

James Brusslan

James Brusslan leads Levenfeld Pearlstein's Environmental Law Service Group. He has litigated matters relating to virtually all state and federal environmental laws on behalf of citizens, corporate clients and government bodies. James is a LEED® Accredited Professional, and has lectured on green leasing, LEED requirements, sustainability and citizen suits. He spearheaded Levenfeld Pearlstein's efforts to become the first Chicago-based law firm to join the Chicago Climate Exchange, in which the Firm has committed to calculate and offset its carbon dioxide emissions. He was also instrumental in implementing Levenfeld Pearlstein's commitment to become the first law firm in the United States to adopt the ABA Model Sustainability Policy and Implementation Guidelines. He recently authored the City of Chicago's proposed Green Business Ordinance.