Banking & Savings Institutions
Chair: Yoram Keinan, Smith Gambrell & Russell LLP, New York, NY

- 8:15am Advising Financial Institutions in Times of Uncertainty. (Ethics Credit) The passage of the 2017 Tax Act in December 2017 resulted in significant changes to the international tax landscape in the United States. To fully implement the legislation which contains many unresolved issues and unanswered questions, Treasury and IRS are working hard on drafting and issuing regulations that once finalized, are expected to supplement the provisions of the Act. In the interim, for a period of almost 18 months, financial institutions are expected to operate, plan and comply with provisions which in part are yet to be published (section 7805(b)(2) allows the Treasury to issue regulations up to 18 months from the enactment date of the legislation with an effective date as of the date of the original legislation and without it being considered retroactive). In light of this unique situation, the panel will discuss how financial institutions and their tax advisers should operate in times of uncertainty and how to manage and minimize the risks associated.
  - Moderator: Shay Menuchin, KPMG, Toronto, ON
  - Panelist: Stow Lovejoy, Kostelanetz & Fink, New York, NY; Additional Panelist TBA

8:15AM – 11:30AM Individual & Family Taxation
Chair: James Creech, Law Offices of James Creech, San Francisco, CA

8:15am Unintended Gender Bias in Our Tax Laws. As the effects of the 2017 Tax Act on tax expenditures begin to take effect, some stakeholders have raised questions on the distribution of the benefits. For example, an October 2018 article in the New York Times reported that the cuts are “disproportionately helping white American over African-Americans and Latinos”. Congress has taken note, at least with respect to section 199A and the Senate has heard testimony on how the JCT’s distribution of the revenue loss of section 199A reflects an unintended gender bias. This panel will discuss gender bias particularly with respect to women business owners and small business tax incentives. 2017 Tax Act provisions covered include elimination of the alimony inclusion/deduction regime; section 162(q); the corporate tax rate cut, section 199A, and the changes to sections 179 and 168(k).
Moderator: Professor Anthony Infanti Sr., University of Pittsburgh School of Law, Pittsburgh, PA
Panelists: Professor Anne Bauer, University of Pittsburgh School of Law, Pittsburgh, PA; Professor Caroline Bruckner, American University and the Kogod Tax Policy Center, Washington, DC; Professor Annette Nellen, San Jose State University, San Jose, CA

Topics covered will include what types of contingency fee engagements are permitted, which types of engagements are prohibited, and how to approach those engagements without clear guidance while remaining in compliance with a practitioners' ethical responsibilities under Circular 230.
Panelists: Jonathan Strouse, Harrison and Held, Chicago, IL; Christopher Rizek, Caplin and Drysdale, Washington, DC; Karin Hawkins, Hawkins Law, Yachats, OR
10:15am Break.

10:30am The Current Filing Season: An Update on Some Issues Facing Practitioners and Taxpayers. Reducing burdens in the tax filing process is a key goal for policymakers. As the filing season is upon us, this panel will explore key ways that the IRS and Congress have attempted to make the process simpler for taxpayers, including the introduction of a postcard Form 1040, an increase in the standard deduction and the creation of an Annual Filing Season Program designed to give taxpayers greater information about the qualifications of unlicensed tax return preparers. Other changes, like the section 199A deduction for qualified business income and the growing importance of service providers in the platform economy, have the potential for creating additional complexities and compliance costs. At the same time, the government has been active in addressing bad actors among commercial tax return preparers through a sustained effort to obtain injunctions. This panel will offer a critical perspective on burdens in the filing process, offering views from the commercial tax return preparation industry, a consumer perspective and the government. This is the first of a two-part panel co-sponsored with the Pro Bono & Tax Clinic Committee exploring burdens in the filing and compliance process.

Moderator: Anna Tavis, Brooklyn Legal Services, New York, NY

Panelists: Ken Corbin, Commissioner, IRS Wage and Investment Division, Washington, DC; Kathy Pickering, Executive Director of The Tax Institute at H&R Block, Kansas City, MO; Vijay Raghavan, Consumer Fraud Bureau, Office of the Illinois Attorney General, Chicago, IL

