Program Detail

Description
Economic, political and regulatory forces, coupled with technology innovation, continue to challenge and change the delivery and payment of healthcare. These changes have caused physician practices and community hospitals to consolidate and/or diversify, forming large “super” groups or health systems that are transforming the delivery of care through clinical integration. Additionally, new government payment models, the push by private insurers to share risk, and other market conditions continue to shift physicians, hospitals and other healthcare providers away from traditional fee-for-service reimbursement into value-based payment models. Finally, healthcare delivery is affected by other forces, such as the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, telemedicine, artificial intelligence (AI), and additional real-world factors. The net result is that physicians and other healthcare providers must navigate an evolving landscape of emerging legal risks and challenges to their business models.

Sessions will cover key topics, including new payment models, compliance issues, enforcement trends, contracting, tips for managing transactions, cybersecurity, the implications of new technologies, payor and medical staff disputes, and workplace issues for physicians. Speakers will share practical, and viable improvement techniques to help you work more efficiently while restoring your sense of purpose.

Global Learning Objectives

The following sessions will address legal and clinical topics of importance to physicians:

- Developments in the use of machine learning and artificial intelligence in healthcare.
- Recent payment models and initiatives in the insurance marketplace and how they affect payor alignment and marketplace strategies.
- Key policies for implementing clinical integration.
- Evaluation of physician and vendor relationships.
- Important workplace issues, including structuring physician compensation arrangements, particularly in the context of value-based arrangements, contract negotiation and compensation, harassment, reputation management and financial planning.
- Arbitration of managed care reimbursement issues and resolving litigated health insurance claims.
- Current trends in False Claims Act cases and practical, real-world ideas for physicians to address and prevent False Claims Act exposure.
- Implementation and compliance challenges related to the use of electronic health records (EHRs).
- Security and privacy of patients’ data.
- Practical implications of healthcare fraud and abuse laws, including Stark Law and the Anti-Kickback Act.
- Challenges presented by advances in technology that may result in professional responsibility concerns for both physicians and attorneys.

The growth in affiliations between private equity investors and healthcare service entities have skyrocketed in recent years. The volume, size and scale of these transactions have piqued interest, as these deals play a role in the dynamic of many healthcare marketplaces. Our speakers will provide an overview of key legal and valuation concepts in physician to private equity (PE) transactions, including current trends related to different transaction structures and valuations, considerations for various transaction structures, employment agreements, non-compete agreements, equity secession, physician rollover equity, and the inter-workings of complex equity structures.

What to Do and What to Expect: Negotiating Physician/Hospital Financial Arrangements

What is the next move for a physician and their attorney when hospitals provide marketing spiels, claim Stark and Anti-Kickback prohibitions, and decline to share valuations during contract negotiations?

Our panel will discuss ways to address these issues while successfully coming to terms on real-time financial arrangements including:

• Employment Agreements and prohibitive language on referrals; restrictive covenants; medical staff privileges; outside investments; and useless wRVU bonuses.
• Co-Management/Gainsharing Arrangements that have difficult metrics; valuation challenges; forced participation of physicians due to political pressure from the hospital.
• Joint Ventures with impossible “deliverables” like no employed physician participation; no support for community efforts; forcing long term leases with the hospital not favorable for the Joint venture; or forcing 51% ownership, with no real contract expectation of better reimbursement.

Physician Compensation: Hot Topics, Trends, and Traps

The numerous and sometimes confusing maze of regulations that govern physician compensation can be a source of frustration, particularly when structuring payment arrangements. Our subject matter experts will discuss current trends involving physician compensation, including recent and expected enforcement actions with respect to FMV and commercial reasonableness, proper use of survey data and survey data traps, perspective on valuation and commercial reasonableness, and the evolution of value-based payments.

Minimizing Payment Disputes – Contracting and Conflict Resolution Strategies

Out of network billing and payor payment requirements are having a significant impact on whether and how much a provider receives in reimbursement for services. Even with the transition to more value-based care, cost pressures in the healthcare industry are contributing to an increased number of disputes for under/over-payments. Regulatory requirements, contract terms, and the dispute resolution process can all impact payment. This session will cover key payment related terms that should be negotiated, methodologies for calculating underpayment damages, and how to ensure the dispute resolution process is fair to the provider.

Grab a Seat at the Table:
Strategic Planning and Tools for Physicians and Group Practices

Physicians can’t afford to ‘do nothing’ while others in the marketplace secure a seat at the table where healthcare dollars are being split. The rapid increase in physician and medical group transaction activity over the past several years – with hospital systems, larger medical groups, or private equity – is expected to continue and has been deeply attuned with the onset of COVID-19. Our panel will discuss pros and cons and factors to consider so “best fit” decisions can be made, as well as strategies to achieve the provider’s goals. Several types of common physician transitions will be examined, including traditional employment models and opportunities presented by newer value-based considerations.

Is a Bad Yelp Rating Making You Yelp?
Management and Response to Patient Online Posts

The Internet provides a largely unfiltered platform for patients to air their grievances to the world. A patient may identify nurses and physicians by name and even post details about their own perceived medical care across various social media platforms. But how can a physician respond to protect their reputation and dispute allegations under the restrictions of HIPAA? Using Chicago Medical Society (CMS) guidelines for responding to patient grievances, this session will provide participants with the opportunity to formulate appropriate online responses while complying with HIPAA protections.

Safety and Medical Legal Liability Risks Resulting from EHR’s
The rapid expansion of information technology in healthcare was expected to improve the quality, safety and efficiency of the industry. Despite initial concerns, rapid deployment continued, and progressive use of electronic health records and other information technology has resulted in a substantial level of harmful events and a surge of medical legal claims.

Our speakers will review the safety issues from EHR's that have been identified, as well as describe methods and strategies for preventing or mitigating those risks. These activities, among others, will be critical in preventing not only poor outcomes, but minimizing malpractice liabilities.
