As proposed, the definition of "solicitation" may be seen as prohibiting invitations to join a class action lawsuit. Is that the intention? If not, consider including a comment to the definition of "solicitation" to make it clear that invitations to join a class action lawsuit are not prohibited or, if they are intended to be prohibited under some circumstances, guidance on when such invitations are permitted and prohibited.

Micalyn S. Harris