8:30AM – 10:30AM
Transfer Pricing
Chair: Timothy S. Gunning, EY, New York, NY

8:30am  The Great BEAT Debate – A Rematch. Taxpayers and tax planners have struggled with myriad interpretative issues related to the new Base Erosion and Anti-Abuse Tax, more fondly known as the BEAT. The proposed regulations expected in late 2018 will doubtless provide enhanced clarity, but important questions surely remain. Moreover, the proposed regulations will raise new issues—in particular, with respect to Treasury’s interpretation of the BEAT’s significant statutory ambiguities and mixed policy implications. The amounts at stake are not small. And in some cases, the “right” answer is far from clear. Reprising a pre-regulations debate among the same debaters, this panel will explore the most critical issues under the newly proposed guidance through a point-counterpoint format, with panelists pairing off (and squaring off) to present the primary competing viewpoints. This lively format will enable audience members to more fully understand and evaluate the critical risks related to the proposed BEAT regulations and the factors that Treasury and the IRS may consider in finalizing guidance on the BEAT.
Moderator: Anne Gordon, PwC, Washington, DC

Tax Law Needs Couples Therapy: Alimony, Voss and Policy Considerations in Taxing Divorced and Unmarried Couples. Before their repeal by the 2017 Tax Act, former Sections 71, 215 and 682 of the Internal Revenue Code allowed payors to deduct alimony payments and required payees to treat the payments as taxable income. Alimony payments made under agreements or decrees governed by the 2017 Tax Act are not deductible by the payor and are not includible in the recipient’s income. This change is expected to raise revenue because the divorced couple’s taxable income will no longer be split between two taxpayers. Instead, the principal earner will be taxed, possibly at a high average rate, on all of his or her earnings. Since this tax will often be determined by the single taxpayer rate schedule, the overall annual tax burden on the divorced couple may be substantially greater than it was before the divorce. It may also be substantially greater than it would have been after the divorce under prior law. The 2017 Tax Act also made other changes in the law that affect divorce planning. The changes in the divorce context overall are expected to raise revenue from divorced couples. Critics of the new law argue that the alimony tax deduction has been an important incentive for settling family law cases, in part because it eased the financial impact of divorce. Proponents have characterized prior law as a “divorce subsidy” and cite non-compliance data.
(non-reporting of alimony income by some recipients). On the other hand, the new law basically puts divorced couples on the same playing field as couples in civil unions or domestic partnerships who may or may not have had the option of getting married. Strangely enough, a more noticeable divorce or non-marriage subsidy results under the 2015 9th Circuit Voss decision for some couples with higher incomes as a result of the limitations on deductions for mortgage interest and state taxes. Maybe it is time to rethink marriage as a special status involving shared income and expenses that differs from how other couples, those not married, handle their budgets. Our panel will present the competing arguments and discuss the practical and policy implications of the repeal.

GRATs and the Mathematics of Failure. Grantors of underwater grantor-retained annuity trusts ("GRATs") are often faced with two choices: let the GRAT ride out its course in the hopes that its underlying assets will appreciate rapidly enough to create a successful remainder or halt the GRAT by using a note or a swap power and effectively let it fail. This presentation will show that there is only one rational choice: if a two-year GRAT is to be successful at transferring wealth to its remainder beneficiaries, it must achieve significant positive returns in its first year; otherwise, its chances of success (or even breaking even) are staggeringly improbable. Using quantitative analysis to help guide us, we will help grantors know with more precision if and when a GRAT will fail and what to do about it. While quantitative in approach, no prior mathematics background is required.

3:00pm  Employment Tax Litigation. More than one-third of the country's workers participate in the gig economy. The gig economy also called the “sharing economy,” is the environment where workers engage in temporary jobs fueled by Smartphone apps and online platforms. The trend has led to an increase in employment tax controversies because many employers treat gig economy workers as independent contractors, as opposed to employees. The tax stakes are high because employers must pay a share of payroll taxes for workers while providing them with the fringe benefits traditionally offered to employees. The gig economy raises other tax issues, including the deductions that can be claimed by taxpayers who hold these jobs. This session will review the life-cycle of an employment tax case from to the SS-8 Program through the Tax Court trial, including settlement programs offered by the IRS to employers and employees and unexpected twists resulting from identity theft and immigration laws that affect worker classification.

Moderator: Frank Agostino, Agostino & Associates, Hackensack, NJ
Panelists: Rochelle Hodes, Crowe Horwath, Washington, DC; Additional Panelist TBA
4:15pm Break.
4:30pm Navigating Cross-Border Discovery Issues and the GDPR. At an increasing rate, US practitioners are facing matters, both civil and criminal, where the information they need or the IRS requests is located in a foreign jurisdiction. International audit requests and discovery presents complex and challenging issues for today’s tax litigators. With the Global Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) now in full effect as of May 25, 2018, as well as the data privacy laws of other countries like Mexico, practitioners face additional complications in gathering evidence and disclosing personal data to the IRS. This panel will explore how US discovery rules function outside of the US, the data collection procedures available through the Hague Convention and letters rogatory, obstacles to discovery under various countries’ data privacy laws and statutes, and how the GDPR, which covers data protection and privacy of all individuals within the EU as well as the export of personal data outside the EU, has, and will continue to, impact it all.

