Landscape of Legal Diversity: By the Numbers is a collaborative project of the American Bar Association Center for Racial and Ethnic Diversity and the Law School Admission Council, in conjunction with the American Bar Foundation.

This comprehensive resource:
- Is designed to be a centralized reference for key diversity statistics in the legal community
- Includes data on law firms, corporate law departments, the legal academy, the judiciary, and bar associations, as well as lawyers in government, public interest, business and civic leadership roles
- Features statistics and research compiled from numerous sources in the legal academy and profession
- Also includes narratives from leaders in the legal community whose expertise and experiences exemplify the data presented
- Provides a national perspective, with selected local data referenced to illustrate major trends or findings
- Focuses primarily on racial and ethnic diversity—while recognizing that “diversity” may refer to many other categories of individual difference

The major chapters of Landscape of Legal Diversity are:
- Foreword by Judge Bernice Bouie Donald
- Chapter 1: Racial and Ethnic Disparity in the Justice System
- Chapter 2: The Pipeline to Law School—K-12
- Chapter 3: The Pipeline to Law School—4-Year Colleges and Community Colleges
- Chapter 4: Law School Outcomes by Race and Gender
- Chapter 5: Career Choices and Outcomes
- Chapter 6: Recommendations for Future Study/Research

Scheduled Publication Date: Spring 2014
