The hundreds of thousands of children who were displaced in the Katrina and Rita disasters continue to face daunting problems. This conference on April 20th features Professors Charles Ogletree and Lawrence Powell, along with distinguished panelists from Law, the Humanities, and the Social Sciences. The panels will focus on education rebuilding and reform, juvenile justice and foster care, and the implications from empirical data relating to the child survivors and their families. In a special pre-conference session on April 19th, survivors will share the insights gained from their experiences.

Thank you to Humanities Texas, Professor Martin Melosi, the Surviving Katrina and Rita in Houston Project, Tenneco Lecture Series, The Times-Picayune, and the University of Houston Law Center.
