

Careers in Family Law

A Unique Learning Opportunity for Law Students

Wednesday, April 13th, 2005 from 3:30 pm – 5:00 pm

Hyatt Regency Austin, Austin Texas

Family law is a fast-growing, complex area of practice with an interstate and at times international character. Areas such as divorce, custody, adoption, alimony and support are within its scope, as are emerging issues such as third-party parental rights, child abduction, marital torts, federal and interstate legislation, mediation, and the complicated questions of paternity, perinatal drug addiction and genetic engineering.

A panel of practitioners from small and large firms, a solo practitioner, and a pro bono advocate will come together to discuss why they embarked on a career in family law and talk about the experiences and benefits they have gained over the years. Learn why family law is cutting edge in the new millennium, and why it's important to diversify its ranks, and how a career in family law can be professionally rewarding.

After the program, all attendees are invited to network with family law practitioners and the Section leadership at an informal reception.

The Panel:

Jacqueline Valdespino, Esq.

Mark Chinn, Esq.

Scott Friedman, Esq.

Jean Crowe, Esq.
