THE FORUM ON THE ENTERTAINMENT AND SPORTS INDUSTRIES (ES) of the American Bar Association publishes Entertainment and Sports Lawyer (E&SL) on a quarterly basis. The publication reaches more than 5,000 leading attorneys, agents and corporate executives working in the entertainment and sports industries worldwide. Each issue comprises approximately 40-50 pages of text, articles, and reviews.

STYLE ES prefers that authors use a writing style that is accessible, highly readable, journalistic in tone for both its law review-style, and other features. Formal citations are not required for every article. When included, they should appear as endnotes (not footnotes) and should follow the Harvard Bluebook format. Endnotes should be limited to accurate citations and occasional brief textual comments.

LENGTH The format is very flexible and can accommodate articles from ten pages with a maximum of 50 pages.

EDITING If an article is accepted for publication, the ES staff will edit it. The staff reserve the right to make deletions to conform to space limitations. The edited version of the article may be sent to the author for review, however because of print and distribution deadlines, late editorial changes to articles are proscribed. Authors will not see typeset proofs. Please note, most changes following a final submission are the result of copyediting for spelling, grammar and punctuation, and every effort is made to clear any last-minute substantive changes with the author should these be made by the staff.

COPYRIGHT Authors will be asked to sign a Copyright Agreement granting to the ABA the exclusive right of first publication, the nonexclusive right to reprint, and the right to use the work in other ABA publications or media.
