Shaina Goodman
Liaison from the National Resource Center on Domestic Violence

Shaina Goodman is the Policy Manager at the National Resource Center on Domestic Violence (Washington, DC office). In this role, Ms. Goodman provides programmatic leadership on the NRCDV’s administrative advocacy and policy-related technical assistance, with an emphasis on the intersection of domestic violence and family policy, economic justice, housing and public benefits. She develops and produces policy briefs, fact sheets, special collections and other technical assistance materials for domestic violence advocates and allied professionals, as well as engages in coalition building and outreach activities.

Ms. Goodman has prior experience in federal legislative and appropriations advocacy, grassroots organizing, and campus-based advocacy and training. She has done research on domestic violence in the Jewish community, the history of the domestic violence movement, and the effectiveness of dance movement therapy for domestic violence survivors and their children.

Ms. Goodman received her JD and a Master’s in Social Work, as well as a Bachelor’s degree in Women & Gender Studies, from Washington University in St. Louis.
