

Email from Dean Nell Newton, August 9:

Dear Barry,

My name is on the list of signers of the letter forwarded to you by Jennifer Mnookin, but I wanted to write further and say that Risa Goluboff's letter also captures some of my concerns. I also agree with her that if the Council reverses this recent change that it go back to the form used prior to the changes in 2015 that caused so much confusion.

I simply cannot see why law school efforts to create jobs paying $40,000 or above for students to work in the public interest should be regarded as disingenuous efforts to "game" the US News ranking. These positions often launch inspiring public service careers and should be nurtured. I am proud of the long-term careers fostered by our small fellowship program.
