WEDNESDAY, MAY 6

Getting to Yes, Ethically
1:30 PM – 2:30 PM
Ethics CLE

Thank your lucky stars when resolving a case involves one plaintiff and one defendant having to agree only on how much money will change hands. But even in those seemingly manageable circumstances, an ethical pitfall may lie around the very next corner. Our expert panel will discuss the strategic and ethical challenges associated with negotiating the settlement of both simple and complex cases, providing participants with a roadmap for getting to yes while staying in bounds.

Moderator: Lindsay D. Breedlove, Pepper Hamilton LLP, Philadelphia, PA

Speakers: Sally J. Abrahamson, Outten & Golden LLP, Washington, D.C.; Elizabeth C. Burch, University of Georgia School of Law, Athens, GA; Donald R. Frederico, Pierce Atwood LLP, Boston, MA; Hon. Louise A. LaMothe, U.S. District Court for the Central District of California, Santa Barbara, CA

Mythbusters: Women Lawyers and the Law
1:30 PM – 2:30 PM
General CLE

Women lawyers are not advancing to leadership positions in law firms. Women are not good at developing business. Women are not advancing because of their family responsibilities. Flexible schedules are career-enders. These are some of the most common assumptions about women in the profession. How do these statements and others stack up to the research? In this interactive discussion, leaders in legal profession will put those myths to the test.

Moderator: Paula W. Hinton, Winston & Strawn LLP, Houston, TX

Speakers: Linda B. Chanow, The Institute for Inclusion in the Legal Profession, Austin, TX; George D. Medlock, Jr., Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP, Birmingham, AL; Natasha Newberry, LexisNexis, Dayton, OH

Emerging Trends in Insurance Coverage: What Companies Need to Know
1:30 PM – 2:30 PM
General CLE

The traditional role of in-house counsel has changed in recent years. With expanded regulation, increased scrutiny, and more internal reliance on employed attorneys, in-house lawyers’ exposure to malpractice is more theoretical. The increase in the number of shareholder actions and government prosecutions against companies has heightened the potential liability of in-house counsel as they become more involved in investigations and civil and criminal litigation against the company. Balancing an attorney-client relationship with public accountability and statutory regulations has become increasingly difficult. This program will discuss ways for in-house counsel to mitigate risk and identify insurance products that expressly afford protection, including employed lawyers professional liability.

Moderator: Latosha M. Ellis, Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP, Washington, D.C.

Speakers: Tim Monahan, Lockton Companies, Washington, D.C.; Lindsay Lankford Rollins, Hancock Daniel & Johnson PC, Richmond, VA; Brandon R. Story, James River Insurance Company, Richmond, VA

2020 Vision: Taking a Look at Hot Topics and Current Trends in Cybersecurity
1:30 PM – 2:30 PM
General CLE

The year 2019 brought the expansion of phishing to social media and other non-email formats, increased emphasis on data privacy enforcement, and fraud through mobile applications. Panelists will discuss the current trends and hot topics and look forward to what the future may hold for cybersecurity.

Moderator: Danielle M. Panetta, Goodwin Procter LLP, Boston, MA

Speakers: Jay Doyle, Ankura, Washington, D.C.; Tara Swaminatha, Executive Cyber Law LLC, Washington, D.C.; Grace Wen, O’Prey Wen LLP, New York, NY
Stressed, Depressed and Burned Out: Understanding and Helping a Colleague in Need
2:45 PM – 3:45 PM
Wellness CLE

Recent studies have confirmed that the overwhelming stress that is commonplace in our legal profession disproportionately results in attorneys suffering higher levels of depression, anxiety, addiction and other serious issues compared to the general population. Participants will learn why attorneys are a vulnerable population; common mental health issues faced by colleagues, and the signs and symptoms of those issues; and what to do when you identify a colleague in need.

