Topic: Free Town Hall: The Imperative of Prevention

Description
Please join this discussion regarding the ways in which commercial practice is evolving in response to the needs of corporate clients. Corporate clients increasingly express their preference for maintaining relationships and avoiding the cost and disruption of litigation. Prevention is the planning, monitoring and/or intervention necessary to stabilize a business relationship when tensions emerge and before the tensions gel into hardened positions or escalate into a formal legal conflict or claim.

The full set of negotiation skills is powerful and capable of more than settling lawsuits. With this skill set, neutrals, litigators, and business-people can intervene at the stage of mere disagreements, friction, or simple misunderstandings by initiating a pre-planned or contemporaneous process to address and resolve the tension constructively and preserve business relationships. With the inundation of lawsuits resulting from the pandemic, this is an opportune time for the implementation of prevention.

The format of this Town Hall will be primarily facilitated small group discussions focused on the implementation of this emerging trend. There will be short presentations setting the stage for the broader discussion.

Confirmed Speakers: Scott Partridge, General Counsel, Bayer; Allen Waxman, President and CEO, CPR; Ranse Howell, Director International Operations, JAMS; Rebecca Storrow, Vice President, AAA; Richard Hall, Cravath, Swaine & Moore; Steven Bierman, Sidley Austin, Ellen Parker, Consultant, CPR, Clarissa Rodriguez, Reich & Rodriguez.

Join corporate leaders, litigators, transaction lawyers, and neutrals to discuss the broader implementation of prevention and help identify ways in which you can help to lead rather than follow a trend that is emerging throughout the world.
