AALL Salary Survey

ALL has conducted and published the AALL Biennial Salary Survey & Organizational Characteristics (also known as the AALL Salary Survey) since 1993 to provide comprehensive salary information for legal information professionals working in academic, firm/corporate, and government law libraries. It is the only resource of its kind for the profession and is designed to support budgeting endeavors and salary negotiations.

The AALL Salary Survey provides salary and benefits data for over 20 law library positions segmented by many different characteristics—including location, number of people supervised, education, and years of experience. Additional details specific to each library type are also provided.

The 2019 edition will be published on November 12, 2019. As in previous years, digital access will be free to all members. Print copies may be purchased online.

2020 AALL Annual Meeting and Conference

AALL 2020 Annual Meeting and Conference will be held in New Orleans, July 11-14, 2020. The theme for the Conference is “Unmasking Our Potential”. Registration for the conference is scheduled to open in February 2020. The keynote speaker is Jim Kwik, a learning expert.

The AALL Annual Meeting Program Committee will meet on November 15 and 16 to finalize the education programs for the Conference.
Professional Development

AALL held the Competitive Intelligence Foundations program on October 18 in Chicago. This program is designed to prepare professionals to establish and maintain a competitive intelligence function in their law library. Attendees learned how to construct a competitive intelligence function, create processes and learn effective analysis frameworks to establish a competitive intelligence function in their organization.

On March 27-28, 2020, AALL will be holding a Leadership Academy. The Academy is an intensive learning experience designed to prepare law librarians with core leadership skills, strategies to handle leadership challenges and tools to grow as an effective leader.

In May 2020, AALL will hold the Competitive Intelligence Strategies and Analysis program will be held in Chicago.

Law Librarianship as a Career

AALL is working on raising awareness of law librarianship as a career. AALL President appointed a Special Committee to work on this.

AALL sent out a survey asking the Law Library Directors and hiring managers about trends in hiring legal information professionals and the availability of quality candidates. The survey will close on November 22.