Moderator: Ruth A. Bahe-Jachna, Greenberg Traurig LLP, Chicago, IL
Speaker: Diana Uchiyama, Lawyers’ Assistance Program Inc., Chicago, IL

General Counsel Forum: What’s Keeping In-House Counsel Up at Night
2:45 PM – 3:45 PM
General CLE

Our cross-industry panel of experienced general counsel will share their perspectives on developments and challenges currently facing in-house legal departments, as well as candid commentary about what it takes for outside counsel to build sustainable client relationships in today’s evolving legal and business landscape.

Moderator: Beth L. Kaufman, Schoeman Updike Kaufman & Gerber LLP, New York, NY

Guarding the Crown Jewels: How to Use Intellectual Property, Technology, and Data to Safeguard Valuable Trade Secrets
2:45 PM – 3:45 PM
General CLE

This program explores using litigation to protect IP and protecting IP in litigation, with a focus on trade secrets. The panel will discuss recent developments in trade secret law, registered IP rights, and emerging technologies that can be used to safeguard the core technology for businesses and entrepreneurs. Panelists will also address prelitigation and litigation strategies with an emphasis on what has, or has not, worked, using case studies and recent case law.

Moderator: Ronald T. Coleman, Parker Hudson Rainer & Dobbs LLP, Atlanta, GA

Voting Rights: The Arc of History and Modern Challenges
2:45 PM – 3:45 PM
General CLE

What was the battle for suffrage really about and did it succeed? If the right to vote does not equal access to the vote, what can history teach us about our approach to these rights as a nation? Has anything changed or are we fighting the same fights? Join a historian, a political scientist, and voting rights advocates from both sides of the issue as they explore these questions and more.

Moderator: Michal D. Rogson, Tokio Marine HCC Surety Group, Los Angeles, CA
Speakers: Stephen D. Ansolabehere, Harvard Law School, Boston, MA; Dale Ho, American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), New York, NY; Pippa Holloway, Middle Tennessee State University, Murfreesboro, TN

Representing “We the People”: The Role of Lawyers in U.S. the Government | From our founding days to the present, lawyers have always played an essential role in the U.S. government. This panel of well-known and experienced experts will examine the functions attorneys perform in our government and discuss different approaches that have been used throughout the years. They will focus on the roles of the attorney general, solicitor general, special counsel, independent counsel, the Department of Justice, and counsel within various agencies and how lawyers affect how the U.S. government performs. |

Othering or Smothering? Navigating the Space Between Thoughtfulness and Thought Police in Diversity and Inclusion Practices

1:30 PM – 2:30 PM

Elimination of Bias CLE

Minority groups are becoming increasingly outspoken about the nuanced ways in which they are “othered” in our current culture, and numerous efforts are being made to achieve greater inclusion, including the creation of affinity groups in companies and law firms. However, some efforts have resulted in backlash, including allegations of oversensitivity, special treatment, and fear of speaking for fear of offending. Can attempts at “inclusion” result in even more division? Do affinity groups result in greater inclusion, or greater “othering”? This panel will explore how to navigate these challenges while creating real opportunities and a healthy environment for inclusion.

Moderator: Sandra S. Yamate, Institute for Inclusion in the Legal Profession (IILP), Chicago, IL
Speaker: Shannon Price Minter, National Center for Lesbian Rights (NCLR), San Francisco, CA

What’s Trending Now: Social Media Ethics and Litigation

2:45 PM – 3:45 PM

Ethics CLE

Staying current on social media in the law requires more than updating your LinkedIn page. In this program you will hear from bar regulators, litigators, and technology providers on significant developments in statutes, case law, and ethical rules addressing what lawyers can, should, and must do when using social media in litigation, including investigating opposing parties, preserving and gathering evidence, and getting social media admitted at trial.

Moderator: Richard G. Douglass, Novack and Macey LLP, Chicago, IL
Speakers: Paula Frederick, State Bar of Georgia, Atlanta, GA; Julie Lewis, Digital Mountain, Santa Clara, CA; Lauren Schwartzreich, Littler Mendelson PC, New York, NY

Class Actions Winners and Losers after CAFA, and the Supreme Court’s Recent Activism

2:45 PM – 3:45 PM

General CLE

The Class Action Fairness Act (CAFA) was billed as a way to improve class actions for class members and defendants. Fifteen years later, what has CAFA done to class action practice? Who are the winners and losers? Our panelists will debate this and address the current hot topics on the class action landscape, including class action waivers and personal jurisdiction.

