Dear Colleague,

Welcome to Washington, DC, and thank you for attending the ABA Business Law Section Annual Meeting! We are delighted to return to this beautiful and multicultural city with its vibrant business community. Our Washington, DC Host Committee and the Section’s Committees and Subcommittees, program chairs, leaders and staff have worked hard to create a robust agenda arranged to help you network, learn, and enjoy the location.

To maximize your Annual Meeting experience, I recommend you:

Download the Annual Meeting App.
To access our meeting app, visit https://crowd.cc/blsannual19. Use the app to find the most up-to-date schedule and create customized notifications for CLE programs, committee and subcommittee meetings, and social events.

Attend CLE Programs and Committee Meetings.
Choose from over 80 CLE programs prepared and presented by thought leaders in all areas of business law. Enjoy substantive sessions, including hundreds of committee and subcommittee meetings, keeping you informed on emerging trends in your practice area.

Mingle at Networking Events.
There are many opportunities to network with business law professionals from around the globe. Each night of the meeting features exciting events including Wednesday’s Diversity Networking Reception; Thursday’s Icebreaker Reception, Welcome Reception, and committee dinners; and Friday’s Section Dinner. To purchase an event ticket on site, please visit the Meeting Registration area in the Section Lounge.

Peruse the Washington, DC Favorites Guide.
Be sure to review the Washington, DC Host Committee’s “Washington, DC Favorites Guide” (available at Meeting Registration in the Section Lounge) to find just the right place to grab a quick lunch or dinner and the special places to see and things to do while you are in Washington, DC.

Thank you to our Washington, DC Host Committee, Section members and numerous meeting sponsors for making this meeting possible. If you are not a member of the Section, please visit the Section’s website https://www.americanbar.org/groups/business_law/ to join the Section and our committees and take advantage of the knowledge, community and experience we offer.

I hope you enjoy the many benefits available at the ABA Business Law Section Annual Meeting and your time in lovely Washington, DC!

Sincerely,

Vicki O. Tucker

Moderator
Aki Estrella; Principal; Stella Legal Group; Chicago, IL
Speakers
Steve Lauer; Lauer & Associates; Matthews, NC
Saul Singer; Senior Ethics Counsel; DC Bar; Washington, DC
Ken Vermillion; Principal; The Vermillion Group; Cleveland, OH

Organizations look to maximize the value it receives from their attorneys - both in-house and external. As lawyers work to meet the demands of the corporate client to provide value, they must also comply with their ethical obligations. This program will provide concrete concepts for how lawyers and their organizational clients may define the value a lawyer provides its client. It will also discuss the lawyer's ethical obligations when working to be innovative with fees and in defining the client relationship. Specifically, panelists will use hypothetical situations to discuss ethical requirements when communicating the value a lawyer brings, when structuring fees, defining the scope of representation, assuring the client has been informed of its risks as well as discussing who is your client when representing an organization.

8:30 AM - 10:00 AM
Program: Understanding and Ensuring Compliance with the Foreign Agents Registration Act (FARA)

Tessa Capeloto; Of Counsel; Wiley Rein LLP; Washington, DC
Alexandra Langton; Associate; Covington & Burling LLP; Washington, DC
Michael Nemeroff; Senior Counsel; Sidley Austin LLP; Washington, DC

This panel will identify activities that may trigger FARA registration and reporting beyond representation of foreign governments, as well as applicable exemptions that impact the business lawyer and their clients; address DOJ interpretation of FARA and recent enforcement trends for FARA violations, as practice tips for the business lawyer; and will include best practices for the business lawyer to implement to avoid FARA violations and ensure compliance.

9:00 AM - 10:00 AM
Program: Board Responsibilities in Cybersecurity - The View from the SEC
Salon 2, M2
Presented by: Cyberspace Law
Program Chair
William R. Denny; Partner; Potter Anderson & Corroon LLP; Wilmington, DE
Moderator
Cheryl M. Burtzel; Partner; Duggins, Wren, Mann &
Corporate boards are increasingly coming under scrutiny as to how they oversee management of cybersecurity risk and communicate those risks to stockholders. In 2018, the SEC provided interpretive guidance regarding how a company should approach its cybersecurity disclosure obligations and manage its cybersecurity risk management program. The speakers on this panel will discuss how companies are implementing that SEC guidance and the SEC’s perspective on enforcement, as well as how state law fiduciary duties and FTC enforcement actions are shaping corporate board oversight of cybersecurity risk management.

