ENVIRONMENTAL SUMMIT OF THE AMERICAS

JANUARY 15-16, 2020
HYATT REGENCY MEXICO CITY

The ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources (ABA SEER) and the International Bar Association Section on Energy, Environment, Natural Resources and Infrastructure Law (IBA SEERIL) invite you to the second Environmental Summit of the Americas on January 15-16, 2020, at the Hyatt Regency Polanco in Mexico City.

The Environmental Summit of the Americas will bring together leading environmental, energy, and natural resource lawyers from across the Americas (North, Central, South, and the Caribbean) to discuss the most pressing legal issues of today. Using a round-table format, facilitated by leading environmental lawyers, the Summit will cover a broad range of topics. These sessions will enlighten you to the successes, failures, and lessons learned in the various jurisdictions across the Americas.

Topics include: anticorruption, social integrity and parent company liability in environmental projects; plastics—national and international approaches; climate change and implementation of the Paris Accord; social license in resource development—dealing with local and indigenous communities; extended producer responsibility/circular economy; and contaminated sites and remediation.

Through interactive discussions and unparalleled networking opportunities, the Summit’s diverse gathering of legal practitioners should expect to build cross-border relationships that thrive. We encourage you to register early to secure your spot as space is limited.

Wednesday, January 15, 2020

4:00 P.M. Welcome and Opening Remarks

Karen Mignone, Chair, ABA Section of Environment, Energy, and Resources, Arrowsic, ME
Mariana Herrero, Host City Committee Co-Chair, Galicia Abogados, Mexico City, Mexico
Leopoldo Burguete Stanek, Host City Committee Co-Chair, Gonzalez Calvillo, Mexico City, Mexico

4:15 P.M. – 5:00 P.M. Keynote Presentation

5:00 P.M. – 6:30 P.M. Addressing Global Climate Change Issues Across the Americas

The impacts of climate change do not stop at international borders. In the Americas, the nations who have contributed the least to climate change will be among the ones most impacted by it. This panel discussion will bring together thought leaders from throughout the Americas to discuss how local and regional efforts can be coordinated to address greenhouse gas emissions and mitigate the impacts of climate change across these diverse nations.

7:00 P.M. Welcome Reception and Dinner

Thursday, January 16, 2020

8:30 A.M. – 8:45 A.M. Welcome and Introductions

Jonathan Kahn, Program Co-Chair, Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP, Toronto, Canada
Roger Martella, Program Co-Chair, General Electric, Boston, MA, USA
Angeles Murgier, Program Co-Chair, Beccar Varela, Buenos Aires, Argentina
Michelle Ouellette, Program Co-Chair, Best, Best & Krieger LLP in Riverside, CA, USA

8:45 A.M. – 10:00 A.M. Anticorruption, Social Integrity, and Parent Company Liability in Environmental Projects

Investors and developers increasingly need to ensure that anti-corruption and social integrity policies are in place before embarking on international energy, infrastructure, and mining projects. Failure to institute such policies runs the risk of legal peril, not just for the project companies, but also for parent and other related entities. This session will explore anti-corruption and social integrity policies from a variety of perspectives and share measures that parent companies can take to protect themselves in this area.

10:00 A.M. – 11:15 A.M. Extended Producer Responsibility/Circular Economy

The circular economy is gaining significant traction and attention in many parts of the world and within the global supply chain. However, it is still in the early stages of implementation in several Latin American countries. This session will explore how some jurisdictions have advanced extended producer responsibility principles to consider the social, environmental, and economic costs associated with a product throughout its lifecycle and incorporated them into the product’s market price and other elements of the supply chain. International implications of extended producer responsibility rules from a supply chain perspective will also be discussed.

11:45 A.M. – 1:00 P.M. Social License in Resource Development—Dealing with Local and Indigenous Communities

Many regions of the world are rich in minerals or alternative sources of energy. To explore and develop these resources, social impacts must be considered in addition to economic and environmental concerns. A resource development project can face fundamental challenges when it has not been approved from a social license perspective. This session will discuss successes, failures, and lessons learned in various jurisdictions across the Americas.

2:30 P.M. – 3:45 P.M. Plastics—National and International Approaches

Pollution and environmental harms associated with plastics has been receiving international scrutiny, given their universal prevalence, high durability, and impacts on the environment, and, in particular, the marine environment. Many jurisdictions are now implementing legislation to reduce plastic consumption and to better control plastic waste. This session will consider and compare approaches taken by jurisdictions in North, Central, and South America.

4:15 P.M. – 5:30 P.M. Contaminated Sites and Remediation

All industrialized jurisdictions have, to varying degrees, issues arising from contamination as a result of new or historic industrial operations. These issues can become significant liabilities and, in the context of international transactions, must be considered. This session will address domestic approaches for addressing contaminated sites and will consider how, in the context of commercial and corporate transactions, buyers can best protect themselves from current and future liability.
