSW, Center for Family Representation, Inc
Corinne Lundstrum, JD, Center for Family Representation, Inc

This session introduces participants to counseling technique called “Motivational Interviewing”. It is uniquely suited to challenging counseling situations including; clients not following legal advice, clients disclosing that they have violated court orders, and clients and counsel disagreeing about how to proceed.

7. DISCUSSION: Building Alliances with Social Justice Movements: The Time Is Now!

Erin Miles Cloud, JD, National Family Defense Project
Joyce McMillian, JMac4Families
Lisa Sangoi, National Family Defense Project

This discussion group will explore the importance of social justice movement building to achieving meaningful and lasting reforms to the child welfare system. We will provide participants with concrete steps they can take and strategies they can implement to increase this issues’ visibility and build alliances with different movements.

Session G

Sarah Cook, JD, Dependency Advocacy Center of San Jose, CA
AnnaLisa Chung, JD, Dependency Advocacy Center of San Jose, CA
Jermaine Hardy, Santa Clara Adult Probation
Antoinette Manuel, MSW, Dependency Advocacy Center of San Jose, CA
Victoria Ruiz, Dependency Advocacy Center of San Jose, CA

Probation and Dependency Advocacy Center created a unique partnership to break the cycle of multiple system involvement for undeserved families. DAC’s Corridor Program provides parents on probation with an attorney-led interdisciplinary team to assist them with open dependency cases and, where possible, prevent entry into the child welfare system.

Mark Hardin, JD, ABA Center on Children and the Law (ret.)
Michelle Jungers, JD, Iowa Legal Aid
Mimi Laver, JD, ABA Center on Children and the Law
Joanne Moore, JD, Washington State Office of Public Defense

On December 19, 2018 the Children’s Bureau changed the Child Welfare Policy Manual to allow states to access federal resources for the costs of parent and child representation. What will this mean in your state? During this session lawyers from Iowa and Washington will discuss how these new resources will be used to improve legal services for parents before a petition is filed and post-removal.

3. The New Jane Crow vs. The New Jim Crow

Michelle L. Burrell, JD, Neighborhood Defender Service of Harlem
Porsha-Shaf’On Venable, JD, Neighborhood Defender Service of Harlem

This workshop will suggest to participants concrete actions we can take in the context of our advocacy for parents to challenge the disproportionate impact of child protective intervention and foster care placement on families of color, immigrant families, parents with disabilities and families living in poverty.
4. Lawyering from the Inside Out: Using Reflective Practice to Engage Clients and Promote Communication

Jamie Bahm, MS, Center on Children Families and the Law at University of Nebraska Lincoln
Jennie Cole-Mossman, Center on Children Families and the Law at University of Nebraska Lincoln
Tana Fye, JD, Fye Law Office

Reflective practice helps attorneys examine their past experiences, thoughts, and emotions about their work. It helps reduce vicarious trauma, stress and burnout. Not only does it promote well being for the attorney, but also assists them in having more engaging relationships with their clients and helps communication with difficult clients.

5. Developing Strategic Appeals Aimed at Creating New Case Law

Chris Gottlieb, JD, NYU School of Law Family Defense Clinic
Amy Mulzer, JD, Brooklyn Defender Services/ NYU School of Law Family Defense Clinic
Vivek Sankaran, JD, University of Michigan Law School Child Advocacy Law Clinic & Child Welfare Appellate Clinic

We will explore ways parent defense attorneys can use strategically selected appeals to address recurring issues and move the law forward. Presenters will use examples from our own work, including challenges to the application of the ICPC to parents and to TPR statutes that create irrebuttable presumptions or that discriminate against fathers.

6. SKILLS: You Can Call Me Mom: Special Issues in Privately-filed TPRs and Step-Parent Adoptions

Trisha Fritz, JD, Wisconsin State Public Defender
Ryan Reid, JD, Wisconsin State Public Defender
Elisabeth Stockbridge, JD, Wisconsin State Public Defender

Special issues arise when a parent files for TPR against another parent. We will explore how attorneys can counsel clients, customize discovery demands, negotiate non-TPR resolutions, and approach best interest arguments. This workshop will walk through these issues and allow time for attorneys to share successful strategies.

7. DISCUSSION: Strategies for Improving Child Welfare Response to Families Experiencing Domestic Violence

Sara Block, JD, The Family Defense Center
Rachel Ruttenberg, JD, The Family Defense Center

Discuss your jurisdiction's challenges with child welfare interventions into the lives of families experiencing domestic violence. Learn and share best practices and strategies for improving child welfare practice, including litigation, legislative reform, and cross-sector collaborations.

4:35 p.m. – 5:15 p.m.
Closing Plenary

A Bright Future for Family Defense: Leveraging New Federal Opportunities
David Kelly, JD, Special Assistant to the Associate Commissioner at the U.S. Children’s Bureau

As a key voice in the federal government for high quality legal representation, Mr. Kelly will share his insights about making the most of the new Child Welfare Policy Manual change and close the conference with marching orders for advocates across the country.