2:30pm Holding Companies – What to do After BEPS and US Tax Reform? Hold on to your hats - 2019 is set to be yet another eventful year in the world of international tax! With various EU anti-avoidance measures under ATAD already in force, revised bilateral tax treaties modified by the MLI coming into force in certain jurisdictions and not forgetting the UK’s imminent departure from the EU, there is much for US multinational enterprises to be mindful of. Set against this ever-changing political and tax landscape, this panel will guide you through the impact BEPS and US tax reform is having on international holding company structures in practice. Using case studies, the panel will discuss the impact that CFC rules, anti-hybrid rules, interest deductibility limitations and the introduction of a principal purpose test in many bilateral tax treaties will have on holding company structures. The panel will address how these measures overlap with BEAT, GILTI, FDII, the US interest limitation rules and other proposals introduced by the 2017 Tax Act. The panelists will also consider the benefits of, and what the future may hold for, international holding companies for US multinationals.

Chair: Professor Kerry Ryan, Saint Louis University, Saint Louis, MO

3:00pm Tax Advice in the Age of the 24-Hour News Cycle. Recent instances of exposure by the press of aggressive tax planning and tax avoidance by prominent businesses, individuals or families raise unique substantive, ethical, and other legal issues for the tax community. Practitioners advising famous clients may need to assess not only the likelihood of future examinations, but also public disclosure due to whistleblowers, cooperators, and data leaks. Reporters investigating past tax compliance may recruit tax professionals for technical assistance and expertise to uncover suspect transactions, unreported income, or improper deductions or credits. The release of such information, and related commentary from various media outlets, may pressure Federal and state tax authorities, law enforcement officials, or regulators to open audits or investigations that could result in substantial tax adjustments and/or various civil and criminal penalties. This panel will explore these issues from a variety of perspectives.

Moderator: Professor Lee-Ford Tritt, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL

Disability Severance Pay Refund Claims by Veterans. More than 130,000 US military veterans who were separated from service because of a medical disability are due federal income tax refunds for taxes they paid on Disability Severance Pay (DSP) that should not have been taxed. For those veterans who had taxes withheld from their DSP between 1991 and 2016, the Combat-Injured Veterans Tax Fairness Act of 2016 extends the period for affected veterans to file a claim for credit or refund of overpayments attributable to their DSP. A key aspect to these DSP refund claims is the required timeframes veterans have for filing claims: most veterans will need to file their claims within one year of July 2018 when letters were mailed. This panel will explain the claims process, issues associated with the claims, and other issues specific to veterans.

Moderator: David Sams, Community Tax Law Project, Richmond, VA
Panelists: Susan E. Mitchell, Senior Technical Advisor, Attorney Advisor Group, Taxpayer Advocate Service, IRS, Washington, DC; Wells Hall III, Nelson Mullins Riley & Scarborough LLP, Charlotte, NC

Ms. Olson’s Senior Advisor will be present to elaborate on key issues identified in the report.
Panelist: Kenneth J. Drexler, Senior Advisor to the National Taxpayer Advocate, IRS, Washington, DC

9:30am  Administrative Burden and Taxpayer Compliance: How to Improve the Taxpayer Experience. Administrative burden is a key variable in how citizens experience interactions with the state. Research from other disciplines has defined administrative burden and explored differing aspects of how those burdens affect people, including learning, psychological and compliance costs. In this panel we will explore the research around administrative burden more generally, consider its application in interactions with the IRS and taxpayers, including in the audit process, and offer suggestions on how IRS could reduce the incidence of these burdens on taxpayers, especially lower income taxpayers who are often least equipped to overcome those burdens. This is the second part of a two-part panel co-sponsored with the Individual & Family Tax Committee exploring burdens in the filing and compliance process.
Moderator: Susan Morgenstern, Local Taxpayer Advocate, Taxpayer Advocate Service, IRS, Cleveland, OH
Panelists: Professor Donald Moynihan, McCourt School of Public Policy, Georgetown University, Washington, DC and Visiting Professor, Oxford University, Oxford England; Professor Leslie Book, Charles Widger School of Law, Villanova University, Villanova, PA; Laura Baek, Acting Director, TAS Research and Analysis, Taxpayer Advocate Service, IRS, Washington, DC