10:00 AM - 11:30 AM
PROFESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY COMMITTEE MEETING
Agreements among employers to refrain from soliciting or hiring each other’s employees (“no-poach” agreements) and other employee non-compete agreements have come under increased scrutiny by federal and state antitrust regulators and members of Congress. The various regulators have, to some extent, taken different positions, and the courts have yet to provide clear rules of the road for employers. This panel will outline several not-so-hypothetical scenarios and discuss practical guidance for employers in this uncertain legal environment.

Even attorneys experienced in financing of sophisticated business enterprises may not realize the particular rules and regulations that attach to financing casinos and other gaming operations. For example, state-specific licensing and other gaming regulations apply to commercial casinos, while federal and tribal laws and regulations apply to Indian casinos. This program will cover financing of gaming operations, from the start of the project to the worst-case scenario: issues related to financing and development, as well as restructuring and bankruptcy, for both commercial and tribal casinos.

Section 220 of the Delaware General Corporation Law entitles a stockholder with a proper purpose to inspect corporate books and records “necessary and essential” to achieving that purpose. Historically, board minutes, resolutions and similar documents were sufficient for Section 220 inspections. However, as advancing technology has resulted not only in new forms of electronic records and communications, such as emails and text messages, but the pervasive and ubiquitous use thereof, the Delaware courts have had to address whether these forms of electronic information constitute corporate books and records subject to inspection under Section 220. This panel will discuss the recent case law in the area of books and records inspections and provide practice tips for transactional counsel and litigators from board minute-taking, to corporate record-keeping, to making and responding to Section 220 demands, and to litigating Section 220 actions.

PROGRAM: REGULATING BIG TECH - THE CURRENT STATE OF FINANCIAL SERVICES DISRUPTION
Big Tech has been disrupting the financial services market for years and there is every reason to believe that this trend will continue. And while the recent digital credit offering from Apple and MasterCard may be getting all of today’s headlines, Amazon announced last year that it had quietly made over one billion dollars in small business loans. What is the current state of the evolution of financial services and how does the regulatory and supervisory framework apply?

Since the global financial crisis, there has been a rise in risk management functions in financial institutions. This panel will explore whether this growth has negatively impacted the role of in-house counsel. And more particularly whether compliance risk, traditionally managed by lawyers, should be managed by risk professionals.

The new EU Copyright Directive presents compliance challenges, including controversial rules in Articles 15 and 17 requiring websites to restrict copyright materials as a condition for immunity from infringement liability. This program covers implications of the Directive, including comparisons to US law involving fair use and section 230 immunity.

A number of reports have recently been approved or are pending, including TriBar reports on opinions involving limited partnerships and LLCs) California reports on UCC and LLC opinions, and reports from Virginia, Washington State, and Florida. The panel will distill what’s new, what’s novel and what’s in flux. Guidance on opinions covering non-corporate entities in particular has been expanded in important ways, and in some cases that thinking has led to refinements on practice with respect to opinions covering corporations. In addition, the debate continues on whether the established practice of one party’s lawyers giving enforceability opinions to the other party as a closing condition still serves the interests of all parties involved in light of the continuing proliferation of exceptions, qualifications and assumptions as the law and opinion practice evolve.

"Cross-Border Financing of Fintech Start-ups: A Practical Look at Venture Debt and Venture Equity Financing Practices in the U.S. and Europe" Venture debt has emerged as a novel debt financing instrument for the financing needs of early and growth-stage venture-backed start-ups in the Fintech sector. Often used as a complement to, rather than a substitute for, traditional equity-based venture capital financing instruments, the growing field of venture debt poses unique opportunities and challenges for start-ups, investors and their counsel. Using the Fintech sector as a case study, this panel will provide a practical overview of the venture debt landscape in the U.S. and Europe, and will include a discussion of (1) advantages and disadvantages of venture debt as compared to traditional venture equity financing from the start-up and investor perspectives, (2) venture debt structures, including a discussion of board rights, material adverse change ("MAC") provisions and warrants, and (3) legal issues surrounding the enforcement of venture debt-based guarantees in the U.S. and Europe.

