Dear Colleagues:

The Forum is pleased to invite you to the 2018 Annual Meeting in New Orleans—a city that needs no introduction. With the backdrop of the French Quarter Festival, and the excellent food and music that it offers, this program offers valuable insight on a variety of business-focused topics tailored to the construction industry. It is based on the popular “mini-MBA” model, through which participants will learn about the fundamentals of business and how they impact the practice of construction law.

Our distinguished slate of speakers includes construction attorneys, in-house counsel, consultants, and law professors, each offering a unique perspective on business-oriented matters. Topics that will be addressed include economics, risk management, business structures, creditor rights, ethical challenges, accounting, cybersecurity, electronic discovery, international law, post-accident management, succession planning, updates to industry forms, partnering and teaming, and managing HR challenges and crises. The information offered in these sessions will aid practitioners—whether in-house or outside counsel—in better understanding their clients’ interests and needs, leading to better counseling and advocacy. This business focus is unique for the Forum, and will provide attendees with a solid foundation on topics of regular interest to companies involved in construction.

Practical and informative sessions are simply the start of what this program has to offer. With The Roosevelt as the host hotel, the program takes place in the heart of New Orleans, steps away from the action. In addition to the typical attractions and entertainment that New Orleans has to offer, the program takes place in the days leading up to the renowned French Quarter Festival. The Festival, which extends over four days starting on April 12th, celebrates New Orleans food, music, and people. 2018 marks the 35th anniversary of the Festival, the largest free music festival in the South, showcasing local music from every genre. Attendees are encouraged to extend their stay through the weekend to enjoy the camaraderie. Of course, New Orleans offers other world-class attractions as well, including the National WWII Museum and Audubon Aquarium of the Americas. In summary, there are plenty of activities that attendees, guests, and families are sure to enjoy.

We are excited to offer an outstanding program with an important optional focus, coupled with a destination that is simply unrivaled for culture, food, and fun. Please join us for what is certain to be a fantastic and informative meeting and connect with Forum friends, both old and new.

<td>Advocacy Practicum&lt;br&gt;Handling delay claims can be one of the most confounding topics for construction litigators. During the practicum, experienced faculty will review the issues and strategy for handling delay claims from analyzing your client’s claims of delay, to putting together a case that will convince your fact finder. The practicum will provide those new to construction law with the tools needed to understand delay claims and provide an opportunity to learn from faculty with substantial trial experience in schedule delay claims as counsel, expert, and arbitrator. Attendees will get insight from watching faculty try a delay fact pattern, and get the opportunity to practice using a simple fact pattern. Separate Registration Fee: $75 per person&lt;br&gt;Moderator: Kelsey Kornick Funes, Phelps Dunbar, L.L.P.&lt;br&gt;Robert M. Program Schedule (Thursday, April 12 continued)

8:45 am – 10:15 am  PLENARY 101

Know Something that Nobody Else Knows – The Economics of Construction

Serving a construction client means knowing more than just the law. Stand-out construction attorneys understand the business of construction. Led by a team of industry executives, this plenary kicks off the Forum’s mini-MBA program with a thorough discussion of current construction-industry trends, including determinants of investment, strategic planning, competition, and considerations for engaging outside counsel. This session will also explore the economic relationships among and differences between the various participants on construction projects, including the key economic forces driving owners, architects, engineers, contractors, subcontractors and suppliers.

Moderator: Brian R. Zimmerman, Hurtado Zimmerman, S.C.
Katy B. Corrigan, McCarthy Building Companies
Harold G. Dorbin, Navigant Consulting
Karen P. Layng, Scheck Industries
Stan Simmons, Lyles Construction

10:15 am – 10:30 am  Networking Break

10:30 am – 11:30 am  PLENARY 102

Risk Management from the Inside

Risk comes in many forms—some familiar, others less so. It may arise in the context of overall operations, on a project-specific basis, or in the marketplace. Risk cannot be effectively managed unless it can be identified and then: avoided, allocated, transferred, mitigated, retained and priced, or insured. But what about emerging risks and enterprise-level risks that are more challenging to identify and quantify? How are those risks best managed? Drawing from their practical experiences in our diverse industry, the session’s panelists will discuss risks that may be encountered in the construction industry, and how they can be addressed through traditional risk management techniques and Enterprise Risk Management.

Understood Your Client’s Corporate and Project Structure
No unexcused absences allowed! This plenary will explore a company’s organizational structure, including job roles – marketing, purchasing, HR, finance, preconstruction and operations – and reporting as well as the interrelationships of these roles. From there, this team of professional “professors” will share their inside knowledge of how project management is used to achieve each set of unique project objectives using a combination of technology and institutional resources. With this framework in mind, these panelists will give the audience a peek behind the curtain to the legal issues their companies face on a daily basis and how outside counsel can best position themselves to deliver value.