Chair: Stacey Delich-Gould, Capital Group Private Client Services, New York, NY

8:30am  Current Developments. AK and Emily will review current developments in fiduciary income tax and Cathy Hughes will update the committee on developments within the Treasury and the Service.
Panelists: Catherine V. Hughes, Office of Tax Policy, Department of Treasury, Washington, DC; Anna Katherine (AK) Moody, Venable LLP, Washington, DC; Emily A. Plocki, Venable LLP, Washington, DC

9:00am  Trust Planning Opportunities under Section 1202. Section 1202 provides an incentive for taxpayers to invest in many types of small businesses by providing that some or all of the gains resulting from the sale of qualified small business stock can be realized tax-free. Jeff and Liz will discuss ways in which trusts may take advantage of section 1202 in light of the decreased corporate income tax rate enacted by the 2017 Tax Act.
Panelists: Jeffrey K. Gonya, Venable LLP, Baltimore, MD; Elizabeth F. Stieff, Venable LLP, Baltimore, MD

9:50am  Break.

10:00am  Alimony, Prenuptial Agreements and Trusts under the 2017 Tax Act. As with many large tax overhauls, sometimes lesser publicized changes also have a significant impact on taxpayers. With the 2017 Tax Act, some of these lesser publicized changes involve the income tax impact of divorce, which, in 2019 and beyond, will have far-reaching effects as a result of the elimination of alimony as an income/deduction item and the post-divorce continued grantor trust status of certain spousal trusts.

Panelists: George D. Karibjanian, Franklin Karibjanian & Law PLLC, Boca Raton, FL/
Washington, DC; Bri Loughlin, Winstead PC, Houston, TX

10:55am State Fiduciary Income Tax Developments. This panel will review the treatment of the state income taxation of trusts that has been evolving recently. The recent Supreme Court decision in Wayfair impacted state and local tax fundamentals and restrained the application in Quill, and the current request for certiorari to the Supreme Court in Koestner has heightened practitioners’ awareness. The recent Minnesota Supreme Court case of Fielding expands the nexus shifting ability of trusts and their founders. These 2018 fiduciary income tax cases have further challenged a state’s ability to tax a trust for state residency purposes and alerted practitioners advising trusts in other states to evaluate the constitutional basis regarding state taxation of trusts.

Panelists: David A. Berek, Baker & McKenzie LLP, Chicago, IL; Raj A. Malviya, Miller
Johnson, Grand Rapids, MI

8:30AM – 10:30AM

LLCs and LLPs Subcommittee of Partnerships & LLCs

recent case law and guidance on traditional sale, exchange, and basis issues, and section 1031 developments.

Panelist: David Shechtman, Drinker Biddle & Reath LLP, Philadelphia, PA

9:10am Where are the Opportunities in Qualified Opportunity Funds? Panelists will review the use of qualified opportunity funds in view of proposed regulations, and identify key questions that await future guidance.

Moderator: Alan S. Lederman, Gunster, Fort Lauderdale, FL

Panelists: Matthew E. Rappaport, Falcon Rappaport & Berkman PLLC, New York, NY; Julie Hanlon-Bolton, Special Counsel, IRS Associate Chief Counsel (Income Tax & Accounting), Washington, DC; Michael S. Novey, Associate Tax Legislative Counsel, Department of Treasury, Washington, DC

10:00am Break.

10:15am US Shareholder Basis in Foreign Corporations Post-Tax Reform. Following Tax Reform, US Shareholders of foreign corporations (as defined under section 951(b) face myriad issues regarding calculating basis of foreign corporations and its effect on their overall tax liability. The lack of clarity regarding how to calculate basis and adjustments thereto has become all the more pronounced over the past year. This panel will provide an overview of some of the most important aspects of Tax Reform’s effects on the basis of foreign corporations owned by US Shareholders, including the election to adjust bases due to the use of deficits to offset income inclusions from DFICs under 965 and 245A’s interrelationship with basis adjustments, 964, and 1248. Most important, however, this panel will take a deeper dive into 961 and 959 post-Tax Reform, including issues such as PTI in 959(c)(2) without corresponding basis, the ordering rules related to layers of PTI in the same 959(c) “bucket” for distributions, unresolved issues under the 959 and 961 regulations (including 304 transactions), and the proposed regulations promised by the IRS relating to 959 and 961 if they have been released prior to the panel.