Launching a new company is a tremendous challenge. Unfortunately, many companies cross that threshold, but too many defer acting on ethics and compliance issues thinking they will address compliance issues once they grow and are more stable. This approach exposes the emerging company to compliance failures that may cripple a company as a result of government investigations, prosecutions or civil lawsuits. This program will provide practical guidance lawyers can use to develop a compliance and ethics program responsive to the needs of a start-up.

Cross-border private equity investment in the financial services technology ("Fintech") sector has increased to exponential levels in recent years. In 2018, for example, nearly half of the largest Fintech transactions were leveraged buyouts, and the trend is expected to continue. This panel will provide U.S. and international private equity attorneys with an overview of cutting-edge legal and financial issues that arise in the cross-border private equity Fintech transactional context. Leading legal and financial practitioners from the U.S. and abroad will discuss transactional due diligence and regulatory issues that affect growth equity and leveraged buyout transactions in the Fintech sector, as well as obstacles that can affect these transactions in a cross-border setting.

Increasingly, corporations are seeking diversity and inclusion in their selection of outside counsel. In 1999, Charles Morgan, then general counsel of BellSouth Corporation, authored Diversity in the Workplace—A Statement of Principle, wherein corporate signatories communicated an expectation that outside law firms promote diversity in their workplaces. Eventually the number of signatories to the Statement exceeded 500. Years later, dissatisfied with the lack of progress, Roderick Palmore, then general counsel of Sara Lee Corporation, authored A Call to Action - Diversity in the Legal Profession, in which Chief Legal Officers reaffirm their commitment to diversity. Industry leaders will provide an overview of the current state of diversity in the legal profession. This session will discuss the importance of collaboration to advance diversity and inclusion in the legal profession; benchmarks to measure success; and best practices for the recruitment, retention and advancement of women and diverse attorneys.

As laws, regulations and standards that define the requirements for a corporate social responsibility program continue to evolve, along with both customer and investor expectations that organizations will be responsible citizens, it is vital that an organization consider developing a corporate social responsibility program. This program will provide an overview of corporate social responsibility legal and regulatory requirements. And it will provide practical approaches for in-house and law firm lawyers to work with clients to develop a corporate social responsibility program designed to mitigate the risk of civil and criminal liability; reputational damage; consumer boycotts; investor law suits; and to enhance employee, customer, and business partner loyalty.

While cannabis is legal for medical and/or recreational use in over 33 states plus the District of Columbia, marijuana sales remain illegal under federal law, thus creating legal risks not only for cannabis growers, cultivators, processors and dispensers but also for companies doing business with them. This program includes practitioners from various disciplines, including a former banking regulator, to discuss the issues that need to be addressed when counseling clients about working with cannabis companies. Such companies include any level of service providers including landlords, bankers, insurance companies, power suppliers, greenhouse materials, delivery services and software companies. While many clients want to get involved in this fast growing industry, they need to be aware of the risks.

A Case Study / Mock-Dispute Resolution. Disputes between business owners can be very emotional and contentious. Furthermore, these cases often involve complicated issues of corporate governance and fiduciary duties, plus breach of contract claims. However, commonly a shared interest exists in maintaining the value of the company. Therefore, ownership disputes can be a good place to consider the potential benefits of mediation and arbitration, inside and outside of court litigation. The panel discussion will focus on: i. How to smartly select and use the forms (or a combination of forms) of dispute resolution to make the difficult disputes resolvable? ii. What are good practices by mediators, arbitrators and judges who handle recalcitrant, emotionally charged and contentious situations in business owners’ disputes to manage them towards resolution? iii. How to achieve this while maintaining the value of the company and avoiding decimating the resources and future of the business at issue? What if the subject company is in financial distress?
