The National Organization of Bar Counsel (NOBC) and the Association of Professional Responsibility Lawyers formed a Joint Commission on Aging Lawyers. The purpose was to study the challenges faced by “aging lawyers” and present solutions. Its report issued in 2005\(^1\) outlines many issues faced by lawyers as they go through what Lawrence-Lightfoot refers to as the “third chapter”\(^2\) of their lives, ages 50s through 70s. Issues included in the NOBC report include such areas as: advanced planning for the transfer or closing of a practice, identification of and responding to lawyers with age-related impairments, and support for senior lawyers continuing to practice…..
