

HON. PAUL D. WILSON has been an associate justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court since 2012. Previously, he was with Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Ferris, Glovsky and Popeo, P.C. for 30 years, where he was a broadly-experienced civil and appellate litigator specializing, during the last decade or so of his time in private practice, in real estate, land use, and environmental litigation. Justice Wilson teaches regularly for the American Bar Association, where he has served as a member of the governing body, as well as the Continuing Legal Education Director, for the ABA Section of State and Local Government Law. Justice Wilson also taught legal writing at Boston University School of Law for nearly two decades. He is an honors graduate of both New York University School of Law and Princeton University.