Are You a Secured Creditor? – An Inside Look at How Clients Can Better Prepare Themselves for the Inevitable
School is back in session with this primer on how construction project participants and their attorneys can address issues that arise when one or more other participants goes bankrupt or a project becomes entangled in a bankruptcy proceeding. The filing of a bankruptcy by a project participant can have a calamitous effect on the project and fundamentally impact both the contractual and statutory rights of owners, contractors, subcontractors, material suppliers, and their insurers and sureties. This session will address the rights of these parties in a bankruptcy proceeding, how to protect those rights, and what remedies may be available to these parties, both under the Bankruptcy Code and otherwise. This plenary will also address proactive steps that parties can take before a bankruptcy is ever filed to protect and insulate themselves from the fallout of a potential bankruptcy filing. Attendees will leave this session with an understanding of key bankruptcy concepts in the context of construction, checklists and deadlines for critical steps in the bankruptcy process, and strategies for minimizing potential losses and disruptions resulting from a bankruptcy filing, either upstream or downstream on the project.

Ethical Dilemmas for Construction Attorneys: Where the Ethical Choice and Legal Standards Diverge

The law cannot be relied upon to resolve every ethical dilemma that a company may face. The ethical practices that may be used by a company may be at odds with what the law permits (or requires). This session will examine the role of both business and legal ethics in the context of operating a construction company, and illustrate when the ethical parameters are aligned and when they diverge, including the distinction and treatment of business and legal conflicts.

The Numbers Game: Construction Finance and Accounting

The language of business is financial accounting, and a working familiarity with it is valuable in both transactional and dispute-focused legal practices. This workshop will provide attendees with an understanding of basic accounting principles, concepts, and terminology relevant to the construction industry, including the interpretation of financial statements and audit reports as they might relate to troublesome claim, cost and billing issues between contracting parties.

| 9:45 am – 10:45 am | WORKSHOP 201B          | Cybersecurity And Best Practices For Lawyers                      | Now that attendees have learned about the business of construction, it’s time for advanced instruction on the business risk that cybersecurity plays for law firms. Does your firm have a Chief Information Security Officer? Have you been trained to spot a scam before it causes a security breach? Do you know what to do when a breach occurs? Clients now demand that their information is being protected, but do you have the skills and technology to help them and meet your ethical responsibilities? Join us as we delve into these issues and discuss the latest scams, malware, and offer proactive advice. | Special Agent Stephen E. Oakes, Federal Bureau of Investigation
Ian T. Ramsey, Stites & Harbison, P.L.L.C. |
| 10:45 am – 11:45 am | WORKSHOP 301A          | Taming the Beast: Avoiding Pitfalls in E-Discovery                | The cost and size of discovery has exploded in the digital age. Combine that with recent updates to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and it’s no wonder attorneys are sometimes left scratching their head on how to handle e-discovery. This session will provide a roadmap to developing an e-discovery plan, preserving litigation holds, issues surrounding self-collection, and how to craft effective search terms. This session will also address how best to handle e-discovery with your client, how to select an e-discovery vendor and implement an E-discovery work plan for the most efficient, yet complete production. | Brianna E. Business Considerations When Forming Construction Teams
If you share the costs and expenses, do you have to share the returns? Construction companies approach a joint venture and other types of teaming agreements from a different perspective, including DBE incentives and increased market share. This workshop will critically examine the pros and cons of participating in various types of teaming agreements as well as key terms to include in any contract. For instance, what is the difference between a JV and a consortium and what are the benefits and drawbacks of each? In addition, our panel members will explain what other partnering/teaming agreements are being used and the ethical obligations of an attorney representing both parties to an agreement.

Lessons Learned in the Trenches from HR Nightmares
HR situations, from routine challenges to full crises, can quickly escalate into legal nightmares with tremendously dire financial or adverse reputational consequences to your clients. In some instances there is a luxury of time to strategize, react and respond, while in others, decisions and communications must be made quickly with often incomplete or partially inaccurate information. Through the panel’s sharing of some dramatic, real-world “war stories,” attendees will be better equipped to practically advise and guide businesses in these situations to help avoid unnecessary and potentially damaging—or even devastating—results.

Special Events

First Time Attendees Reception
Wednesday, 5:30 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.