Moderators: M. Jerome Elmore, Bondurant Mixson & Elmore LLP, Atlanta, GA; Jocelyn D. Larken, Impact Fund, Berkeley, CA
Speakers: Kristine McAlister Brown, Alston & Bird LLP, Atlanta, GA; Brian T. Fitzpatrick, Vanderbilt University Law School, Nashville, TN; Kalpana Kotagal, Cohen Milstein Sellers & Toll PLLC; Washington, D.C.

Avoiding Regulatory and Other Legal Pitfalls in Cross-Border Litigation

2:45 PM – 3:45 PM

General CLE

Cross-border litigation occurs within a global business landscape regulated in a variety of ways. There are many traps for the wary. This panel will discuss how this legal and regulatory overlay — including sanctions, anti-corruption legislation, tax law, currency controls, import and export controls, and others — can affect your cross-border litigation.

Moderator: Harout J. Samra, DLA Piper LLP, Miami, FL
Investigating #MeToo Complaints

2:45 PM – 3:45 PM
General CLE

This program will provide guidance on conducting and defending against investigations of #MeToo issues, including claims of discrimination and hostile work environment. It will also address privacy concerns in these investigations and the use of novel technology, such as AI, chatbots, and sentiment analysis. For years, employers have used technology to identify inappropriate workplace conduct, monitoring employees’ work emails and messaging tools for offensive language, non-work-related attachments, and indications that employees may be misappropriating trade secrets or proprietary information.

In the #MeToo era with an increased focus on full investigations, can artificial intelligence provide a new way to address allegations of sexual harassment and discrimination in the workplace?

Moderator: Amy M. Stewart, Stewart Law Group PLLC, Dallas, TX
Speakers: Tess Blair, Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP, Philadelphia, PA; Harris M. Mufson, Proskauer Rose LLP, New York, NY

Luddite Litigators Tackle Technology: What Could Go Wrong?

4:00 PM – 5:00 PM
General CLE

Oh, for the good old days, when documents came only in paper and email form. What do you do when you learn that your client communicates on platforms like WhatsApp and Slack? How can you get comfortable that predictive coding is working as it should in discovery? How do you get nonstandard documents and social media admitted into evidence? And what about data privacy concerns? Match wits with this panel of highly experienced lawyers and jurists in a series of interactive hypotheticals about emerging technologies in discovery and trial, to spark discussion about this rapidly evolving area and help you reduce your own risk and exposure.

Moderator: Nicole M. Reid, Reid Legal Solutions PA, Mount Dora, FL
Speakers: Mark Clews, Ankura, Irvine, CA; Angela Foster, Law Office of Angela Foster, North Brunswick, NJ; Hon. Paul W. Grimm, U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland, Greenbelt, MD; Michelle Six, Kirkland & Ellis LLP, New York, NY

Experts 101: What Every Young Lawyer Needs to Know About Working with an Expert Witness

4:00 PM – 5:00 PM
General CLE

Have you been tasked to secure an expert to effectively support your case, only to realize that you don’t know the first step in locating and choosing the best one? This interactive program provides a primer for young lawyers on the best practices for engaging and working with an expert witness.

The program will leverage the knowledge and experience of practicing lawyers and expert witnesses who will share what every young lawyer needs to know, including: the process of selecting/obtaining experts; tips for managing and maintaining an effective lawyer/expert relationship; and what to know about defending your expert’s deposition and deposing your adversary’s expert.

