Salli A. Swartz, Phillips Giraud Naud & Swartz, Financial Officer

Salli A. Swartz has practiced international business law in Paris since 1979. She began her career in Paris with the Paris-based law firm of S.G. Archibald where she specialized for over four years in ICC arbitrations of turn-key constructions projects in the Middle East. She then joined the French firm of Simeon Moquet Borde where she acquired broad corporate law experience and was the head Anglo-Saxon attorney on several major acquisitions and joint ventures between American and French companies. She subsequently practiced with Price Waterhouse, before founding Masson Piéron Swartz Beaucourt & Associés in 1988. In January 1999, she merged her practice with the firm of Phillips & Giraud which changed its name to Phillips Giraud Naud & Swartz.

Although she is specialized in international arbitrations and in mediations (she is an accredited mediator with the Chambre de Commerce et Industrie de Paris), her practice has involved the negotiation of aircraft leases, hydrocarbon development and production agreements, transnational joint venture and consortium agreements and complex industrial and intellectual property licensing agreements. She regularly advises French and other European subsidiaries of major American multinational companies in connection with their business activities in Europe and the Middle East and has recently advised many European and other clients with respect to compliance and other issues arising out of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, anti-boycott laws and the OECD Convention on Combating Bribery of Foreign Public Officials. She is regularly lead counsel on due diligence and negotiations in connection with transnational acquisitions and mergers.

She often lectures and most recently was a delegate to the ABA International Section International Legal Exchange Program in March 2007 to Accra (Ghana), Monrovia (Liberia) and Freetown (Sierra Leone). She teaches intellectual property at the Ecole National Supérieur des Arts & Métiers in Paris and international arbitration and mediation at the French business school Hautes Etudes Commerciales. She has also lectured at several French law and business schools on confidentiality and ethical conflicts between French, European and American ethical regulations. She is the author of four books, and co-editor and author of a chapter in "Careers in International Law", Co Editor on a book entitled "International Joint Ventures, and author of a chapter on "Selling Products in Foreign Countries-International Sales” in the book “Negotiating and Structuring International Commercial Transactions”.

She is a Member of the Pennsylvania and Paris Bars, with specializations in the Law of International Relations and Commercial Law, is admitted to practice before the French Courts, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the U.S. Court of International Trade and the U.S. Supreme Court and is Finance Officer of the International Section of the ABA of which she is a member of the Governing Council. She is also a member of the Business Law Section of the ABA, Vice Chair and Newsletter editor of the International Sales Committee of the International Bar Association and is the ABA liaison to the Union Internationale des Avocats.