If you are newcomer to the Forum and all it has to offer, there is no better way to kick off your first Forum experience than a special reception designed to get you wired-in to the Forum and its leadership prior to the start of the educational programming. Meet with Governing Committee members, Division Chairs and connect with a First Time Attendees Liaison, all of whom are ready to welcome you to New Orleans, the Forum Annual Meeting and, of course, the ABA Forum on Construction Law itself! See you there.

Guest and Spouses Breakfast
Thursday, 8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.

Stop by to enjoy breakfast and conversation with Forum guests, spouses and families.
Separate Registration Fee: $30 per person

Women’s Networking Reception
Thursday, 5:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
(Sponsored by The Kenrich Group)

Come to an event where you can meet and network with your fellow female Forum members – women who do what you do and understand the challenges and advantages to being a woman in the field of construction and construction law.

Parade and Welcome Reception
Thursday, 6:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.

When the day is done, and you have absorbed the full first day of Forum programming, close that laptop, put away your smart phone, put on your marching shoes and get ready to strut the streets of New Orleans in a special Forum parade to the House of Blues, where the music will flow, the horns will blow, the streetlights will glow and all in attendance will have the chance to relax and enjoy the company of fellow Forum members and construction colleagues at the Forum’s Welcome Reception. Step in style with your colleagues and then enjoy refreshments and tasty local delights while reconnecting with fellow Forum colleagues and friends at NOLA’s famous House of Blues. It is a perfect way to extend your first day at the Forum Annual Meeting.

Special Events

Thursday Late-Night Event on Bourbon Street
10:00 p.m. to Close
(Sponsored by FTI Consulting)

For all you Forum night-owls, NOLA is not done offering you fun and festivity at the conclusion of your first full day of the Forum Annual Meeting. Just when the day is cooling down, the night temperature will continue to rise. The Forum has reserved Bourbon Heat for late-night revelry in a way only the Crescent City knows how to deliver – complete with balcony overlooking Bourbon Street, dancing and, of course, lots of beads to be thrown. Bourbon Heat on Bourbon Street is the hot spot to top off the night with other Forum late-night revelers.

Diversity Luncheon
Friday, 12:00 p.m. – 1:15 p.m.

It certainly takes a lot of people, experience and effort to have an organization as strong as the ABA Forum on Construction Law, but it also requires the vision and guidance of strong, wise and able Forum Chairs. We are truly honored to have five diverse Chairs Emeriti of the Forum, who will each and all share their experiences with growing diversity in the industry as well as within the Forum, the importance and strength of diverse viewpoints and contributions, and really what it means to have diversity and diverse perspectives within an organization. Our own Leadership Panel, Deborah S. Ballati, Deborah Griffin, Larry Harris, Leslie King O’Neal and Mary McElroy, collectively have over a decade of experience in leadership of the Forum and well over a century of combined experience as construction lawyers. This is truly a unique opportunity to hear what these accomplished professionals have experienced in their own travels through our organization and the construction industry and see their vision for what the future will (and should) hold for the Forum and construction lawyers.

French Quarter Festival
Thursday through Sunday

Come for the program, and stay for French Quarter Festival, the renowned festival showcasing the unique culture and heritage of New Orleans. Visit fqfi.org/frenchquarter for more details.

DIVERSITY INITIATIVES

New Forum Diversity Initiative
The Forum will waive the registration fee for the first ten Forum members who register for each of the three national meetings of the Forum during the 2017 - 18 bar year who also register and bring along a diverse lawyer to his or her first national meeting of the Forum (a “first timer”), whose registration fee will also be waived. It could be a diverse young associate in the member’s office or a diverse lawyer on the other side of a case. The Forum member and the first timer must both commit to attend the program (offer limited to one per Forum member per bar year). In order to take advantage of this offer, Forum members must contact Tamara.Harrington@americanbar.org prior to registering for the program.

Forum Diversity Scholarship Opportunity
The Forum has Diversity Scholarships available for women and minority construction lawyers, construction lawyers with disabilities, and construction lawyers from the LGBT community for the cost of registration to the Forum’s 2018 Midwinter Meeting. See the Forum website under the announcement section or contact David Theising at DTheising@harrisonmoberly.com for more information.
SPONSORS AND EXHIBITORS
Visit Forum Sponsors in the Exhibitors Area! The Forum Exhibitors Area brings a variety of companies together in one place with capabilities fitting the unique needs of construction lawyers and Forum members. The Exhibitors Area will be open Thursday, April 12, 7:00 AM – 5:00 PM and Friday, April 13, 7:30 AM – 5:00 PM. Thanks to all of the Forum Sponsors for their continued support of the Forum!