Moderator: Andrew D. Atkins, Troutman Sanders LLP, Charlotte, NC
Speakers: Ava E. Lias-Booker, McGuireWoods LLP, Baltimore, MD; David Moes, Ankura, Chicago, IL; Jennifer B. Routh, McDermott Will & Emery LLP, Washington, D.C.

| Avoiding Ethical Pitfalls in Working with Witnesses              | 10:45 AM – 11:45 AM | The program will focus on ethical issues that can arise when working with witnesses in litigation matters. Panelists will provide guidance on topics such as compensating fact witnesses, contacting unrepresented witnesses in the course of investigation and litigation, conferring with a witness during breaks in deposition testimony, and accessing information available on a witness’s social media accounts. | Moderator: Michael J. Bentley, Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP, Jackson, MS
Speakers: Kathleen B. Havener, The Cullen Law Firm PLLC, Washington, D.C.; Jeanne M. Huey, Hunt Huey PLLC, Dallas, TX |
| Jury Selection: Finding the “Good” and Avoiding the “Bad”         | 10:45 AM – 11:45 AM | Jury selection can determine the outcome of a trial. In this presentation, lawyers for opposing parties will conduct a live voir dire of potential jurors. You’ll learn best practices for working with jury consultants to identify jurors who are “good” for your clients and the “bad” ones to avoid. | Moderator: Bradford S. Babbitt, Robinson & Cole LLP, Hartford, CT
Speakers: Rachel York Colangelo, Magna Legal Services, Washington, D.C.; Leslie Ellis, DecisionQuest, Washington, D.C.; Melissa S. Ho, Polsinelli PC, Phoenix, AZ; Ali Razzaghi, Frost Brown Todd LLC, Cincinnati, OH |
| How Mass Tort Litigation and Government Enforcement Actions Fit Into Efforts to Address Public Health Issues | 10:45 AM – 11:45 AM | Mass tort litigation and governmental enforcement actions are increasingly used as tools to address broader public health concerns. For example, in the context of efforts to address the opioid epidemic, state attorneys general and district and other municipal attorneys have taken aim at pharmaceutical companies, focusing on how they marketed the drugs, while state and federal law enforcement agencies have dramatically increased their use of civil and criminal enforcement tools against not only pharmaceutical companies, but also health care providers, health systems and pharmacies.
Using the response to the opioid crisis as a model, a distinguished panel, including representatives of state and federal agencies and both the plaintiffs’ bar and defense bar, will share their perspectives on the theories of liability, defenses, and policy concerns implicated in efforts to combat public health issues through litigation related to the production and use of manufactured products. | Moderator: Sean O. Bosack, Godfrey & Kahn SC, Milwaukee, WI
Speakers: Mark S. Cheffo, Dechert LLP, New York, NY; Gillian R. Feiner, Office of the Massachusetts Attorney General, Boston, MA; John P. Kacavas, Dartmouth-Hitchcock, Hanover, NH; Peter H. Weinberger, Spangenberg Shibley & Liber LLP, Cleveland, OH |
The American Dream Is on Trial: 2020 Approaches to Income Inequality
10:45 AM – 11:45 AM
General CLE

No presidential candidate can ignore the widening wealth gap in America. Economic inequality has taken center stage, and income anxiety fuels each political party’s base. Voters want to be assured that they still can achieve the American Dream, regardless of socioeconomic class.

Lawyers are also taking up this call for economic justice. Several class action suits have challenged excessive court fines and fees, the privatization of bail bonds, and other measures that criminalize poverty. Minimum wage enforcement has increased. Struggling student loan borrowers have banded together to sue their loan providers and loan forgiveness programs. Lawyers within the federal government have reportedly considered antitrust enforcement action against the major technology companies to break up this country’s concentrated wealth.

Our esteemed panelists will discuss current impact litigation and policy proposals aimed at dismantling economic disparities, as well as racial and gender wealth gaps, in the United States. And, with an eye toward November 2020, panelists will deliberate about the best political approaches to achieving income equality.

Moderator: Arnie Seipel, National Public Radio (NPR), Washington D.C.

National Security Showdown
1:30 PM – 3:00 PM
General CLE

Come learn from four nationally recognized trial lawyers as they showcase their talents in a mock criminal prosecution involving the publication of classified information implicating national security interests. Our presiding judge will begin by delivering a condensed set of facts that will tee up two legal issues for closing arguments. After our two-person teams make their arguments, the jury will vote, and our esteemed moderator will lead a debrief with the advocates and jurors.

Moderator: George Freeman, Media Law Resource Center, New York, NY
