How Do I Tell Them?
Coming Out About Mental Illness in the Workplace

• A Program Celebrating National Disability Employment Awareness Month (NDEAM) •

Many people with mental illness go through the ordeal of deciding whether, when, and how to disclose to those around them. This panel will address the practical aspects of coming out about mental illness in the workplace. It will discuss the decision to come out, what reactions and stigmas doing so could lead to, and how the employee, employer, and coworkers should handle the situation.
